About the Roosevelts.
Science Never Stops.
Germany's Decision.
Single Tax Comfort.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SOME AMERICANS lack political information. The widow of the late Theodore Roosevelt received three hundred letters congratulating her on the nomination of her "husband" when Gov. Roosevelt was nominated.

Thousands of voters think Gov. Roosevelt is Theodore Roosevelt's son or brother. The fact is that they are distant cousins, both dating back to a certain Roosevelt of six or seven generations back.

IF FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT is elected president in November, his will be the third family to supply two presidents each to the United States. The other two were the Harrisons and the Adamses.

The Roosevelt name, of Dutch origin, goes back a long way, into the twelfth century. It was originally Rosenveldt, meaning "A field of roses."

The Roosevelt family is not of Jewish origin, although many have believed that such was the case.

WHILE GOV. ROOSEVELT is a very distant cousin of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, his wife, who was Eleanor Roosevelt, daughter of the late President Roosevelt's brother, Elliot, is a close relation of Theodore Roosevelt, being a first cousin of Alice Roosevelt Longworth and the other children of Theodore Roosevelt.

SCIENCE GOES on steadily, no matter what happens to stocks, taxes, elections, etc. Forty-six years ago, Roentgen discovered his "X-rays" and physicians used them to look through the flesh into human and animal bodies.

Sunday supplements printed interesting, hazy pictures showing skeletons of rats inside the rats, and skeletons of ladies and gentlemen inside the living bodies.

TO MAKE a dim X-ray picture of a human hand required twenty minutes. Now in New York's Cornell Medical Center X-ray snapshots will be taken at the rate of 120 per second, or seven times as fast as the eye can take pictures.

Credit for this scientific improvement is due chiefly to Dr. W. D. Coolidge, of Schenectady, and much credit is due to the General Electric Company, which provides the laboratories in which Dr. Coolidge and his associates work, and to other great industrial organizations that, without any mean emphasis on immediate profit, encourage scientific investigation of every kind.

YOU WILL READ today the results of voting in Germany, important to the world. If the highly intelligent, thoroughly educated German people should turn reactionary toward Hitler, or dangerously radical toward Communism, that would mean more trouble.

It is to be hoped that the Germans, having achieved the right to govern themselves and decide questions, including war, for themselves, will protect their country from dangerous extremes on both sides.

The dictatorship of Von Papen, established by the fiat of Hindenburg, and the highly applauded statement of Gen. Von Schleicher that Germany would arm and prepare for war and let the rest of Europe consent to disarm, shows leaning toward old German conservatism.

NEW YORK CITY has a big taxation problem. It should comfort single taxers to know that real estate pays more than 72 per cent of the city's expenses, which real estate owners consider a fairly good imitation of the single tax. They demand a reduction of three billions in assessments on their property.

Personal property, which includes tens of billions of stocks and bonds and other possessions of rich individuals, pays only two per cent of the total cost. The explanation is that you can hide, conceal or evade taxation on personal property. You can't conceal a skyscraper or a tenement house.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED believers in the made to "universal language," Esperanto, now gathered in Paris come from 34 countries and speak 24 different languages.

During the convention they all only speak Esperanto. May they enjoy it.

It is no more a language than rag-doll is a real baby. You cannot successfully create a new human being or human language except by nature's process. Esperanto is a foreign language unpopular chiefly because of its method. Esperanto, repulsive to the linguist, has not, and cannot all have, a literature worthwhile.

THE UNIVERSAL language will appear when human beings are ready for it, made up of many other languages as existing languages are made up of many. English has the best chance of survival, in spite of the Spaniard's proud saying:

"Italian is the language of women, French of diplomats. Spanish of heroes, and English of horses."

English is the language of Shakespeare, and that counts.

A CHICAGO physician shows that water snails, sometimes kept in an aquarium with other creatures to educate and amuse children, may be bearers of a serious disease.

The parasite called the "blood fluke" or blood worm, often found in tropical countries, devastates the blood of human beings [illegible] river.

Johnstown Mayor to Back Meeting Ban With Police

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 1.—A clash between Communists and city authorities appeared imminent today. Mayor Eddie McCloskey prepared to marshal forces to prevent a Communist meeting in Central, which the Mayor had banned.

Johnstown is tolerating the army invited by Mayor McCloskey. Gov. Gifford Pinchot today sent a wire to the people of Johnstown asking patience and promised to visit the camp.

BUTLER SPURNS OFFER

Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, retired Marine officer, today refused the request of the Mayor to come here and take over supervision of the army.

As famine and disease stalked the ragged remnants of the Bonus Expeditionary Force camped at Ben's Creek, Red Cross officials turned down a request for aid.

A request for aid, sent to President Hoover, went unanswered. Meanwhile messages were received from outside sources promising additional food and telling of contingents forming in various sections to join the army.

An offer of another permanent camp site was received from M. J. H. Herwig, Tilden Hall, Washington, of 400 acres at Upperville, Va., 50 miles from Washington. Sam J. Burger, New York theatrical producer, offered to stage a benefit show in New York to raise funds in a campaign in Greater New York.

A daughter was born to one woman; two children of another were taken ill and more than a score of adults received medical attention at hospitals.

APPEALS TO RED CROSS

To the Red Cross Mayor McCloskey sent the following urgent appeal:

"Thousands of men, women and children, whose homes were destroyed by fire in Washington, are stranded here. They are in desperate need of food, clothing, medical supplies and transportation. In the name of humanity and common decency, please show you are Americans by rushing aid. The situation will

Dr. Rinehart Ill; Novelist at Bedside

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Mary Roberts Rinehart, noted American novelist, was here today at the bedside of her husband, Dr. Stanley Rinehart, 63, of Washington, who is in Faxton Hospital suffering from pneumonia. His condition, hospital attaches said, remained serious today. Mrs. Rinehart arrived from Old Forge, where they have been vacationing.

Woman Flier Fails In Endurance Flight

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Victor Bruce, who took off this morning in an elaborately equipped amphibian plane to establish a new endurance flight, was forced down an hour after the start.

Water got into the high tension generator causing a short circuit which put out the lights and disabled the wireless.

Nudists Attacked By Mexican Mob

TORREON, Mexico, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—An infuriated mob engaged in a bitter fight today in an attempt to lynch a group of nudists who were conducting a nude orgy.

Troops were called to save the celebrants from the crowd. Ten of the nudists were arrested.

Seeks Record

MRS. LOUISE THADEN

The former Pittsburgh aviatrix who, with Mrs. Frances Harrel Marcelis, of Centerville (Miss.), will begin an attempt to break the women's endurance flight record of 120 hours at Curtiss Field, Long Island. Mrs. Thaden is now a resident of Baltimore.

PINCHOT PLANS TO VISIT VETS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—A visit to the bonus veterans' camp at Johnstown is planned by Gov. Pinchot, he announced today. The Governor said he planned to go to Johnstown and talk with the men, if the activities of the special session permit.

In announcing his intention of visiting the veterans' camp the Governor took occasion to criticize the Washington authorities for ejecting them from the national capital.

The Governor is keeping in close touch with developments through the state police and his own investigators. He said in a statement:

"The bonus marchers have shown far more restraint than the Washington authorities. The great majority of them did nothing to deserve treatment that would have been cruel if they had been Chinese coolies. It is hard to see what they could have done that would justify a night attack with tear gas and tanks on camps containing hundreds of women and children.

"A little forbearance, a little common sense, and a couple of hundred men like the Pennsylvania state police would have moved them, if they had to be moved, without breaking any bones. The whole business was brutal, stupid, and altogether unnecessary.

"Would you use a steam shovel to scratch a mosquito bite? Not unless you lost your head.

"If I can get away from the extra session for half a day, I want to have a look at the Johnstown camp and a talk with its leaders. I expect to find them reasonable men."

COLLINS QUITS AS MEMBER OF P. S. C.

Resignation Accepted By Pinchot; Retires On October 1

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—Public Service Commissioner Emerson Collins today sent his resignation jointly to Gov. Pinchot and the Senate.

It is to become effective October 1. Gov. Pinchot accepted it immediately.

A resignation in that form was acceptable to the Governor, who had asked the removal of Collins on charges of inefficiency and neglect of duty.

The Senate will adopt a resolution before adjournment of the special session declaring Collins' office vacated October 1.

Collins, according to the Governor, has been so ill for 30 months that he has been unable to attend his duties.

He had been summoned to appear before the Governor this afternoon to defend himself against the charge of neglect of duty, and to show cause why he should not be removed.

Meanwhile regular Republican leaders were considering a course to be followed with respect to the demand of Gov. Pinchot that Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, of the commission be removed on charges of misconduct in office.

W. L. Mellon, who returned to Pittsburgh today from a vacation in Canada, is to be consulted.

LEADERS SLAIN, HITLER BALKED

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Bombs burst and guns blazed early today on the heels of yesterday's elections and two persons prominently connected with the Communist and Socialist parties were killed at Koenigsberg. Three others were wounded.

Those wounded were Walter Schuetz, Communist, who was elected to the Reichstag in yesterday's voting; his daughter, and the chief editor of the Socialist newspaper Volkszeitung. The Telegraphen Union said Herr Sauff, leader of the Koenigsberg organization, and another Communist were slain.

BOMBS EXPLODED

Bombs were exploded in the Socialist headquarters there, the Otto Braun Haus and the building of the newspaper Hartungsche Zeitung.

At Brunswick a man was killed and several were injured when a

BIG N. Y. HOTEL ROCKED BY FATAL BLAST

3 Known Dead, Gems In Store Scattered By Explosion

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—An explosion shook the 42-story Ritz Tower Hotel in Park avenue today, killing or seriously injuring at least a dozen men, blowing in the fronts of stores and scattering a fortune in jewels in the street.

The explosion occurred in the paint shop three stories below the street while firemen were fighting a basement fire.

The first of the dead to be identified was Lieut. James Hartnett, of the Sixteenth Truck Company, and Thomas S. Finn, of Engine 65.

Fireman James F. Greene, of Engine Company No. 65, died of his injuries in Bellevue Hospital, where two others were reported dying.

Ten others were carried from the hotel seriously injured and were treated at an emergency hospital in the street.

OTHERS FEARED TRAPPED

Reports were that there still were two bodies and a dozen more injured persons in the lower basement.

One of the stores which was demolished was the jewelry shop of Thomas Kirkpatrick in the Fifty-seventh street side of the hotel.

The whole front was smashed in, two clerks were severely cut by flying glass, and more than $100,000 in gems were strewn in the debris cluttered street.

Sitting in the ruins of his store, weeping, Kirkpatrick said that among other jewels blasted from the shop window were two diamond brooches worth $10,000 each, an emerald ring worth $12,000, and a pearl necklace worth $65,000.

A special detachment of detectives was assigned to the injured Kirkpatrick clerks as they hunted through the wreckage in Fifty-seventh street for the missing jewels.

BLAST CUTS POWER

The explosion cut off all power in the hotel and elevator service stopped. Guests were not allowed to leave and only the police could enter.

Smoke from the fire, which continued after the explosion, drifted up through elevator shafts and poured like a black plume from the highest tower. Great suction pipes were run into the basement from the street to clear the interior sufficiently to let firemen fight the subterranean blaze.

Thirty firemen were at work in the underground paint shop when the explosion occurred. Most of them were unable to get to the street, many being unconscious, and firemen who responded to the second alarm and members of six police rescue squads hoisted them to the street level by means of ropes.

As thousands of onlookers watched with bared heads four priests administered last rites to the dying and annointed the dead.

Pittsburgher Refuses To Run With Coxey

Herman Stratman, 45, Pittsburgh accountant, today refused to be the vice presidential candidate on the Farmer Labor Party's ticket. He decided to lend his support to Mayor John Reiter, Minneapolis. The new nominee will be selected by the national committee at Omaha, Neb., August 3. Frank E. Webb withdrew because he believed the man should come from the east. Webb lives in San Francisco, Cal.

No Lesson in Charity In Expulsion of Vets, Says Foreign Press

THE EXPULSION of the veterans from Washington has reverberated through the world.

From England, France, Russia, South America and even the Orient come expressions of startled surprise and incredulity.

The Manchester Guardian, foremost Liberal organ in England, says of the veterans:

"They did nothing wrong but to stay where they were not wanted. Their conduct on the whole has been wonderfully pacific."

Commenting on the administration's rather feeble excuse that the local authorities were unable to maintain law and order, it observes:

"There is no evidence the demonstrators were getting out of hand. They offered no serious resistance. Their quarters have been burned down. They are destitute."

THE FRENCH PRESS seizes on the irony of President Hoover's swift recourse to armed force, on the most flimsy of pretexts, while entreating the world to discard it altogether and to follow his leadership toward universal disarmament.

In South America, where communism is conceded to have played a large part in the recent revolutionary disturbances, the trend of press comment is to warn against using so heavy a hand against civilians, as tending to drive men to despair and violence.

"South America," says a leading journal, "has many things to learn from the United States but not about charity and human kindness."

"The war veterans," says a Buenos Aires editorial, "who went with outstretched arms to ask the United States government to save them from perishing of hunger were received by the head of the most powerful nation of the world with tear gas and machine guns."

"COLD-BLOODED," "inopportune," "small-hearted" are among the characterizations applied to President Hoover's course by the press of the world.

And its tone is echoed by the most influential organs of opinion throughout the United States.

A sorry day's work, Mr. President and Gen. MacArthur!

An opportunity lost for a broad display of the human kindliness which is so basic and so sweet a trait of our people!

A burning issue intensified, which will be settled only when it is settled RIGHT, and WHEN THE HEART AND CONSCIENCE OF AMERICA SPEAK AND NOT ITS ARMY!

'Prussianism' of Hoover Attack Scored Abroad

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(Universal.)—England is horrified at President Hoover's action in calling out troops against the homeless bonus army in Washington, and the "battle of Washington" is treated here as the most outstanding American sensation of the year.

The Sunday Referee, a weekly read throughout the nation, under the headline "Prussianism at Washington," declared:

"The affair of the war veterans outside the Capitol has left a nasty taste in the mouth of the public.

"President Hoover will go to the polls with blood on his record.

"It will hardly advance his chances of success. It was a rotten, miserable affair, this threat to use tanks, tear gas and machine guns against men who, however misguided, deserve well of their country.

"It was a brutal Prussian affair. War veterans ought not to be treated like gangsters, even when they become unruly, especially when—like the men who camped outside the Capitol—they have a certain amount of reason and justice on their side.

"Old soldiers never die. They have the habit of living to breed sons like them—only more so."

The liberal Manchester Guardian, most quoted of all English newspapers, says:

"The veterans' conduct, on the whole, has been wonderfully pacific. They did nothing wrong but to stay where they were not wanted.

"Troops were brought in because the local authorities were unable to maintain law and order,' but there is no evidence the demonstrators were getting out of hand.

"They offered no serious resistance. Their quarters have been burned down. They are destitute.

"It is an extraordinarily unhappy affair, but in a country

THREE CLUES TO SLAYERS FOUND

Betrayer Who Lured Racket Leader to Death Spot Known

The bullet-ripped bodies of the racketeering Volpe brothers were removed from the face of the earth today while homicide detectives worked on three clues which may lead to the identity of the killers.

Seven thousand or more curious tried to push up to the doors of the Volpe apartment in Wilmerding to see the steel-gray caskets containing the massacred underworld leaders hauled away, to peer through the thin black veils of the weeping widows, to watch for politicians who might dare (but didn't) recognize in death the same Volpes they respected in life.

State police, Wilmerding police, homicide detectives mingled among the crowd, but none of them with more freedom than a score or more strong-armed Volpe henchmen, there to protect their departed bosses from photographers and reporters.

TRAFFIC DETOURED

All traffic along the funeral route was detoured, most of Wilmerding's shops were closed, and for a mile along the Lincoln Highway outside the Grandview Cemetery in East McKeesport automobiles were parked as closely as the Volpe gang had cased its bottles of bootleg booze against the other.

There were no church services. Instead, a Catholic priest fought his way thro

Magee Flying Here To Recover Heal

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—James M. Magee, state secretary and commissioner, injured in an automobile crash at Lemoyne several weeks ago, was to fly to Pittsburgh in a private plane this afternoon following his discharge from the Harrisburg Hospital, where he has been a patient. Magee plans to go and rest for a month at his Pittsburgh home before returning to the capital.

Mrs. Magee and Magee's son will accompany it to the city, Mrs. J. V. Scaife, will accompany it to the airport.

Armed Union Mine Besiege 100 in

PIMENTO, Ind., Aug. 1.—(INS.)—An angry mob of union miners armed with guns and clubs trapped 100 non-union employes at the Dixie Bee coal mine near here today, according to reports.

The unionists threw a cordon about the mine property and began a siege. There was a likelihood that National Guard troops would be summoned to the scene.

Powers Papers Gone Attorney Summoned

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—All records dealing with the trial of Harry F. Powers, mass murderer, who died on the scaffold March 18 at Moundsville, have with the exception of court order books, have disappeared from the Great office of the Harrison County Circuit Clerk.

As a result, J. E. Law, who served as Powers' attorney, has been ordered to appear in criminal court tomorrow to explain.

the curious crowd and spent 15 minutes in the Volpe apartments at Bridge and Middle streets, in the heart of Wilmerding's foreign colony.

Then the caskets came down. Admirers of the deceased pushed for a view of the pallbearers placing a blanket of flowers on each casket as it was pushed into a funeral car.

First came the casket of the boss Johnny, his checkered suits, his blinding diamonds, his flashy 16-cylinder roadster now simply items of his estate. Leader in their racket life, he led them to the cemetery—Arthur and Jim, the younger brothers, who had listened to his every word.

In the first two mourners' cars were the pallbearers. Who they might be remained a secret with the Volpes and their friends.

WIDOWS IN ONE CAR

Then came the three widows, alone in one car. Next were Guy Volpe, Millay Volpe, younger brothers of Johnny, and their wives. And the wife of Louis Volpe.

Down Middle avenue, up Airbrake avenue the procession proceeded, no traffic to bar its way. As the cars neared Grandview Cemetery in East McKeesport hundreds left their parked cars, the better to watch.

In the cemetery the widows and the remaining brothers stayed in their cars, blinds drawn, while ordinary rough boxes were lowered into the earth. The pallbearers knelt in prayer, a few wept. None of the children of the dead were allowed to see their father laid away.

While workmen assembled the floral tributes about the graves, the thousands tramped out of the cemetery, the spectacle ended.

If Johnny Volpe had boasted in life of his descent from the titled Volpes of Italy and of his ascent to a place in political councils of Allegheny County, he might have been cynical if he could have noted the absence of his political friends today.

Perhaps, too, he would have liked to have been in that coffee shop at 704 Wylie avenue—headquarters of his rackets—to see Sam Bazzano reluctantly re-enact for homicide detectives the massacre of last Friday. It was then, in daylight, that three gunmen strode in, pumped the three Volpes full of bullets and sped away.

Bazzano, an employe of the coffee shop, found hiding there after the shooting, continued to insist that he did not know the murderers.

FIREARMS CHARGE

Lieut. Frank Ferris, of the homicide squad, made certain today that Bazzano would not be released from custody when he resurrected an old law to charge him with possessing firearms as an alien. This came after Bazzano had refused to sign a statement.

Another clue which developed today was revealed when Lieut. Ferris telegraphed Cleveland police to arrest Sam Paggano, whom Ferris regards as an important source of information. It was in Paggano's name that the license plates on the killer's car were registered.

More concerned in finding the three gunmen than in the final disposition of the racketeers' bodies, Lieut. Ferris revealed that Johnny Volpe, the domineering boss of the Volpe ring, had been hurried by "a friend" from a downtown barber shop to the Wylie avenue coffee shop last Friday afternoon. A few minutes later he and his brothers were dead to death.

"His betrayer will be taken into custody today, Ferris promised.

Volpe was enjoying his daily shave in Frank Manna's shop at 704 Fifth avenue when the underworld Judas rushed in and told the dapper Johnny he was needed at once at his Wylie avenue headquarters, Ferris said.

Johnny replied:

"All right, I'll be up in a few minutes."

"No, I can't wait. Come right away."

Johnny reluctantly dragged himself away from the barber's ministrations, which helped to make him the well-groomed, if shady racketeer, only to serve as target with his brothers for gangsters' guns.

GUNNESSES SOUGHT

Ferris also hoped to put handcuffs today on three witnesses said to have sat in the coffee shop and watched the line of lead that ripped into the Volpes last Friday afternoon. Perhaps they can supply a clue to the identity of the three gunmen said to have been imported by jealous local racketeers who resented the Volpes' "muscling in" on Pittsburgh booze and numbers rackets.

This resentment had been carried out too well, as replacing the vengeance sworn by the Volpe survivors as they prepared to follow the three caskets in Wilmerding to the Grandview Cemetery.

Two of those who attended the funeral are young Joseph and Louis Volpe, brothers of the dead racketeers. Joseph was recently released on bond from assault and battery charges brought by a girl.

Louis was let out of the county jail at 7:30 o'clock today by order of Federal Judge R. M. Gibson. He must return tonight. With him all day will be United States Deputy Marshal David A. Goldman.

His temporary release from jail was accompanied by a street fight started by a protecting friend.

A newspaper photographer, Paul Rodgers, was snapping Volpe's picture when the friend, Tony Yerce, 24, of Wilmerding, waiting with other Volpe admirers in an auto outside the jail, tried to interfere, the police reported.

BOTH ARRESTED

They were both arrested and charged with disorderly conduct by the crew of a police patrol, which happened to be passing. Yerce was cut over the eye.

Both were released on the disorderly conduct charges, but Yerce was held for court when Rodgers preferred charges of aggravated assault and battery against him.

The funeral disposed of, police and detectives may concentrate on the orders of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh to bring in for questioning all racketeers known to have any connection with the Volpes. Mayor Kline, who, on Saturday, called the massacre brutal and outrageous, was due back from his summer home at Madison Lakelands, O.

Tracing of ownership of one of the murder guns yesterday revealed that the pistol was stolen from S. J. Gully, a former banker and proprietor of a jewelry store in Farrell, Pa., when his shop was robbed last year. Another gun, detectives learned, was bought in Philadelphia.

BROTHER QUESTIONED

Detectives yesterday questioned Guy Volpe, brother of dead Arthur, John and Jim, and the three widows. The widows, the sleuths said, were hysterical during the questioning.

God was invoked by the women to wreak His vengeance on the men whose guns poured death into the brothers, detectives said. The widows and Mrs. Frances Volpe, widow of Chester, killed in an auto wreck last winter, will be questioned again tomorrow, Ferris said.

It was said that when the Volpes came into Pittsburgh, their Wilmerding connections partly ruined by last fall's elections, they brought with them all the connections they had formed in years of bootlegging throughout this district. A powerful political gobetween is said to have secured for them the alcohol concession in the Hill district.

'NUMBERS' RACKET

Then the boys muscled in on the "numbers" racket in a big way. Old established, "respectable" numbers men backed down before their show of force. Soon the biggest pool in Pittsburgh was headed by the Volpes, who took their share of the winnings and passed on the losses to their partners.

Their liquor interests, meanwhile, spread out into other districts and friction developed. Most plausible theory of the shooting is that this friction caused importation of hired assassins and the death of the three brothers.

Some in the underworld speculated today on the possible connection of a prominent Italian liquor wholesaler, retailer and numbers racketeer with the case. He was known to have had intimate dealings with the Volpes.

The murder car was observed Friday morning parked at Forbes and Seneca streets within a block and one-half of that racketeer's popular speakeasy. A man was seen to get out of the car and walk down Forbes street toward Brady street, in the direction of the saloon.

AUTOMOBILE FOUND

Later, the automobile, after the murder, was found on the same spot. The three occupants, suspected of the murder ran up Seneca street toward Fifth avenue on which, just a block or so away, is the "numbers" joint which this racketeer formerly operated.

HONOR PIONEER IN SAXONBURG

SAXONBURG, Pa., Aug. 1.—Saxonburg today was paying tribute to John A. Roebling, pioneer settler and bridge builder, as part of the week's celebration at the centennial anniversary of the community. Flags and banners waved along the streets of the town and old Roebling antiques were on display in the town hall.

Wreaths were to be placed on the grave of Roebling, the man who 100 years ago led a group of men and women settlers from Germany and then on by wagon and canal to Butler County to found Saxonburg. School children and adults were to parade through the town to the cemetery to the grave of Roebling to honor the inventor and bridge builder. Roebling is the builder of the Brooklyn Bridge.

During the afternoon there were to be speeches lauding the memory of Roebling and tonight there will be motion pictures on bridge building. There also is an old-time dance scheduled tonight. The remainder of the week's program include water battles by the firemen, a firemen's parade, a program of pantomimes by school children and a historical pageant.

Man Who Wanted Jail Sentence Gets Wish

Wishes fulfilled and promises kept went hand-in-hand for George Fruzsa, 48, without a home, today. Arrested in Mission Hills, Mt. Lebanon, for panhandling, he wished he would receive a jail sentence. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Eugene Bishop twice before, Fruzsa was promised a 30-day sentence next time. Bishop remembered, kept his promise.

CABINET SCANS 5-DAY WEEK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Ways of increasing the use of the five-day week in industry and of spreading employment among a larger number of workmen were sought today at conference with cabinet members by a group of New England leaders.

Preliminary to a discussion with President Hoover tonight, the New Englanders conferred with Secretary Lamont at the Commerce Department and later with Secretary Doak at the Labor Department.

RAIL POLICIES STUDIED BY ROOSEVELT

N. Y. Governor Confers With Willard and Labor Leader

By RALMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ALBANY, Aug. 1.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt forged ahead today in the shaping of the policies which he will pursue in an effort to place the railroads of the country on a sound financial basis, in the event of his election as President.

He conferred over the luncheon table at the executive mansion with Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, on "what could and should be done" by the federal government to revivify the railroads. The Governor explained:

"We talked general railroad economics. We went over the whole situation."

Later in the day Roosevelt was to discuss the subject of shorter working hours with John Sullivan, president of the New York State Federation of Labor.

Gov. Roosevelt appeared pleased by the announcement of Gov. Joseph B. Ely, leader of the Smith forces in Massachusetts, pledging his support to the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

The Governor expects to complete his study of Mayor James J. Walker's answer to the removal charges by tomorrow. His hope of being able to take some action within 10 days has been shattered by a letter which he received from Samuel Seabury, who filed the removal charges, saying he desired to reply to the Mayor's answer.

TUNNEY SPEAKS FOR ROOSEVELT

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney, making the longest speech of his career as a stump speaker for the Democratic party, charged yesterday that the Republican party is "using every trick of a magician in a desperate effort to pretend that things are better."

He said during a 15-minute speech at an outing of the Stamford Young Men's Democratic Club:

"The government has been more interested in stocks and bonds and the ticker tape than it has been in human beings, and the common man finds himself out in the cold without jobs—his wife and family hungry."

Slain Man Identified As Lindy Suspect

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Through fingerprint records received today from St. Paul, Minn., police established definitely that the New York bootlegger slain by gunmen in St. Paul a week ago was Abe Wagner, who had been sought for months for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

Here on Way to Olympics

MARY PICKFORD . . . . DENIES SHE'S GARBO IN DISGUISE

Screen luminary and wife of Douglas Fairbanks, as she stepped from a plane at Municipal Airport during a 10-minute stopover on her way to Los Angeles, where she's to be an Olympic Games hostess. She was a little shaken and sleepy after her flight across the mountains to Pittsburgh. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

MARY PICKFORD GREETED HERE

Mary Pickford is due in Hollywood today, after a flight from New York by way of Pittsburgh.

Reporters surrounded her during her 10-minute stay at Municipal Airport yesterday. A little sleepy and shaken somewhat by her trip over the mountains, the pretty blonde wife of Douglas Fairbanks was met by a large crowd at the field. She said:

"Yes, I'm sure I'm not Greta Garbo. I'd have to grow a foot or so for that, wouldn't I?"

Someone from the crowd called:

"You bet, Miss Pickford, you'd have to grow both feet."

Mary carried on:

"My next picture's going to be 'Secret,' an old stage show. It's a dandy.

"I'm giving a party for about 200 at the Olympic games this week.

"Oh, my yes—I'm still with Douglas. Here's a wire from him telling me to hurry home."

On the same plane rode the Countess of Frasso, Italy; H. E. Talbot and Ford Johnson, aviation executives, all bound for Los Angeles.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure is centered over Eastern Ontario and extends down over the Atlantis Coast states. It is attended by clear skies as far west as Indiana. In the West low pressure is dominating the weather, the center being over Saskatchewan, low, but pressures reported 29.40 inches, at Prince Albert, and extends southward over the plains states to Texas. The low is producing cloudy weather over most of the country west of Ohio and showers and thunderstorms over the plains states and eastward over Illinois. There was a general rise in temperature over the country since yesterday morning, but there were no high maximum temperatures yesterday except in Kansas and southward over Oklahoma and Texas, where 100 to 102 degrees occurred.

G. O. P. EXPECTS COOLIDGE AID

RUTLAND, Vt., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican National Committee, after a week-end visit at the Plymouth summer home of Calvin Coolidge, reaffirmed an earlier statement that the former President probably would take part in the campaign to re-elect President Hoover.

As he boarded a train for Chicago yesterday to perfect plans for the opening of the Hoover campaign, Sanders said he did not know just what part Mr. Coolidge would take in the campaign, as that phase was not discussed during the visit.

The Republican committee chairman, who arrived at the Coolidge home Saturday afternoon, emphasized the fact he had been invited to visit the Coolidges before he took over the management of the Republican campaign and that he previously had planned to spend a much longer time at Plymouth.

Mayor Walker Seen In Governor Race

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—The Times says Mayor James J. Walker will seek the Democratic nomination for Governor if he is removed from office by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The source of the information was not given, but the Times said it was "unimpeachable." Rumors of such a plan had been current for some time, the paper said, and had been treated by Roosevelt leaders as a "bluff or threat."

LINK SENATORS IN GANGSTER TRAGEDY

Officials Involved by Pictures Found With Slain Girl, Man

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Identification by fingerprints of "Robert L. Conroy," killed in an apartment here, as Robert Newberry, notorious criminal, was announced in Detroit today by Inspector William Collins, of that city's holdup squad.

Found dead with Newberry was a platinum-haired woman with whom he occupied a dingy flat in which was counterfeiting equipment and a little black book hinting at blackmail reaching into high places.

PHOTOGRAPHS CLUE

The book was said to contain the names of two United States senators and many other prominent persons. Officers also found several photographs in each of which the deceased woman was shown with a different man, in poses and settings lending them value for blackmailing. In every picture, the face of the man was distinct, although it was apparent the photographs were taken with the subject's knowledge.

A window shade flapping in the wind and revealing a light that burned constantly for two days and two nights caused neighbors to call police yesterday. Breaking in, they found the man and woman dead. Police decided after a thorough examination that Newberry had shot the woman twice and then killed himself.

What prompted the murder and suicide was difficult to determine. The woman was fully clothed even to a light coat and hat. She was about 28.

BOGUS MONEY FOUND

In the room was a press on which counterfeit bills were printed. Bogus $5 notes were laid out carefully on blotting paper to dry.

Newberry was wanted in Detroit for a double murder and for bail jumping. He was accused of killing policemen in Cincinnati and Toledo, and his name had been connected with other slayings and with eight bank robberies.

bomb exploded on the doorstep of the home of the socialist mayor.

One man was killed and many were wounded in fights between Nazis and Communists in Colditz and Grosschoenau, both in Saxony.

At Hamburg one man was killed and a number of others, including two policemen, were injured in street fights and there were similar disorders in half a dozen villages of Schleswig-Holstein.

HITLER BELIEVED STOPPED

Meanwhile, it was generally agreed that Adolf Hitler's push for complete power in Germany was stopped today.

The question, following yesterday's elections, was whether the present government under the Junker-soldier Gen. von Schleicher, would continue or whether Hitler could negotiate an alliance with former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening.

Hitler and his Nazi followers doubled their strength in the Richstag over four years ago, but fell far short of achieving the clear majority they sought, receiving little more than one-third of the total vote.

SEAT APPORTIONMENT

The official apportionment of seats indicated the new Reichstag will have 604 members, distributed among the parties as follows:

Nazis, 229; Socialists, 133; Centrists, 37; Populists, 7; Christian Socialists, 4; Economic party, 2; Agricultural Alliance, 2; Farmers' Federation, 2; State's party, 3; Farmers'-party, 1.

At Munich, however, Hitler issued a statement to his followers in which he called the election "our greatest success" and pledged them to "carry on the fight with unabated vigor."

18 Rum Deaths Terrify N. Y. 'Smoke' Drinkers

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—"Smoke," the cheap, poisonous drink of the East Side waterfront with which many of the vagrants and down-and-outers seek forgetfulness, was held responsible by police today for 18 week-end deaths.

Fear was apparent among the loiterers who have been in the habit of spending panhandled dimes for "smoke" in the dives that mark the squalid section. Word of the deaths had spread, but none seemed to know where the poisonous liquor had been purchased.

Detectives toured the area, visiting many speakeasies and questioning proprietors.

The last death was that of John Bonis. He staggered into a hospital crying that he could not see. An hour later he was dead.

Shortly before that, police had found Frank Watson dead in his room. Beside him was a bottle in which remained some "smoke."

Chemical analysis was completed in the cases of seven men found dead Saturday. All showed the presence of wood alcohol.

Detectives said they found the fear of poisoning so great among "smoke" drinkers that many of them, having drunk the liquor went immediately to the vicinity of the Broad Street Hospital and loitered there, ready to seek medical help at the first indication of poisoning.

One bartender was arrested held pending the analysis of "smoke" which he

A STRIKING PANORAMA OF STRAGGLING "BONUS ARMY" AS IT MOBILIZED AT JOHNSTOWN (PA.) AFTER THE MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN HAD BEEN EVICTED FROM WASHINGTON BY FEDERAL TROOPS SUMMONED BY PRESIDENT HOOVER grow very dangerous unless you rush a shipment of necessities.

"The eyes of the world are upon you. Responsibility rests upon you and you alone."

To the President, whom he charged with full responsibility for the bonus army's plight, Mayor McCloskey sent two telegrams. In the first, he demanded relief for the veterans and their families, and in the second, demanded at least an acknowledgment of his first wire.

WATERS VISITS CAMP

The B. E. F. commander, Walter W. Waters, made a hurried trip to Johnstown by airplane to bring to his followers a message of cheer yesterday. He announced the gift of a colony site in Maryland, near Laurel, about 20 miles from Washington.

The tract, Waters told his ragged followers, consists of 209 acres, heavily timbered and traversed by a fresh water stream. The property has been given to the bonus army by Mrs. Maude Edgell, of Catonsville, Md.

Waters said:

"I have been presented with a deed to 25 acres. I have a contract which places another 25 acres of virgin timber at our disposal immediately, and the balance of the wooded land at our disposal as we need it. We will found a colony for the Bonus Expeditionary Forces. We will build our homes and cultivate the land, stock it and rehabilitate ourselves."

PERMANENT COLONY

The colony will be a permanent affair. Waters' voice rose to a scream as he shook his fist at his tattered buddies" and said:

"If they burn down our shacks again, we'll kill them."

The crowd yelled it approval.

Later on in his address to the veterans, Waters declared he was appealing to the citizens of Johnstown to show tolerance with his people for "only a short while." He said:

"It will be only a week or 10 days before we are ready to move out of here into our Maryland haven and I'm appealing to these people of Johnstown to be tolerant. God knows you haven't had things very pleasant for the past few days, have you?"

A deafening chorus of "No's" answered him.

'KHAKI SHIRTS'

Waters said the "Khaki Shirts" group which has hopes of organizing throughout the United States will be entirely separate from the bonus army. Anybody of voting age, regardless of sex or military service, may join.

The Maryland colony is to be for members of the bonus army only. These men and women, Waters declared, cannot be sent back to their homes, because they have no homes, and he hopes that by establishing the colony, they may "find life worth living again." He said definitely:

"There will not be another march on Washington."

Capt. Doak E. Carter, Mayor McCloskey and Edward F. Atwell, commander of Camp Marks at Washington, also spoke to the tattered veterans and their families. Carter declared:

"We believe in the fundamentals of Americanism, but not in Americanism as it is dictated by Herbert Hoover."

REDS TO BE FOUGHT

He emphasized the need for discipline in the camp and urged the veterans to eradicate "everything that smacks of radicalism."

Atwell, to whom Commander Waters and his associate officers give credit for averting "the bloodiest massacre in American history" by his actions as commander of Camp Marks, spoke briefly.

Atwell, it was revealed, pleaded with his followers not to oppose the Regular Army troops as they had planned to do when the soldiers entered Camp Marks, Thursday evening, and then ran through the advancing lines, waving a shirt as a sign of truce. He pleaded with Gen. Douglas McArthur to give the veterans time to evacuate before resorting to force. During the time allotted to him, Waters declared, Atwell convinced the veterans of their folly of opposing armed troops and led a number to the river where they disposed of their weapons and marched out quietly.

This phase of the Washington rioting was revealed for the first time yesterday when Waters spoke openly of the guns in the hands of his followers. Atwell appeared embarrased at the praise voiced by his commander.

The newcomer to Johnstown's bonus camp is a daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Herendeen, of Jackson, Mich. Mrs. Herendeen and the new recruit are both doing well in Memorial Hospital, here, and Mrs. Herendeen has named the baby Edwarda in honor of Mayor McCloskey.

Vets' Arrest Asked Here In Theft From U. S.

Arrest of three men accused of taking government property from Anacostia, when the bonus army was routed, today was sought by four Washington police, after a conference with Assistant United States District Attorney L. W. Bryan.

Warrants for the arrest were issued by a United States commissioner to Deputy United States Marshal John G. Lowers, at the request of Sergts. White and Bennett and Patrolman Tolson and Carper, of Washington.

It was said that tents and other government paraphernalia were taken. The identity of the men sought was not revealed.

Riot Plotted to Rout Vets, Says Waters

Vigorously condemning the Hoover administration for the bloody eviction of the bonus army from Washington, Commander Walter W. Waters, leader of the veterans, told a McKeesport audience the trouble could have been averted had the authorities segregated the Communistst.

But, continued the leader of the peace-time army who was back in Johnstown today, they did not want to do that. He added:

"They said they didn't want to, because trouble was the only excuse they could have to drive us out."

Waters spoke at two meetings in the Capitol Theater yesterday, received a check for aid for his "army" and got his first night's sleep since the riots in Washington, Thursday and Friday.

Tired but still energetic, hoarse from much speaking, Waters spoke in jerky, quiet fashion. Occasionally, as he recounted the story of his sojourn in Washington, his voice rose to a cracked shout. Twice he cursed. Both times the Hoover administration was the butt of his attack. He said:

"I don't condemn the soldiers for putting us out. Put the blame where it belongs—the blood is on the shoulders of the Hoover administration."

A bitter smile passed over his tanned face as he accused the administration of starting trouble in order to find excuse to eject the B. E. F. from Washington. Quietly, distinctly, Waters said:

"I was told in Secretary of War Hurley's office by a member of the cabinet, the day before the trouble, that a man was going to be killed the next day and that would give them an excuse to drive us out of our cabins. I say that, and mean that, and can prove that.

WANTED TROUBLE

"I asked them why they didn't segregate the Communists, who we didn't want connected with us, and put them out. They said they didn't want to, because trouble was the only excuse they could have to drive us out.

"We didn't want trouble. We want a revolution—not by arms, not by force, but by votes. We want to get every citizen of voting age to go to the polls in November and put this gang of thieves out of office."

Before Waters arrived, Wilkinsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars had forwarded a band of new arrivals from the west toward Johnstown. Arriving from Cleveland by way of Washington, Pa., the men were fed by donations from Wilkinsburg merchants and taken as far as Delmont in trucks.

HERO OF A. E. F. PAYS TRIBUTE TO HUSHKA

By FLOYD GIBBONS

Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Hello everybody. Billy Hushka—blond, square-faced Chicago boy—the boy who lost his young wife and home because there were no jobs for him anywhere—the boy who lost his life because he dared to come to Washington to ask for work or his bonus money—

Billy—the volunteer in the glorious army of 1918—the volunteer in the bonus army of 1932—the private, first class, in both—did not have to flee for his life with his other bewildered comrades. A bullet took care of that. So Billy lies here at rest.

Veterans of many Legion posts—veterans of other foreign wars tiptoed in to visit him—silently, as though they might awaken him again to starvation and hopelessness.

Yes, many veterans came.

FAMED HERO ARRIVES

And then came another one.

Ponderous of shoulder. Square of jaw. Fearless, kindly blue eyes moist. His soft straw hat clenched in his mighty hands. His blue serge suit unadorned by any insignia.

It was Sergt. Mike Donaldson.

There could be no higher honor for little Billy Hushka.

Mike, the greatest fighter of them all.

Sergt. Mike, who won more decorations—won them as a fighter—than many generals and field marshals—the highest awards of America—of France—of Belgium—of other countries. Sergt. Donaldson came all the way from New York to pay tribute to Billy Hushka, the young private who failed to get overseas, but who carried the symbol of his honorable discharge in his ragged shirt pocket—neatly preserved until his own countryman's bullet tore through it. Blotted it with scarlet.

BOWS HEAD FOR BRAVE

The mighty Sergt. Donaldson tiptoed to Billy's couch. His head was bowed as it has been bowed for the bravest lad on the many battle fronts of France. Sergt. Mike carried flowers—a huge wreath of gladiolus—in one huge hand. It looked out of place in his brawny fist. But he laid it down on Billy's couch as though Billy had been his pal.

The tribute of one soldier to another.

"A soldier in the army of bleeding hearts."

Sergt. Mike said that, huskily, as he turned away.

Medaled veterans passed by. They had looked upon dead comrades before.

But none had seen a comrade fallen before American guns.

Billy will rest forever in Arlington Cemetery.

Billy's death helped to prove that his comrades were not "reds." His spotless record testified to that, also.

And the honor he will receive Tuesday when he makes his journey to Arlington — almost within the shadow of the Unknown Soldier's tomb—would have made this ragged, hungry, young veteran's heart beat with pride.

MONESSEN BABE SECOND TO DIE IN B. E. F.

By KINGSBURY SMITH

(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—A grief-stricken woman sat in a room in a modest bungalow today, not far from the burned-out mud-flats of Anacostia, and spoke a Spartan philosophy through her tears.

She is Mrs. Gertrude Mann, wife of a Monessen (Pa.) veteran, whose two-month-old daughter, named for her, died early today in Gallinger Hospital from malnutrition and stomach disorders contracted in the bonus camp.

It was the second infant death in the B. E. F., John Geer, 4, having died of pneumonia and measles some time ago.

ANOTHER NEAR DEATH

Another child was reported near death in Gallinger Hospital. Bernard Myers, 11-week-old son of a World War veteran from Pittsburgh, was suffering from malnutrition and gastro-enterities.

Dr. J. A. Kelk, assitant superintendent of the hospital, said the child's parents reported that the baby was caught, as they were, in a tear gas barrage which federal troops poured into the bonus camp.

rMs. Mann sat in a home that wasn't hers. The "home," a rude shack perched on the Anacostia flats, was mburned out by federal troops last Thursday night, and the family driven by tear gas into the home of a sympathetic plumber along with four other older children.

"NOT BITTER"

She said dully, through her tears:

"I don't feel bitter about it all.

"My baby died from a cold in the stomach, contracted on those mud flats out there.

"But I am too much an American to feel bitter against my government because the baby died. My husband hasn't had a job for two and a half years, but despite that and despite everything we still love our country.

"It's still our country. My husband fought for it, and I don't see any use in kicking it.

"People may wonder why we came here. Well, it's fairly simple. We came here because we didn't have any place else to go.

"My husband, who is a weaver, thought he might get work if he did not get the bonus. We have four little children, and it's a steady job my husband needs.

SOMETHING WRONG

"Something is wrong with things, with conditions. But I don't know whether the government is to blame or who. Maybe the President is doing his best.

"When the soldiers came and burned our camp Thursday night we had no place to go. So Mrs. Frost (Mrs. Frederick Frost, wife of the plumber) kindly offered to shelter us in their home for the time being. We had no place else to go and we accepted. Where we will go from here, I don't know.

"My little baby that died was not in the camp when it was burned. We had taken it to the hospital the night before.

"I did everything I could for her, but Anacostia camp was no place to raise a baby.

"I don't blame the camp. We weren't asked to go there. But we had no place else to go and we did the best we could.

"Blame? I don't know who is to blame or what."

HELP REFUSED BY RED CROSS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—A hands-off policy toward the bonus seekers encamped near Johnstown, Pa., was decided upon today by the American Red Cross, while the District of Columbia grand jury began an investigation to fix responsibility for the riots last Thursday in which one war veteran was killed.

James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the Red Cross, after a conference with officials, said no aid would be given the veterans who thronged to the Pennsylvania city after being evicted from the capital by federal troops. He said:

"The primary responsibility rests upon the constituted public and private relief agencies in the communities and states where these men are located."

At the direction of President Hoover, the grand jury began receiving testimony concerning the riots precipitated by the bonus marchers. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, was the first witness.

Vets on Widow's Land; Donor Scores Hoover

WATERBURY, Md., Aug. 1.—(INS.)—More than a score of bonus marchers and a few women were bivouacked on the Edgell tract here today, the vanguard of a march to a proposed home for World War veterans, while Maryland officials debated the situation.

Although leaders of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces announced no immediate plans when Commander Walter W. Waters obtained a 25-acre tract from Mrs. Maud Edgell, rich Catonsville (Md.) woman, several homeless veterans made their way to this station, midway between Baltimore and the capital, more than a mile from the lanes of regular traffic.

While the vanguard of the bonus marchers worked in its new camp, Gov. Ritchie received complaints from landowners in the vicinity of the Edgell property. William W. Baldwin, a member of one of the prominent families who will have the veterans' colony for neighbors, protested and said the Governor should stop the movement, "unless they are taxpayers or have visible means of support."

The Maryland Governor took the matter under advisement, indicating he would reach an early decision.

Mrs. Edgell denied all sympathy for radicals, but said she was moved to aid the veterans when she witnessed the movement of federal troops in routing them from their mean hovels in Washington. She said:

"I'm no Communist. I'm an eastern shore woman, from Talbot County. My ancestors fought in the Revolution, the War of 1812, and in 1861; and I voted for Hoover. A lot of us who did are hanging our heads in shame, too; he's been a Frankenstein ever since."

ARMY'S ATTACK ON VETS LIKE WILD DREAM, ASSERTS GIBBONS

By FLOYD GIBBONS

(Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, July 30.—Hello, everybody.

Just lit here in my birthplace town. Hopped down here by airplane this morning from Cleveland.

Just couldn't keep away after reading those almost unbelievable reports of veterans being shot down and one killed. And their women and kids being ridden down by cavalry and sabred and gassed and their pitiful shacks and bedding being put to the torch by order of the Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army.

I swear I could not believe it.

But, it's true.

It happened.

Not in Moscow or Shanghai or Mukden or Harbin, but right here in Washington, D. C., where I was born.

The victims are not Russian peasants or Chinese coolies or East Indian rebels or African savages.

The victims are American citizens, veteran soldiers, some of them disabled men who fought to sustain this government.

The victims are not Communists, not rebels, not revolutionaries, not agitators, not radicals—they were just folks—American folks—homeless—jobless—foodless American citizens—just a few stray, bewildered, puzzled thousands of millions of jobless who with their wives and kids and dependents now number so great a percentage of our population of 120,000,000 people.

Do you wonder I couldn't believe it? It still seems like some wild dream instead of the stark shocking reality it is.

Do you wonder at the dazed mental state and weakened physical condition of these thousands of American refugees now strung out along the roads north, east, west and south of Washington—their capital—the seat of the government to which they turned for help and the government which drove them out with fire and sword?

Tattered Refugees

These American refugees today are stretched out along the roads of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia—long, pitiful lines of them—many in wheezing flivvers and dilapidated trucks — thousands of them marching wearily on foot. They carry pitiful little handfuls of last minute belongings with them.

Six months ago I saw refugees like these fleeing across the plains of Manchuria before the rush of Japanese cavalry.

Four months ago I saw homeless humans like these sleeping on the sidewalks of Shanghai to escape the wrath of the oppressor. They were Chinese.

In Russia, during the last famine, I saw weak and tottering humans on the move—wild-eyed, hungry—seeking food and rest.

All of us are familiar with the pictures of those long lines of refugees—the aftermath of the war in Belgium—in Poland—in Armenia. There were hundreds of thousands of them. They were victims of man's inhumanity to his brothers.

Cared for Belgians

And, by the way, who fed and housed and cared for those refugees in Belgium, in Russia, in Poland, in Armenia—who fed the hungry of Europe when the continent was starving?

Our country fed them—God's country—the good old U. S. A.

Who was the man we selected to distribute American food and relief to the poor and the homeless and the sick and the weak of every suffering nation in the world outside our own borders?

We chose the great humanitarian—Herbert Hoover.

As a war correspondent and foreign correspondent, I have observed and reported a number of similar forced movements of suffering humanity, but as an American, I always prided myself that such conditions were the result of foreign misrule—those victims that Herbert Hoover fed in the capital of Belgium, in the capital of England, in the capital of Soviet Russia—they were the victims of European and Asiatic atrocities.

America First

Such things were not for America. Our country and our people fed the world—our creed was human—no matter what race, color, or religion—no matter how far removed from our shores—American relief reached there first.

But, for the last two months, between five and 25,000 sufferers from want have been sleeping on the ground—in the mud on the river bottoms of Anacostia.

They were not foreigners—they were Americans.

Humane fellow-citizens all over the country sent them food and clothing. The residents of Washington helped them to the limit. The police of Washington helped, also.

But, no food or relief came from the great humanitarian in the White House, just three miles away from the miserable hovels in which these homeless, jobless, hungry American men and women and children huddled.

Army Called Out

Thursday, Herbert Hoover ordered the United States Army to drive these American refugees out of the Capital.

Infantry, cavalry, tanks, Bayonets, sabers, gas—a night attack—put to the torch—screaming women—crying babies—wild eyed men—gray clouds of tear gas rolling across a field of mud flats—lurid flames as soldiers with masks and helmets set fire to shacks and straw pallets.

"Drive them out."

Where?

To work?

They have no work.

They want work.

They beg work.

"Drive them out."

Where?

Back home where they came from.

They have no homes.

Fleeing Sword

They are American refugees fleeing from the fire and sword of the great humanitarian.

Yes, sir, this old capital of ours had its reign of terror for a night.

The guns have stopped cracking now. American soldiers have stopped using rifle butts and bayonets and sabers against American soldiers.

But, the capital has its memories that are not pleasant.

I flew over the great, spider-web metropolis this bright Saturday morning after the events of Thursday night. Didn't seem possible that down there in that peaceful valley that women and babies and men we once called heroes were running from bayonets a few hours before. Didn't seem possible that veterans of our greatest war could have been falling under the rush of cavalry hoofs—blinded from gas—carrying down the American flag as they stumbled ahead of American troops, commanded by the chief of staff of the United States Army.

Gleaming Shrines

Why, from up there in the plane the most prominent structures in our quadrangle of national shrines stood out strikingly.

First, there was the tall shaft erected to the memory of our first great general—our first military hero. The hero who commanded an army as ragged as the bonus army—and as hungry. Commanded them and brought them through as eternal heroes. You know George Washington had to bother Congress a lot to keep those hungry, ragged men at Valley Forge alive. But, that was long ago, when America was not a great, rich nation—the richest in the world.

And, there, gleaming white in the sun was another sacred shrine—the memorial raised to the great emancipator. And I thought of how, after the war of the states, he wiped out all charges against soldiers who had been sentenced by military courts and won the gratitude of mothers of his country. Yes, down there was the monument to the great heart of Abraham Lincoln.

And, beyond that memorial shone our most recent shrine—the tomb of the Unknown Soldier pearl white amidst the green plush of Arlington. He may have been one who marched triumphantly down Pennsylvania avenue with these same men who, a few hours ago, were choking with gas, falling beneath cavalry horses—pushing back bayonets with their bare hands.

There was the White House, also. The home of the commander-in-chief of the military forces of the United States, who holds the power to set troops in motion against men who once were the flower of the American army.

All those shrines were so bright and dazzling. But over, along the Anacostia River there stretched a great black waste. Ashes still smouldering—scene of the recent homes of 15,000 veterans and their families.

Scarred and barren as the site of a village in Belgium during the great war.

ings and lays eggs there. When expelled these eggs develop in the water, attach themselves to the water snail, and do not complete "their life cycle" until they have inhabited both the water snail and the human being.

EXPEDITIONS FROM the University of Pennsylvania and the American School of Oriental Research say the Bible story of Adam, Eve and the serpent dates back to 4000 B. C. In North Mesopotamia scientists found a seal showing a "dejected man and woman slinking away from the darting tongue of a serpent."

That old story dates back a million years before 4,000 B. C. Big snakes climbed trees, to steal the babies of primitive women; and wriggle into caves, between rocks rolled before the entrance. Wom hate snakes, instinctively, as they hate rats, snakes and rats having been their dangerous enemies from the earliest days.

Will Rogers says the serpent said to Adam:

"Who was that lady I seen you with last night?"

And Adam made the usual reply:

"That wasn't no lady, that was my wife."

But that is trifling with science.

DONAHOE'S

421 SMITHFIELD ST. Store is still OPEN

In the interest of the more economical and efficient operation of our downtown stores we intended to close our 421 Smithfield St. store on Saturday night, July 30.

Signs to that effect have been posted in our Smithfield St. store for the past week.

Our intention was to concentrate our entire downtown business in one store—our Fifth Avenue store — America's finest and most beautiful food store—but we have changed our plans.

Being unable to secure other positions, the 87 employees of the Smithfield St. store have earnestly requested Donahoe's not to close the store; therefore, Donahoe's, heeding the urgent pleas of their 87 employees at Smithfield St., have decided not to close that store at this time and it is open for business as usual.

where relief of destitution is not among the functions of the government, it is inevitable that the protests of the destitute should be spectacular."

SEE ELECTION EFFECT

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 1.—(Universal.)—El Universal Grafico, Mexico City daily, states editorially:

"A natural thought is to the sentimental effects this use of Yankee power will cause in the popular conscience of the United States.

"It will surely have political effects and a direct application as regards the Republican party in its plan to re-elect Hoover.

"It will have effects of a character still more grave for agitation against the administrative system of the United States and its economic imperialism, which have been the dominant features of governments of that neighboring country.

"In spite of the caution with which this matter has been treated by the newspapers which have defended the regime, producing monetary profits for them, the political situation in the United States is delicate and these attacks on the veterans are the first signs of a crack.

"This general discontent is against the lack of equilibrium, as demonstrated by millions starving compared with innumerable multi-millionaires—a bloody contrast."

'STIFLING NEEDY'

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 1.—(Universal.)—President Hoover ordered the Bonus Army in Washington suppressed because he did not want to hear the cries of the needy, the leading Argentine newspaper, La Critica, declares:

"The war veterans who went with outstretched arms to ask the United States' government to save them from perishing of hunger were received by the head of the most powerful nation in the world with tear gas and machine guns.

"Women and children have been among the victims of this outrage against humanity.

"America's so-called Democratic president did not want to hear the clamor of the needy. He preferred to hear the rattle of the machine guns."

'REBUFF STARVING'

La Razon, important afternoon newspaper, declares:

"The world has just witnessed the sad spectacle of the wealthiest nation of the world refusing to feed starving war veterans.

"The spectacle would have been sad enough in all conscience of the refusal had taken the form of an explanation that the country is not able to afford help, but President Hoover's action in ordering troops to fire on suffering, starving veterans is not only inexplicable, but also unpardonable.

"The entire civilized world will join in condemning his heartlessness.

"President Hoover was at the forefront of the wartime organization for feeding and supplying the needy. His humanitarian labors then do not fit in with his latest exploit, suggesting his war work's objective was advertisement."

The newspaper La Vanguardia hotly criticizes Hoover, saying:

"It is cold-blooded actions such as that witnessed at Washington that fill the starving unemployed's hearts with despair and drive them to Communism."

'SMALL HEARTED'

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 1.—(Universal.)—President Hoover is accused by the principal newspaper of Paraguay of small heartedness, El Diario, principal Asuncion afternoon newspaper, stating:

"It was with a feeling of revulsion that Paraguay learned how American armed forces fired on the war veterans.

"We pray to God Paraguay will never forget thus callously those who fought and are fighting to defend here in her need.

"President Hoover carries a small heart in his big body.

"His treatment of the veterans constitutes a grave reflection on North American civilization.

"South America may have many things to learn from the United States, but not about charity and human kindness."

'ABLE TO AID'

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 1.—(Universal.)—Los Tiempos, important Chilean newspaper, describes the incidents surrounding the calling out of soldiers to rout the bonus campers at Washington as "regretible."

The newspaper observes that the United States, better than any other country in the world, is in a position to succor the hungry.

ACTION INOPPORTUNE

MADRID, Aug. 1.—(Universal.)—The newspaper ABC said:

"The President's action was probably most inopportune, and we wonder if bloodshed could not have been avoided by more timely action. Further disorders may be expected."

'APOSTLE OF DOLLAR'

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Aug. 1.—(Universal.)—The newspaper El Pueblo, states:

"The spectacle of the war veterans being repulsed violently when all they sought was food and work would be sad enough if it occurred in one of the world's many impoverished states, but it is totally inexplicable in the United States, which possesses such a large percentage of the world's wealth.

"President Hoover entered office as the apostle of the dollar and he is remaining true to his colors."

Is It Degrading for a Girl To Smoke Occasionally?

Is it "degrading" for a gal to puff a ciggie now and then—and will folks think she's "fast" if she does?

Or is the girl who smokes just as respectable and respected as the girl who doesn't?

Floss is all up in the air about this problem. All the kids she knows at college take a puff if they feel like it, and she'd like to herself. She wants to be "one of the gang"—

But mother's hands go up in horror, if she ever so much as mentions the subject.

So how about it? Who's right? Mother? Or Floss?

"Dear Sally—

"For over a year I've watched your column for a problem like mine, and since I haven't seen one, I'm coming to you myself. I hope you can help me. I need advice dreadfully.

"I am 19, and a senior at the university. I am quite an accomplished singer, and I am supposed to be beautiful. And, please, this is not conceit. I swim, dance, use makeup, and 'vamp.' In other words, I'm just a modern college girl. I have always studied very hard, and worked hard with my music.

"Now here is my difficulty. The six or eight girls I chum with occasionally accept a cigaret. None of them drinks or indulges in these so-called 'wild parties.' We all dress nicely, and are all from homes of moderate means. We study hard, all of us, and stand at or near the top of scholastic achievement.

"Now my mother objects strongly to the fact that I also would like to accept an occasional cigaret. She says that even an occasional one is degrading.

SEES NO HARM

"Gosh! All of the young people of today, who are out for a little fun and want to be popular, who want to be at the top of the lists for the choicest affairs, reach for a 'weed' now and then, don't they? I can't see any harm in it, so long as you don't overdo it.

"My girl friends are all 19 or in their early twenties, and they have found that they seem to be respected just as much if they smoke as if they don't.

"I feel so out of place in the crowd all the time, because I don't smoke. I hate to refuse. It seems silly. But I wouldn't smoke behind mother's back. I won't 'sneak' about it.

"I get frequent 'blue' streaks, and get so down and so bored with everything—and it's not because I've always had what I've wanted, either, because I haven't.

WANTS OPINION

"Mother also objects to my going out Friday and Saturday nights in succession. Those are the only two nights I allow my boy friends to call. But this doesn't bother me like the smoking problem.

"Am I entirely wrong about that? Is Mother absolutely correct? Is even the tiniest puff 'degrading,' as she thinks? Or would it be all right for me to do it?

"I'd give anything to be able to be like other girls. Honest, I would. And I can't see how smoking just a little occasionally could do me any harm, or make me any less a nice girl. Please help me.

"FLORENCE."

All right, there's the question, Gang!

What's your answer?

Can Flossie reach for a weed once in a while, and still be regular? Or is Mamma right?

And if Mamma is wrong, what'll Floss do about it?

Wives Could Learn Amiability Among Girls and Admirers—Fay King

WIVES ARE SOMETIMES RUDE TO EACH OTHER.
"SWEETIES" ARE ALWAYS PLEASANT TOWARD EACH OTHER!
SHE COULDN'T BE HERE IF IT WASN'T FOR HIM!
FAY-PING

By FAY KING

Although it could hardly be arranged, there are some wives who could learn valuable lessons in amiability if they could mingle among sweeties and their current admirers.

There is no accounting for choice in sweeties (or wives), but sweeties are more aware of the fact that they are present only by right of preference.

That it is expected of them to be pleasant and gracious to all the other girls present who are also there because of their admirer's choice.

They well know one word of discord might mean discard.

Wives are more secure, of course, but ofttimes a wife can make great difficulties for her husband by being needlessly rude and critical toward the wives of her husband's business associates or friends.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Ronald's Martyr Role in "Scheme" Touches Madge

Noel did not yet realize that Ronald was paying special attention to Mary. I saw that with relief as I watched his proud eyes following her movements. Her dancing is so incomparable that he is used to having her claimed by many eager partners, and with Ronald mindful of my adjuration not to make his attentions to Mary too conspicuous upon this evening, my fear of complications upon Noel's part—at least for these few hours—vanished. But Marion—ah! there was another story.

Ron did not make the mistake of completely ignoring her. That was the only thing of which I had been afraid, and when Bob Trevellan cut in on Hank dancing with Carolyn, and Hank promptly took his sister away from Ronald, I watched the boy closely to see what he would do when left upon the dance floor with no partner.

I need not have feared. He chatted with Noel for a minute or two, then cut in upon Bob, danced with Carolyn until the phonograph selection ended, and then, while the next was being put on, strolled over to Marion and asked her to dance with as casual an air as if she had been his sister or a favorite cousin.

Marion's smiling assent was casualness itself, but I guessed that underneath that apparent carelessness she hid the primitive impulse to bite and scratch.

"I agree with you," I said to Harry Underwood, "The scheme is working, but I don't want to see it in action. Let's go back into the dining room!"

PREPARE BUNGALOW

"Incurable romanticist, or hungry lady—which?" he asked, as we went out of the room, followed by Lillian and Dicky and totally unnoticed by any one of the young people.

"Both, I think," I told him.

We spent a busy two hours afterward transforming the bungalow into bedrooms and lounge adapted to the comfort of two much-traveled gentlemen, and when we had finished, I voiced a perplexity that had been in the back of my mind ever since the code telegram had been translated to us by my father.

"Will you be back here before these young people go to bed?" I asked.

Harry Underwood ran his hand through his hair and looked at Dicky.

"Barring no delays at the bay where they've told us to meet them at one, and no—mishaps—on the road we should be back well before 1:30—it's only a few miles over there," Dicky replied. "How about it, Madge, can you get them out of the trenches, or rather into them by that time?"

CAMOUFLAGE

"Why try?" Lillian asked. "It strikes me their dancing and the house lighted up would be very good camouflage for the other activities, if anybody is watching from afar—nobody can get very near, thanks to the Chief's barrage," she smiled affectionately at my father, who had come over to the bungalow to give our efforts his approval. "For my part, I'd let 'em keep on dancing until morning if they wish. You can tell 'em we have unexpected guests, and if you attach your various electric gadgets to the outlets in the bungalow, and take over the food now, you and I, Madge, can heat up a supper in no time. They'll probably be hungry. It's a lucky thing you were so generous with outlets for the bungalow, Dicky bird."

"Yeah?" Dicky drawled disgustedly. "Little did I think—"

"You spoke the truth there, lad," Harry Underwood gibed, "only you should use the present tense and add 'at any time.'"

But with a little constriction of my pulses I knew that the friendly gibe was intended to hide what I already had seen as well as had Mr. Underwood. My husband could not bear to feel that the bungalow he had fitted up with such loving care for my occupancy, should be turned over to Hugh Grantland and his Chinese friend.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Avoid Grand Slam Bids

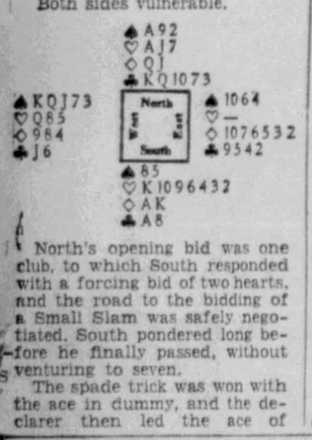
The thrill of making a Grand Slam is so great that many players are inclined to overlook the price they pay when they find that, either through some peculiar quirk of distribution or the unfavorable position of perhaps an honor as insignificant as the knave, they are compelled sadly to jot down a score for their opponents in the honor column, instead of recording the rich bonus for the biggest bid in bridge.

Recently at the Cavendish Club in New York I watched the play of the hand below. The eventual contract was six hearts, and when the dummy went down, the opening lead being the spade king, the declarer apologized to his partner:

"I am very much ashamed of myself," he said. "I certainly should have bid seven."

North—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



North's opening bid was one club, to which South responded with a forcing bid of two hearts, and the road to the bidding of a Small Slam was safely negotiated. South pondered long before he finally passed, without venturing to seven.

The spade trick was won with the ace in dummy, and the declarer then led the ace of trumps, only to find that East had none of the suit and that West must make a trick with his now safely guarded queen. There was the one chance now of making even the Small Slam, and that rested in finding West with at least two clubs, so that on the third round of the suit South's losing spade might be discarded. The play, of course, was to lay down the Ace of clubs, and West, seeking to mislead the declarer, played the knave. However, there was no other method of making the slam, so the suit was continued and the contract assured when West followed suit. A third round of the suit provided South with a discard, and permitted the making of his Small Slam contract.

It is apparent that seven can be made against any opening if South is gifted with second sight or if, for any reason, he decides to lead a small heart from the Dummy rather than the Ace; but there is nothing in the distribution of the hand to suggest that West, rather than East, might hold three hearts, and under these conditions one guess is as good as another.

As a matter of fact, the law of symmetry strongly suggests that no hand around the table is entirely void of a suit, but even the law of symmetry, like some state and national legislation, is inactive at times.

Today's Question

When is the combination of Ace-King-Knave worth more than 2 honor-tricks?

Answer—The combination of Ace-King-Knave is worth 2 honor-tricks, but it is worth 2½ playing-tricks for purposes of raising or rebidding.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Gift

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Just as soon as the paper is in my hands, I turn to your column and read it. It is so interesting to me.

1—My sister and I have been invited to a birthday party given by a lady we have met through a business deal, in honor of a young man about 30 years old, whom we have met only once. Is it proper that we buy a birthday gift for this young man, and if so, what would you suggest? He is a very fine pianist.

2—If a gift is proper, should we take it with us to the party and give it to the lady who is giving this party? A. M.

What a nice enthusiastic thing for you to say . . . thank you for it.

1—Such a gift isn't at all necessary, and perhaps I should advise you not to take a gift to this young man, but somehow the invitation seems so especially kind and gracious, and the idea of the party so pleasant, that I am tempted to suggest that it would be a friendly gesture for you and your sister to make, to take a gift to the honor-guest.

I'm glad that you told me that he is interested in music, for this would give a charming reason for a gift of some book on this enchanting subject. Recently there have been several excellent biographies of musicians, and no doubt you could find one that he hasn't read. All musicians are interested in Mozart, and there is a new biography on this genius. Ask for it in your bookshop. And while you are there look for other biographies of musicians to see if the others appeal to you more. Perhaps it would be wise to buy one with the proviso that he may exchange it if he has read it. He'll appreciate this.

A book as a gift so happily combines the personal and the impersonal that it is practically always appropriate.

2. Yes, this is the perfect thing to do.

The Engagement Table.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Would it be all right to use paper napkins for an engagement table?

2. What should I say for a little speech to be put in the paper? L.

1. It would be far better form to use linen napkins.

2. I do not quite understand what you mean by this question. Would you be so kind as to write me again, and explain more fully, so that I may help you?

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Enhancing one feature with 5 & 10 store artifice may throw another feature out of form. For instance, the woman with the large nose makes that feature unnecessarily conspicuous when she uses the lip stick to accentuate a cute little rosebud mouth. By the same beauty law a too-small nose looks smaller when lips are heavily painted at the corners. When applying complexion pastels, it is necessary to consider the relationship of the features, one to another, and endeavor to work up a policy of harmony.

Since water waves and marcels aren't given away, but cost spending change, the average head of hair doesn't get brushed very often. A substitute for brushing is the speedy scalp massage and wiping the hair, strand by strand, with a bit of old soft silk or cheese cloth. A good conditioning treatment is a thorough brushing and a hot oil treatment the night before the shampoo.

Decay of teeth may be due to deficiencies in the diet or constitutional weaknesses, but certain it is that cavities will appear if food deposits are not removed by the brush. Sweets in excess use up alkaline secretions, necessary for the health of human biters. That's why gals shouldn't dip too often into the bonbon box. Though it is said that if the little pearls are scrubbed often, candy has no bad effect.

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Strychnine Poisoning

One of the most frequent causes of accidental death in children is strychnine poisoning. In a recent editorial in the Journal of the Medical Association, statistics covering these poisonings state that strychnine was responsible for about one-third of the poison deaths in children under 5 years of age. This is a startling fact.

Dr. Copeland

You will wonder how the child manages to obtain this deadly poison. Unfortunately, strychnine is found in many chocolate and sugar-coated pills sold as "laxative" or "tonic" pills. Though each pill contains but a tiny quantity of strychnine, many pills taken at one time may prove fatal.

The child, attracted by the chocolate or sugar coating, will eat quantities of the pills, believing them to be candy.

Such things should never be left around the house. The child, too young to read or understand the label on the bottle, should not be exposed to this danger.

The unfortunate victim of this variety of poisoning requires immediate and accurate medical attention. While waiting for the doctor to arrive, the patient should be placed in bed. He also should be calmed and reassured, because excitement and apprehension are dangerous in strychnine poisoning. As soon as the doctor arrives, the stomach must be washed out with a stomach pump and the necessary antidotes given.

In neglected or overlooked cases of strychnine poisoning, its victim is seized with severe convulsions. There is great difficulty in breathing, and unless immediate relief is obtained the condition may be fatal.

Recently these cases have been successfully treated by the intravenous injection of a "barbiturate" preparation, but, of course, this treatment can be given only by a physician.

In all cases of strychnine poisoning, hospital care should be given wherever possible. At the hospital, facilities for treating poisoning are more complete than at home.

McCanns Happy Husbands Week

Now . . .

More than ever husbands are happy to shop at McCanns. And why shouldn't they be when the cheeses, the apple strudles, the crabmeat, the thick, juicy steaks . . . in fact all the McCann foods that husbands like so much are 'way down in price. This is Happy Husband's week: an invitation to every man who enjoys good food to come to McCanns and make himself at home.

Like Grandmother made

Jelly Rolls

with homemade jelly

ea. 18c

A good old-fashioned cake . . . a fluffy sponge spread with homemade jelly and rolled. It slices into interesting rounds. Is there a man who doesn't remember this favorite sweet of long ago?

BOLIVIA TROOPS SEIZE FORT

LA PAZ, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—Bolivian troops pressed onward in their invasion of the disputed Chaco region today following the heavy bombardment and capture of Fort Boqueron, strategically located and heavily fortified by a large number of Paraguayan troops.

Neutral observers here had considered the post practically invincible.

ASUNCION, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—Hurried in their decision by reports of a serious battle at Fort Boqueron, in the disputed Chaco region, the Paraguayan cabinet today ordered mobilization of the nation's reserve and voted to retain the state of siege previously decreed.

It was considered here a state of war exists with Bolivia in the Chaco region, even though it has not been formally declared.

Baby Killed by Drink Of Furniture Polish

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—Mrs. Sylvia Gurnia left a bottle of furniture polish on the floor. Her 2-year-old daughter, Lorraine, picked up the bottle and swallowed some of its contents. Today baby Lorraine is dead.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Betimes and a bid from Christopher Morley to lunch on lamb done in provincial flavor, but exacting a promise not to disclose the cafe's address. Letters, too, from John Horgan, Vera Michelena, Elissa Landi and C. G. Norris. So for a brief slog along the Rialto.

Home and a suave optimist interrupted my typing, trying to hawk shares in a chain of proposed beer gardens. Later to a tea, meeting up with Francis H. Sisson, Edward Doherty and Isabel Leighton. And my wife ticking me off, no end, for my shirting of flamboyant coloring at so sedate a gathering.

Dinner at "Dinty" Moore's, and Frank Buck, heavy thewed animal catcher, joined us awhile. Also Lew Cody. Thence to a play, greeting Corey Ford, Frank Sullivan, S. Jay Kaufman, George White and May Christie. So, walking across 45th street, besieged by a dozen who, having fluffed life, through no fault of their own, asked an alm.

Among New York's outstanding "best dressed men" are Mayor Walker, Phil Plant, Earl Benham, Otto Kahn, Russel Patterson and William Gaxton. Since Maxine Elliot's day, but one woman has worn the title "best dressed." She was Guila P. Morosini, daughter of the original partner of Jay Gould. She lived in the headlined "House of Mystery" in the Bronx. Many beaux sought her. Her wardrobe cost $25,000 yearly. In the end, Miss Morosini married a mounted cop, who saved her life in a runaway. Incidentally, Irene Castle could wear clothes better than any other person of her generation. Natcha Rambova was a close second.

Park avenue buzzes with the story of a nouveaux riche who hired an expert to trace his ancestral line for his genealogical history and now has to pay him hush money.

Personal nomination for the most astounding memory for details—that of John Ringling.

Harlem's reigning shiek is Cab Calloway, a saddle-colored Negro out of a small town in Missouri. He has been leading an orchestra in cabaret and vaudeville. His nifty clothes in zebra patterns set the style pace for ebony swells along Lenox avenue.

A downtown errand took me past the old World Building last night. About it is a gloom suggesting one of those abandoned feudal castles along the Rhine. Until the World presses stopped, the Pulitzer Building, like a great ship ablaze with light, offered a fierce gust of bravado. Newsboys shouted louder there and there was a hurly-burly of mass hysteria about passing crowds. The customers of Doc Perry's seemed blustering men, tingling for adventure. In place of that full-blooded vigour, there is today only a sprinkling of gaunt-eyed sandwich men and whispering moochers looking a trifle whipped by the amazing succession of hoop-de-doo we call life.

Most out-of-town newspapermen, hungering for the terrene taste of Park Row, sought posts on the Morning World, despite it was the most rigidly disciplined editorial shop in town. Oddly enough, its stiff discipline had one chink in the armor. The World rarely discharged for drinking derelictions. They were often fined and suspended without pay during such lapses, but upon a return to society their jobs were waiting.

I know but two persons who consistently return borrowed books. As a generous lender, I imagine I have 5,000 volumes on vicarious picnics. All this is a prelude to a borrower showing up with what he thought was a borrowed book today. Unless he reads it here, he will never know the tome he returned was a Christmas gift from me three years ago. Oddly, it was the only book he ever returned.

Jose Calvino, a favorite taxi chauffeur, stopping in traffic today, stuck his head through the window and, with a baritone growl observed: "Cap, this is gettin' to be the biggest crisis we ever had."

In the same cab an irrelevant proletarian had discarded a pancake of chewing gum on the window rest. My elbow plopped into it. When shown the adhesion, he consoled: "If that's the only kind of stick-up you ever get in a Broadway York taxi, you're met with breaks."

Furniture Time Is Here

Today's Low Prices, Subject During August to a Further

See the Irwin Rooms

Seventeen newly built, newly furnished original room schemes, the work of two of the foremost decorators of the country. Every piece of furniture in the entire display was designed individually for the occasion. Pittsburgh has never seen anything like this showing, and every home-interested person will find his time and effort well repaid in ideas and suggestion from a visit to these rooms. They will be on view throughout the August Sale.

Pictured Above

An attractive grouping of well-designed furniture . . . which the August discount of 15% makes unusually low priced.

The mahogany-frame sofa may be selected with tapestry, wool damask or frieze covering; the occasional chair (with mahogany or walnut frame) is covered in a selection of fine damasks. The graceful lamp tables are all-walnut.

Sofa, $97.50; chair, $39.50; table, $9.00.

Pictured Left

A dining room group in the best 18th Century tradition with its simple design made more beautiful by the natural markings of the crotch mahogany fronts. The table extends to 8 feet and has a double pedestal. The china closet has an extra-deep storage space. $225.

15% Off

August is definitely established in the public mind as an advantageous time for the purchase of furniture. This acceptance has been built up over many years of special value-giving in which furniture manufacturers and stores have jointly co-operated.

This year the situation is intensified by the extremely low prices of the moment in furniture, and the growing feeling that the turn has arrived, and the growing feeling that the turn has arrived particularly in the better qualities, which have been selling too long below their true worth.

In view of this fact, the opportunity to buy Horne furniture at present lows, with the additional saving of 15% during August is an incentive which should commend the thoughtful consideration of everybody interested in immediate or future home requirements. This is undoubtedly a time for action, where furniture is concerned, and that the public is alert to the situation is evidenced by the extraordinary interest shown during the Courtesy Days of the August Sale.

Our furniture stocks abound in new styles and new decorative treatment suggestions. No less than 38 special rooms, that show furniture as it would be shown in the complete room setting, are a source of inspiration to housewives seeking new ideas for use in their own homes, and of themselves justify a special visit here at this time.

The August Sale of

Fur-Trimmed Coats

$55 $75

A great, pre-season event—the introduction to the most interesting fall and winter coat season in many years, with fabrics altogether changed, fashions so different, and fur trimmings inordinately important.

Forgetting profit in the interest of advance buying, we have marked the coats so much lower than they will be in regular season, that buying now is an economy that one cannot afford to disregard.

Our high standards of quality and workmanship have been maintained, the coats coming from our regular makers of high-class fashions.

A great variety — 76 models for women, 67 for misses in regular and half sizes, 38 for junior-misses.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: The cabled dispatch from Paris to the effect that Barbara Hutton and Phil Plant were plotting something romantic again is just so much malarkey . . . Plant still is upstate and Edna Dunham is the one and only . . . Bannister is telling local pals that he still adores Ann Harding . . . Ruth Chatterton spent $700 trans-atlantalking to George Brent the other day from Madrid . . . You might spoil the dreams of countless people by announcing that the Roxy Theater bondholders have voted against any $5,000 prize for a new theater name . . . "Ballyhoo," the new revusical, signed that Gloria Gilbert gal, as per your tip . . . Hurl a corsage of orchids at William Gaxton for his impromptu show at the Beach Club, which netted the Actors' Dinner Club nearly $500.

Now that the Virginia Gardner romance is admitted, it comes out that Virginia's cute trick was to scribble love notes to Roy on his cuff—which is how the Mrs. got hep and the melting followed . . . Phil Baker's show will resume in mid-August . . . Guy Loomis is Hollywood-bound with an octet of lovelies . . . Mickey Alpert says that you can pay off things in Montreal with champagne corks which are worth 20 cents each . . . Robert Royce is the next West Coaster due to crash the radio heavens. He sings in 14 different languages and can canary anything from Grand Opera to Harlem . . . Lita Grey Chaplin left for Hollywood yesterday.

. . . The Lew Ayres-Lola Lane thing has been patched up.

June Knight, now in Hollywood area, found out definitely how the James Dunn matter stood . . . Harry Fox, the Rudy Vallee of his day, re-opens the revived Riviera across the Washington Bridge, a lovely spot . . . Excluding the Hollywood rendezvous, you now have to go to Harlem or to Jersey to find a night club, since El Garron surrendered for the season . . . Martin Mooney, the playwright and exploiter, who got into that jam for making speeches against the Boulder Dam, will highlight it for Roosevelt's campaign . . . Rose O'Neill, of New Rochelle, was Irene Castle's dance tutor when her name was Irene Foote, which was when she was a tot . . . The most unusual gift I ever heard of was Dr. Griffin's to his wife, Irene Dunne. A complete set of X-ray photos of herself.

A. and C. Boni are due soon with another tome to startle the public. It will be christened "Washington Swindle Sheet," an expose of the Senate's expenditures . . . Senators are allowed 40c a mile for traveling, when a dime a mile would include everything with meals, tips, etc., which gives you an idea where the taxpayers' coin goes . . . Charles Feldman, who used to be Raquel Torres' heart, is a lawyer who gave up looking for trouble on the coast and has turned agent. His partner is the estranged wife of B. P. Schulberg, ex-chief of Paramount . . . You said something about Billie Dove's face being the most perfect for the camera. Did you know Evalyn Knapp's lips are so considered, and her waistline, too? . . . Winifred Bryson, who is Mrs. Warner Baxter, is very ill, and Baxter has built a projection room for her over the garage because she can't go out and see the world. So he brings it to her. There's a real husband for you, sir . . .

Roger Wolfe Kahn, who is at the Palace, with his very able crew of tooters, tipped his mitt last night on how he is carrying the torch for Hannah Williams, or perhaps it was my imagination. His first tune was "Keeping Outta Mischief," which was followed by "How Can I Live Without You?" "After You're Gone" and "Humming to Myself" . . . Norman Sullivan called. He said that those fellows who are dropping fortunes at the race track aren't doing anything foolish with their money—like going into business for themselves . . . Dick Robertson, the recording canary, wanted to see if his gun was loaded, and shot himself in the foot. In this heat, yet! . . .

Broadway being a fussy street when it comes to originating anything, has inspired a newsdealer to feature a scrawled sign on his stand reading: "I originated selling 2c newspapers for 2c!" He's the one near the Rialto Theater, nearer 43rd . . . Shops featuring those coin machines rate half the proceeds, a life-saver for all of them.

Lew Leslie is back with his collapsed "Clowns in Clover" show, and will re-cast it for a local showing . . . Billy Bakewell sails August 3, and Sally Clark will be the femme he leaves behind. . . . Sam Harrison, Ziegfeld's right hand man for many years, has retired to preserve his health. . . . Roy Rogers and Gertrude Alexander will middle-aisle it next month. The Charles A. Levines will settle matters definitely next week. . . . Sonia Corday is his newest flame . . . Remember Duncan McMartin, the Montreal lad with all that coin? . . . Since his divorce from Dorothy Barton of the old Abbey Club chorus, they've been inseparable and it looks like they'll rerivet. . . . William Lohman and Ella Hatfield went and did it last Sabbath. . . . And Sport Ward says he is merely taking swimming lessons from Helen Meany.

Those speakeasy impresarios, named Jack and Charlie, who were given all that grand publicity by George Jean Nathan in his interviews, as being the only worthwhile presidential possibilities, are the popular lads who governed "21" before the recent interference . . . Remember Dolores Rey, of the Ziegfeld corps? Well, Columbia flickers have signed her—and she spends more time at the studio, even when she's finished, because a potential Gable is insane about her . . . Those new police posters are very pretty and all that sort of thing, and they tell you how to summon the bluecoats when trouble happens, but they don't give the phone number! . . . Incidentally, Izzy Elinson just phoned. He said he sees that Mayor Walker wants the cops to go without pay for four weeks, and that he'd hate to be a communist in a Union Square riot during that month! . . . He also chirped that Judge is publishing very few issues these days, so can you imagine what a tough time the radio comics will have getting new jokes 10 years from now!

Olympics to Draw Film People

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1.

Sport-loving Hollywood is keyed up to a high pitch of interest in the Olympic games.

The motion picture people have subscribed an entire section of seats in the big stadium and will crowd to practically all the events. Special favorites with the film crowd will be the colorful opening day ceremony, the equestrian, diving, swimming and boxing events.

Some stars have specialized interests. Douglass Fairbanks, for instance, will be a keen follower of the fencing competition, while Jean Hersholt, once a champion bicycle rider in Denmark, is enthusiastic over his countrymen's chances of winning the cross-country cycle race.

Hollywood shelters many well known athletes of former days. Playing bits around the studios is Jim Thorpe, who won the pentathlon and decathlon in the 1921 Olympics and also placed second in the high jump. True, he was disqualified on his return, but it was the greatest individual triumph ever won in the history of the games.

Jim Thorpe

Tom Tyler, Universal western star, was a weight-lifting champion in 1924. And Johnny Weismuller, of course, has held dozens of world records in swimming.

Winners of lesser note include George O'Brien, who was light-heavyweight boxing champion of the Pacific Fleet; Weldon Heyburn, who was Southern Intercollegiate diving champion; Victor McLaglen, who was a fairly well known boxer; Chuck Lewis (Doug Fairbanks' trainer) who qualified in the pentathlon tryouts for the last Olympics; any number of All-American football players and here's one that may surprise you—Sari Maritza, who took medals for ice-skating and diving in Switzerland.

The best place to see the stars during the next two weeks will be at any Olympic event.

BOULEVARD TALK

What former well-known leading man is repenting in leisure his outburst of temperament in the locker room of a local golf club? Becoming incensed at a trifle, he shouted his intent to resign. The president of the club happened to be there. Also a quorum of the board of directors. They went into a huddle and accepted the resignation before the actor could change his mind.

Claire Windsor was dancing at the Cocoanut Grove the other evening with Guy Loomis, Jr., of New York. At the same table were Joan Marsh and Jimmy Miskin . . . Clara Bow and Rex Bell also dropped in for a few hours . . . The omnipresent Tommy Lee is squiring Mona Maris around the bright light places . . . Dorothy Hale, new Goldwyn discovery, was at the "Cynara" opening with Vice-Admiral Luke McNamee, her cousin . . . They'll have you believe that One-Eyed Connolly went into receivership and then tried to touch the receiver. . . . Now it's Mary Carlile whom Jerry Horwin is escorting around.

Joan Marsh

If you can believe Frank McHugh, the signs in Central Park have been changed from "Keep off the grass" to "Don't eat the grass."

Younger players never had a better chance in pictures than today. All the studios are trying desperately to develop new talent. Over at R. K. O., they've just cast Julie Haydon opposite Bill Boyd in "Yukon."

The Paul Muni picture, "I Am a Fugitive," will be rushed into production next week to allow Muni to return to Broadway by September 5. Later on, he'll return to make two other films for Warners.

'Fatty' Signs for Screen Come-Back

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, famous screen comic of a generation ago, signing a contract for his reappearance in films. The lady is Addie McPhail, wife of the rotund comedian. Looking on is Sam Sax, who will superintend "Fatty's" return to pictures. This is an International News Service photograph.

Comment on Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"The Great Glorifier" is the title selected for a film that will tell the life story of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, and it is hoped to have in it some of the girls he "glorified" and who later achieved fame. It will picture notable phases in the life of the greatest showman of the American stage, from the beginning of his career as the promoter of Sandow, the strong man, at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago; the introduction of Anna Held, "the milk-bath" lady (later the first Mrs. Ziegfeld) to the American public; the starring of Marilyn Miller, the first "Follies" and many other incidents in the career of this colorful figure. It will be brought up to date with the appearance of stars of "Show Boat," now current in New York, as a revival reflecting the final activity of Mr. Ziegfeld as a producer.

"Nona," which will star Lenore Ulric, under the management of Peggy Fears, will go into rehearsal August 12. The cast has been engaged and the director will be Burk Symon, who like Miss Ulric, served his time under the great stage master, the late David Belasco. To carry out that association to its limit, the producer of "Nona," Miss Fears, would like to have the play make its bow in the Belasco Theater, New York.

Pola Negri had to cancel a stage engagement in New York because of illness . . . Mitzi Green, child star of the films, who has been on a vacation with her grandmother in the East, has stopped in Denver for a personal appearance week on her way back to the Coast for picture work . . . Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, son of the famous opera singer, will be a member of the cast supporting Marlene Dietrich in the film, "Blonde Venus" . . . Clive Brook has postponed plans for a vacation in England and will go to work immediately in "The Night of June 13" . . . "Exit the Queen," which will have an Atlantic City try-out in mid-August, will reach the Broadway stage in the fall with Beth Merrill as star and James Rennie and Ernest Glendinning in the cast . . . Supporting Ricardo Cortez and Karen Moreley, leads in "The Phantom of Crestwood" film, will be Pauline Frederick, Sam Hardy and George Stone . . . Edward J. McNamara, who made a hit as the policeman in the stage production of "Strictly Dishonorable," has been signed for screen work.

A clever comedy, "Lady and Gent," in which George Bancroft plays a pug who has passed his best ring days, and Wynne Gibson one of those glittering night club ladies, is current in the Enright. These too very practical people, some would say they were a bit hardened, leave the big city to take up their residence in a small town where they bring up a young boy. It is difficult to imagine two such characters as respectable citizens of a small community and foster parents to an average boy. That's where the laugh comes in.

BITS OF LIFE

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Easiest Wager

UNLESS I'm greatly mistaken, which is usually the case, Fifth avenue, in the city of New York, sees more traffic in the course of a day than any other street in the world. If a man came to you and offered to bet that he could stop traffic for an entire day on a portion of Fifth avenue, you'd think he was a little bit crazy, wouldn't you?

Reasonable or not, my friends, here's the story that was told to me the other night. It came from a gentleman who offered to take me to some official building down-town and prove his case via the official document route.

Here is the yarn:

Some two years ago, two young gentlemen of high social rank sat in a fashionable speakeasy with two young ladies of equal, smart set distinction. The four of them talked of many things, and, for no reason at all, the conversation suddenly veered to the subject of traffic on Fifth Ave.

"I wish I could do big things," observed one lady. "I mean, really big things. I wish I had the power to move other human beings—or to stop them from moving if I wished."

Her boy friend—aged 24 and so tired of it all—finished his eighth mint julep and looked up slowly.

"I follow you, my dear," he observed. "I have been following you for years. What you are doing is expressing an urge—and if it's not an urge, it's indigestion.

"We were speaking of Fifth Ave. traffic, although I don't know why. You suddenly state that you wish you had the power to stop and start other human beings. In other words, you would like to be big enough to control Fifth Ave. traffic at your will. Am I right, or am I wrong?"

The girl nodded.

"Exactly," she returned. "You've hit the nail upon the hammer. And I'm serious, even if you're not. I'd love to be able to do such a thing as that—or I'd marry a man who was able to do it for me."

The second youth—aged 25 and even more tired of it all—removed his feet from a small table.

"I could stop traffic on Fifth avenue," he drawled. "It would be the easiest thing in the world for a man of my talent.

The second girl gave out a bored laugh.

"Stop prattling, George. How could you tie up traffic when you can't even tie up your own tie without a valet? If you can't talk without boasting, why talk at all?"

The man called George batted neither an eyelash nor a home run.

"I said," he repeated quietly, "that I could stop traffic on Fifth Ave.—and I meant just that. And not for a few seconds either, but for an entire day. Would you pretty maidens like to wager $1,000 with Jack and me that we can't do it?"

Well, the reporting of this conversation in detail is not particularly important at the moment. Permit me merely to tell you, therefore, that the bet was finally made. It was $1,000 even that George—who made the original suggestion—and his friend Jack would, on the following day, do something that would stop traffic on a section of Fifth Avenue from nine in the morning until six at night.

All that night, on a vast estate on Long Island, George and Jack sat talking. Finally, around five in the morning, their plans were complete. It was his papa's estate, and George had the right to do as he willed. He routed the six gardeners and three of the butlers out of bed and gave each one of them very definite instructions.

"We're going into New York on a very special mission," he told them. "You will put on your oldest clothes, as well as a set of overalls. You are not to shave today."

Shortly before 7 o'clock that same morning, a group of 11 laborers appeared on Fifth Ave., in the twenties. All of them were armed with picks, shovels, lunch boxes and the usual paraphernalia of the laborer. The leaders, of course, were George and Jack—and the other nine men were the gardeners and butlers from the Long Island estate.

Under the expert guidance of the two leaders, the "laborers" very coolly proceeded to close off an entire block. They placed the necessary boards at each end—and hung crudely lettered "detour" signs over the boards. Then, walking to the center of the block, they deliberately began to dig a ditch across Fifth Ave.!

The two traffic officers nodded to the laborers and took everything for granted. They detoured all cars either east or west during the entire day. the up and up. The two traffic officers nodded to the laborers and took everything for granted. aThey detoured all cars either atast or west during the entire reay as the "laborers" tore up the'th Ave. just as nicely as you

Albng the afternoon, the gneaker walked by. George walked ovth his pick and began to r of a private little ditch for Bed

"Dhe u see any traffic passing hwhi?" he asked.

"No, bplied the girls.

"Who vins the bet?"

"You do."

When they left that night, George and Jack hung lanterns on each end of the block. And you can believe it or not, my friends, but the city didn't get Bise to what had happened until traffic had been stopped on that portion of Fifth avenue for two full days!.

American Legion Programs, Olympic Games Resume Highlights on Air

Three American Legion programs, presented in connection with the state convention to be held in Pittsburgh August 18-20, are scheduled on WCAE and WWSW today.

Commander John J. Deller, of the Allegheny County American Legion, is guest speaker during a special broadcast from the studios of WCAE tonight at 8 o'clock, with Frank and Lawrence Andrini, masters of the strings; Nino Perinnetti, piano accordionist, and the Midnight Mose Quartet. On the same station at 4:45, Howard F. Croushore, adjutant of the organization's Allegheny County division, is heard in a brief address. The musical portion of the program is provided by vocalists and instrumentalists of the legion.

Another special program is listed on WWSW at 7 p. m., featuring short talks and music by members of the organization.

Ted Husing

A complete resume of each day's events at the 1932 Olympic Games in Los Angeles will be broadcast each night over a Columbia chain including WJAS beginning tonight at 11:15. Ted Husing, ace sports announcer, will be at the microphone. Grantland Rice, one of the country's foremost sports writers, is reporting the games nightly for NBC. His resume tonight is scheduled on KDKA at 12.

Unearthed from an old trunk where it had lain for decades, a melody written more than 75 years ago by the famous Pittsburgh composer, Stephen C. Foster, is presented for the first time to radio listeners tonight during the Contented program on KDKA at 8 o'clock.

The composition is presented tonight in a special orchestral arrangement, with a vocal chorus by Cyril Pitts, tenor, to the accompaniment of strings and harp.

Program Pointers

Wisconsin, whose summer resorts are now the playground of thousands of Americans, is honored during the Parade of States presentation on WCAE tonight at 9:30, by a concert orchestra directed by Frank Black with Elizabeth Lennox, contralto, and Theodore Webb, baritone, as guest soloists. Compositions by three of the state's most prominent composers, Carrie Jacobs Bond, Percy Wenrich and Herbert Stothart, are featured.

Miss Lennox

Dr. S. T. Brooks opens a new series of educational talks as a part of the Carnegie Museum broadcasts on WCAE tonight at 6:45. His topic tonight is "Among Our Lower Animals—The Protozoa."

The Boswell Sisters sing "Stardust," "Heebie Jeebie Blues," and "Three Kisses" in a program of rhythm and harmony on WJAS at 10.

An amusing gastronomical love story, the plot of which centers about "Mulligan," the mule-skinners' name for stew, and the rivalry between a teamster and a young swamper for the love of a girl, is dramatized on KDKA at 8:30.

"Goin' Home," an adaptation by William Arms Fisher of the Largo movement of Dvorak's "New World" symphony, is a highlight of Richard Crooks' program on WCAE at 8:30 o'clock.

Fan Fare

Two new records were established at NBC's Chicago studios recently . . . Junior production men "set up" the studios for 70 broadcasts in one day, and Everett Mitchell announced 22 shows during the same time. Mitchell was before the microphone nine hours . . . Sam Baum, drummer with Harold Stokes' Swanee Serenaders, values his equipment at $4,000 . . . William Scotti, whose orchestra is heard over NBC networks, including WCAE on late dance programs, has been with NBC since its organization . . . Gene Arnold lived four weeks on $2.50 when he went to New York for a start on Broadway.

Mr. Mitchell

Lowell Patton is still receiving "birthday" presents sent by listeners because of the first anniversary of his "Song for Today" program. One of the most highly prized gifts is a tiny gold dollar, dated 1861.

Paul Whiteman observes that New York seems to be a girls' town as far as auditions are concerned, although dozens of men have had auditions, too, since the jazz king renewed his search for talent at the Biltmore.

Albert Payson Terhune, guest speaker on Mondays in the Circle program, once received an offer of adoption from chiefs of the Bedouin tribe of El-Kanah in the Land of Moab. Years ago, while crossing the Syrian Desert by camel, he lived for months as the guest of the tribe.

Erno Rapee gave up a weekly salary said to exceed $500 as conductor of the "Parade of States" programs in order to go to Europe to conduct two concerts of the Budapest Philharmonic Orchestra, for which he'll receive less than $10 in American money.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With—
Patricia Pitt

It has been almost tradition that during July and August just everyone goes away and the social whirl is at a standstill until September or October. But this year has brought an about-face, and folks either stay home or trip about for brief visits and home again. And there are any number of gay informal events to fill the summer, parties, dances, bridges, golf, and I could go on and on enumerating.

And it isn't just the grown-ups who thus while away the hours, but the very, very young set has its fling, too. On Friday Mrs. Paul J. McGraw, of Denniston avenue, entertained with a birthday garden party for her twin daughters, Sally and Nancy. Sally and Nancy were five years old, and they had 35 guests at their party. Decorations featured gayly colored balloons and vivid lawn umbrellas. The birthday cake was served at one long table seating all the young guests.

summer home, Sunset Hill. With her are her son-in-law and daughter, the Thomas H. Eddys and their children, Dorothea, Jean, Elizabeth Louise and Thomas. Mrs. Edwin Bliss Reed, of New Haven, another daughter of Mrs. Thompson, is with her, too.

Harry Darlington III, son of Mrs. Harry Darlington, who is with his family at Stoneyhurst, the Darlington Watch Hill home, is playing in the annual boys' tennis singles this week at the Misquamicut Golf Club.

He was placed second in the weekly race for the Alden class held recently by the Watch Hill Yacht Club, sailing his craft, Hopeful.

Another son of Mrs. Darlington, McCullough, whom everyone calls Cully, is seen daily in the little Narragansett Bay, driving his fast outboard motor speed boat, Ginger. He recently went on a cruise with members of the Watch Hill Boys' Club to Fisher's Island, N. Y., on the Syrene, a cruiser owned by John Jacob, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., whose son, Jack, is a member of the group.

have toured the White Hills, or visited some of the leading resorts.

John O5Connor, Jr., of Pittsburgh, is visiting the Homer St. Gaudenses at their home in Cornish, N. H., and drove to the White Mountains with them for a visit to the Mt. Washington Hotel at Bretton Woods.

Mrs. Harry P. Davis, of Pittsburgh, who is at the Mountain View House, Whitefield, N. H., gave a dinner there in honor of Elizabeth Cooley, of Detroit, who has a summer home near by. Among the guests also were Mrs. T. C. McCutcheon, of Pittsburgh, and her sister, Mrs. T. DeWitt Talmadge, of Washington.

The Pittsburgh visitors at the Mountain View House entered a duplicate contract tournament which started there on Monday, with many tables competing. Mrs. Harold E. Hewlett was in charge.

Romaine Clark, of Pittsburgh, who has been the guest of Mrs. C. F. Pugh, of Pittsburgh, at the latter's summer home in Manchester, Vt., arrived this week at the Mountain View, Whitefield, for her customary visit and saw there, many of the Pittsburgh colony who, like Miss Clark, winter in St. Petersburg, Fla. Miss Clark gave a large luncheon at Peckett's on Sugar Hill, following their arrival, in honor of Mrs. Pugh, asking several members of the Pittsburgh colony at Whitefield to attend. These Continental luncheons are served on the tea room porch and designated as Continental, because of the many innovations of French and Swiss service enjoyed, and the use of beautiful foreign pottery and china.

U. S. Diplomatic Aide Marries New York Girl

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—A State Department romance has culminated in the marriage in New York of Miss Rose Patricia Fuller and Michael J. McDermott, a trusted aide at the post-war peace negotiations in Paris and now chief of the division of current information.

Mac, as he is known familiarly to diplomats of many lands, has been connected with the State Department since 1920. Miss Fuller, a clerk, entered its service in 1917.

McDermott, 38 years old and a native of Peabody, Mass., was a clerk in the American section of the Supreme War Council at Versailles during the war, confidential clerk to Gen. Tasker H. Bliss and the American commission to negotiate peace, and later secretary to Elihu Root in the drafting of the World Court.

The marriage was performed by the bride's brother, the Rev. Edward Fuller, S. J.

Girls of School Set Leave for House Party

Miss Louise McKee, daughter of William Mitchell McKee, of Tennyson avenue; Miss Jean Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Davison, of Beechwood boulevard, and Miss Marion Black, daughter of Mrs. Edna M. Black, of Wightman street, left recently to attend a house party given by Miss Helen Ruth Deike at her parents' summer home in Dunkirk, N. Y. All four girls are recent graduates of the Winchester School, and plan to attend college in the fall.

County Vice President Entertains for P. T. A.

Mrs. E. H. N. Fendrich, of Gibsonia, entertained the Allegheny County P. T. A., of which she is vice president, at a luncheon and executive meeting in her home on Friday. Following the brief business meeting, Mrs. D. N. Bulford, state vice president, conducted a study group for public speaking.

Dormont New Century Group Holds Porch Party

The Dormont New Century Club educational committee held the first of a series of porch parties Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Forrest in Hillsdale avenue. There were nine tables of bridge in play. The proceeds from the parties will be contributed to the club's scholarship fund to aid Dormont girls with college tuition.

Mrs. Richard B. Perry, program chairman, held a meeting of her committee on Wednesday in her home in Annapolis avenue. She and Mr. Perry left Saturday for a month's vacation in South Carolina.

Squirrel Hill Girl Weds East End Man

Mr. and Mrs. M. Schleifer, of Melvin street, Squirrel Hill, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lucy Schleifer, to Jack Amdur, of Wellesley avenue, East End.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Be Still, Sad Hearts!

The world seems to be divided into two classes of people. Those who tremble for fear that this will soon become "a woman's world," that women will become Amazons and that men will be the downtrodden sex. And those who are beginning to wonder, cynically, if all the struggles of the feminists to free women from bondage, have been wasted. * * *

Personally, I agree with Mrs. Parrot that, thus far at least, "woman's freedom has been God's greatest gift to man," and has not done so much for woman.

No pessimist need fear that woman will ever become the dominant sex, so long as the return to CORSETS is regarded as a serious possibility!

* * *

Any sex that will permit itself to be ruled by a few French dressmakers, and will let its vital organs be squeezed back into whalebone and steel, will never be independent.

No sex that swathes its hands and arms in long, hot kid gloves on a melting summer evening and freezes its legs in openmesh stockings and satin pumps in a January blizzard, will ever wield the scepter; it will be too busy warding off rheumatism.

So, be still sad hearts, and cease repining! Heaven knows I should shudder to see my own fair sex become Amazons. It would be a sorry spectacle to see "brave, strong women" coddling, bullying and protecting frail, delicate men. But, be of good cheer! It will never happen, so long as there is a pair of castiron corsets left anywhere in the world, except in a museum, with the other relics of barbarism!

SMART EVENING ACCESSORIES SEEN AT GAY FIRST NIGHTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 1. — Recent first-night audiences in Paris have stolen the shows. There has often been more news in the new Paris clothes shown at this season's premieres than in the productions themselves. At one opening of a play that turned out to be a failure, there was the beginning of the big fashion success of cut flowers, worn in a number of new ways; at another, a play which soon closed, was launched the fad of wearing flowers in the hair, a style which has already outlived the play by several weeks.

TODAY'S SKETCHES, made at an important first-night, show some of the odds and ends among evening fashions that have become popular. The flower arrangement shown in one of the sketches was worn on a white satin gown with tight bodice, and without the slightest trace of decoration. The flowers, fresh sweet peas, added color in pale and brilliant pink tints. Paris women now often wear artificial flowers in this manner, not only sweet peas, but flat climber roses, violets and gardenias.

THE TINY jacket in the sketch, worn over a black dress of dull crinkly crepe, is of heavy lame in black and white. It is extremely short, as the sketch shows — not even brassiere length—and ties at the front at a fairly high neckline. The earrings in the same sketch, made like little conical shells, are of silver.

SILVER, ALSO, are the bracelet and ring, a combination of polished with dull or oxidized silver. The stone in the ring is opaque white.

THE SANDALS, worn without stockings, are of pale, green kid, with a white strap of brilliants holding the tiny straps together.

ARMY HUNTS 7 LOST IN HAWAII

HONOLULU, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Searching parties beat the wild forests behind the Waianae Mountains today seeking four officers and three enlisted men missing since Friday on a reconnaissance detail.

No word has been received from the party since it left Shofield Barracks. The missing men are Maj. Joseph Vachon, Capt. George S. Pierce, Arthur K. Noble and William F. Stevenson, Sergts. Cristmore and Andrews and Pvt. Johnston, all of the 19th Infantry.

The party had carried pigeons, but none of the birds have returned to the barracks. Land parties and an airplane are participating in the search. The party carried rations for several days.

4 Pittsburghers Hurt When Auto Upsets

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 1.—Four Pittsburghers were injured when their automobile overturned last night at Markleysburg road and the National pike when the driver swerved the machine to avoid striking a small girl on roller-skates.

William Weicher, of 1705 Blackadore street, Pittsburgh; J. H. Bullen and his wife, of Oakmont, and William Bullen, of 5875 Ellsworth avenue, Pittsburgh, were treated by a physician for lacerations and body bruises.

Man's Teeth Held For Payment of Hospital Bill

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—Jeremiah Joseph O'Connell today was subsisting on a soup diet and all because his false teeth are in the safe.

After an altercation with police, Jeremiah went to Belmont Hospital for repairs. When he refused to pay the bill, the hospital retained his teeth. Relenting, he decided to pay the charges and returned to the hospital to reclaim his artificial molars. Imagine his chagrin when he was informed that his teeth were locked up in the safe by the superintendent who was the only one to know the combination and who was out of the city.

BEDOUIN REVOLT CRUSHED

JEDDA, Hedjaz, Arabia, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—The government of powerful Ibn Saud, ruler of much of Arabia, announced today it had subdued a rebellion among the Bedouin tribesmen, killing 360 rebels including the Bedouin leader, Ibn Rifada.

The communique revealed for the first time that a revolt had occurred in the desert. It said a day-long battle was fought near Gebel Shar and at the end, the rebel movement was completely crushed.

It was added that Ibn Rifada, long a rebellious enemy of Ibn Saud, the "Puritan Ruler" of Hedjaz and Nejd, had been beheaded. His head was used as a football by the village boys, the communique added.

Dies in Blazing Plane After Crash

BAY CITY, Mich., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—William Schwab, 43, Bay City pilot, was burned to death last night when a plane he was piloting in a test flight crashed and caught fire.

NEWSIES' PARTY TRANSFERRED

"Bring 'Em Back Alive" is drawing such big crowds to the Warner Theater that the Sun-Telegraph carrier boys' party, scheduled for the Warner tomorrow morning, has been transferred to the Harris Theater on Diamond street. This change was not made until this morning, but was found necessary on account of the big patronage this spectacular Frank Buck wild animal picture has developed from the jump.

Approximately 1,000 boys have been invited to the Sun-Telegraph party and the Warner management has arranged to get an extra print of "Bring 'Em Back Alive" for the Harris Theater showing. Admission will be by ticket only and all the tickets have been distributed. The party is exclusively for carrier boys who have home delivery routes for the Sun-Telegraph.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT DENOUNCES NEEDY HOUSING BILL

SUNDAY BUSES DEPEND ON PROTEST

Township Will Seek Resumption for Mt. Lebanon

Restoration of Sunday bus service in Mt. Lebanon, discontinued two weeks ago by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, will rest entirely with the strength of the complaint which Township Commissioners said they would lodge. Chairman Louis C. Clark stated an investigation has been ordered.

Vice President Thomas Fitzgerald of the motor coach company, today said service would not be resumed unless the company could see more reasons for resumption than at present. He said the company is not demanding that expenses be met, and would welcome complaints that would bring out all the facts.

At Public Service Commission headquarters, it was said, the company was within its right in withdrawing service.

RENEW PROBE OF BOWSER JOB

New subpenas are to go out tonight for witnesses in the grand jury investigation of the Watson Bowser $200,000 hauling job at the County Airport. The probe, scheduled to end today, will be continued tomorrow.

After District Attorney Andrew T. Park and his first assistant, George F. P. Langfitt, had interrogated A. R. McKenzie, president; Burt Bragdon, treasurer, and E. T. McIlvaine, sales manager of the Duquesne Slag Company, in connecting with the Bowser hauling job, Langfitt announced that the leads obtained would be followed by the issuance of new subpenas.

Officers of the William G. Johnson Company were interrogated on printing contracts by Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Jackson. The witnesses included W. A. Shields, president; E. A. Seiple, vice president; John Maloney, secretary, and Charles Schmidt, bookkeeper.

Work on presentments will not be started before Wednesday, it was said.

The presentments are expected to recommend indictments in many different phases of the investigation, including the misuse of county gasoline and the wholesale purchase of tax receipts for illegal voting.

OFFICIAL HELD AFTER CRASH

William F. Campbell, Forest Hills councilman, today is under a charge of driving while under the inuence of liquor after the borough's automobile was wrecked on the Lincoln Highway, near Rainbow Gardens, yesterday. State police and Constable Charles Ulm, of Versailles Township, arrested Campbell after the borough automobile was in a collision with the machine of J. T. Hughes, of 311 Freeland avenue, Mt. Oliver. According to the police, Councilman Campbell was accompanied by W. J. Campbell, a Braddock policeman. The former posted $1,000 bond for a hearing before Justice of the Peace J. D. Watson, of Versailles Township.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 1.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Get this for a laugh. First events on Olympic program, weight-lifting, both light and heavy, both won by Frenchman. One was a dancing teacher, the other a dealer in a gambling house. Best showing at opening was by Canada, second by Italy, third Argentine, and today one hundred and five thousand people are looking for the ladies' milliner that put those French "berets" on our American boys. Those "boudoir caps" are bad enough on a Frenchman, but on an American athlete they are a scream. Only test of endurance at the opening was ten thousand meter prayer. A man with a short prayer could get booking for life, just at these international events. Yours,

WILL.

City Gas and Gasoline Lighting Help Boost Cost of Government

The City of Pittsburgh last year paid $949,000 for light.

A city must be lighted, and most citizens agree, well lighted.

But it should be lighted economically and judiciously—and herein lies a question.

Why does Pittsburgh use gas lights at an exorbitant cost?

There has been some question raised as to whether street lighting by gas is proper lighting, and furthermore, whether it is economical lighting. Responsible business men have questioned the use of gas and gasoline lights.

Yet for this year, the city is spending $89,000 for gas lamps of 60 candlepower, when the electric power company, even with its high rate, would furnish 100 candle power units for $16,000 less.

ELIMINATE WASTE IN GOVERNMENT

three years of the contract, the saving would be at least $45,000.

A saving of $45,000 would reduce the cost of government in Pittsburgh — a cost which is too high.

Herron's Pledge

President John S. Herron, of Council, in renewing the gas light contract, for two years and 10 months from last March, declared it would be the last renewal.

How can he be sure? His present term will have expired before the termination of the contract.

He declared the company had an investment here, and their investment would have to be protected.

This of course is at the expense of the taxpayers. There is still time to move for an abrogation of the contract, or at least modification of rates to meet the high electric rate.

At present there are 3,350 gas lamps and 126 gasoline lamps which, compared with electricity, admittedly furnish inadequate illumination. A 60-candle power gas light costs the city $25.50 and the gasoline lamp costs $36 a year each. The cost of each 100-candle power electric unit at the present high rate is $21.05.

The difference is worth seeking a concession from the gas company—The Sunlight Illuminating Company.

Street Lighting

Electric street lighting is to cost the city $826,000 this year.

Conferences have been held for rate reduction by the Duquesne Light Company, which holds the monopoly of electric current supply. But Council has disbanded for the summer, and the rates go on. Likewise, the cost of current goes on. The conferences lag.

The taxpayer didn't bother when he had the money to pay. But he hasn't it now. Still the cost goes on.

The saving would be $16,000 a year for the nearly

HELD FOR COURT IN GIRL CASE

A 15-year-old girl was in custody of police at the Juvenile Court detention rooms and three married men who are alleged to have contributed to the girl's absence from her home in McKeesport for nearly three weeks were arraigned in Police Court today. Charles Gunn, 33, of 416 Fifth avenue, Oakmont, and Lawson Christy, 24, of 173 Pius street, were discharged, and Lawrence Haywood, 23, of 602 Camp street, held for court.

Police arrested the three early today on the South Side on description furnished by McKeesport police. Later the girl was found in Christy's home. Police say the trio admitted they had been drinking with the girl in a South Side establishment and police then raided the home of May Rapay, 26, of 29 South Fifteenth street. She was fined $50.

The raiders reported confiscating a gallon of moonshine.

Because of her youth, the Sun-Telegraph will not publish the name of the girl who left her McKeesport home.

Jobless Pharmacists Urged to Register

Unemployed pharmacists are urged to register at the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry office, Grant street, in an appeal issued today by registration officials who announced that in the last few weeks employment had been found for seven unemployed men.

The positions have been obtained through the activities of the department, co-operating with the National Association of Drug Clerks and local manufacturers of medicinal products.

Man Shot Fighting Burglar in Home

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 1.—Aloysius Pratt, 30, was critically wounded early today battling a burglar in the bedroom of his home. The shooting occurred a short time after a burglar had entered the home of Daniel Frankcocky, a block away, and escaped after firing a shot. Frankcocky was unhurt.

CROWDS WATCHING JOHN VOLPE'S BODY BEING CARRIED FROM HOME HIS TO THE HEARSE

More than 70,000 men, women and children watched the funeral procession from the Volpe home in Wilmerding and all traffic was detoured along the line of the procession to the cemetery today. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

MOTHERS PRAY FOR LOST SONS

Two grief-stricken mothers in their homes today hoped that their sons, who disappeared late yesterday, would be returned to them—alive.

The youths, Jack Bitzer, 14, and Roy Cooper, 16, disappeared after they left their homes to swim in the Allegheny River.

Mrs. Harry C. Bitzer, of the Evergreen store, Babcock boulevard, told police Jack wore blue pants, a tan suede sweater and tan shoes at the time of his disappearance. His companion was the son of a neighbor.

Flier Escapes Crash Fatal to Brother

WILDWOOD, N. J., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Charles Cooper, 33, Philadelphia, was burned to death today after an airplane piloted by his brother Barney, crashed on the beach at Wildwood Crest from a height of 200 feet and burst into flames.

The brother escaped from the wreckage uninjured and he and Coast Guardsmen made futile efforts to extricate Charles.

Wounded in Struggle For Gun Wife Held

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 1.—Fleming Harris, 36, was shot in the stomach, when according to police, a revolver was accidentally discharged in a scuffle for the weapon held by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Harris, in their home here early today. Harris was removed to a hospital. He was said to be in a serious condition.

Wise Politician Is the First One To Stone Quarry

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

With Washington as deserted as a bigamist's first five wives you might think that politics would be set out on the window sill to cool off.

But that's where you are wronger than a turtle trying to skip a rope. The boys are back home now figuring out schemes to dump the other guy's apple cart.

Don't forget this is a presidential year and everything is fair in love, war or armistices.

While the Democrats and Republicans are apparently as serene and gentle as a lily pond, don't let that befoozle you.

Still waters run deep and there's plenty mud on the bottom. The fireworks are about to break loose and he who casts the first stone is the wise politician who beat the foe to the quarry.

When they shoot your watchdog in the morning you can expect burglars the next night. They're only shadow boxing now but these political fiddlers don't take long to tune up.

Daniel Boone said the only time Indians were around were when you didn't see them. And it's time for the politicians to start looking in back of every tree.

FAYETTE THEFT SUSPECTS HELD

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 1.—Two additional members of an alleged youthful bandit group, said by state police to have committed a series of robberies in Fayette County, were sought today as police continued to investigate the activities of four men arrested last Thursday.

Three of the men, Ralph Simpson, 19; Jack Williams, 23, and William Murphy, 45, all of McKeesport, were held for court on charges of highway robbery at a hearing last night before Alderman J. A. Walton. A fourth youth, Elmer Meredith, 19, of McKeesport, is held for investigation.

Two Die in Airplane Crash on Golf Links

DAYTON, O., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Two men were killed in an airplane crash on a golf course one mile south of here yesterday. The victims were Charles Harding, 19, of Miamisburg, the pilot, and Reuben Fink, 20, of Franklin, O. The plane, a three-seated cabin type, struck a telephone wire and went into a nose dive.

Steam Scalds 40 on Excursion Train

WESTBROOK, Conn., Aug. 1.—(INS.) — Forty passengers in a Boston-to-New York excursion train were burned and cut early today when steam from a passing locomotive shattered windows in 11 coaches.

Two score windows in the excursion train were smashed, and passengers, most of them asleep, were showered by glass fragments.

'BLUE SHIRTS' SET FOR TRIP

Delegates to the Blue Shirt-Jobless Liberty party convention to be held in St. Louis August 17, will leave Pittsburgh about noon Sunday, August 14, it was announced yesterday following a meeting of 2,000 Blue Shirts at St. Patrick's Church. Speakers at the meeting was Father James R. Cox, founder of the Jobless party and of the Blue Shirts; Earl Dean, mayor of Coxtown; George Ewing, Homestead business man, and Attorneys Henry Ellenbogen and Austin Staley.

Attorney Staley is national executive chairman of the party and Ewing is slated to be permanent chairman. Attorney Ellenbogen is expected to be the temporary chairman at the convention.

DIES IN FIRST CHUTE LEAP

MONESSEN, Pa., Aug. 1.—Officials today were investigating the fatal plunge of Ralph Marshall, 19, of Gibson, near here, killed yesterday when his parachute failed to open after he had leaped from an airplane at an altitude of 3,000 feet. The plunge was witnessed by several thousand persons at the Monessen Airport.

It was Marshall's first parachute leap. In a plane piloted by Elmer Banford, 26, of Rostraver Township, he had taken off from the airport.

Radio-Driven Auto Runs Wild, Hurts 3

HANOVER, Pa., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—A driverless radio-controlled automobile injured three persons, one critically, plowed through a cornfield, roamed over fields and the Hanover Airport, and ended its tour upside down during a demonstration at the airport yesterday.

Sixteen-year-old Walter Weaver is reported near death of a fractured skull., David Esbaugh, 53, suffered a fractured leg, and Herbert Hershey, 45, received scalp and shoulder injuries.

500 Chinese Perish As Floods Increase

SHANGHAI, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—The death toll was counted at 500 as the flooded Canton River, which has been battering down the huts in the poorer districts of this southern capital of China, continued to rise today.

HINTS AT VETO ON AMENDED MEASURE

Governor Sees No Help for Poor In Issue

HARRISBURG, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today asserted that Senate amendments to the Hunsicker limited dividend housing corporation bill has so changed the measure that instead of providing housing for the poor at low rentals, they now provide opportunity for exorbitant profits in real estate and speculations.

The bills in their original form were approved by the conference of administration officials and Republican organization leaders prior to the special session call.

BEFORE HOUSE TONIGHT

They were passed by the Senate as amended last week and will be considered on second reading in the House tonight.

In their original form, the bills provided for "effective supervision" of limited dividend housing corporation, the Governor said. As amended they provide that companies receiving loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation shall be completely exempt from state regulation.

Pinchot asserted that this is directly contrary to the federal act authorizing such loans and will make federal aid impossible.

Without the federal loans, the bill would be useless and deprive the people of the housing and the work the federal government has offered, he said.

THREATENS VETO

The Senate amended the bill by removing the provision for these corporations exercising the right of eminent domain in acquiring land and the Governor declared that this would work "to the great profit of real estate speculators and holdup men."

The Governor said he would veto the bills if passed in their present form.

The Legislature this week will determine whether it will levy taxes on cigarets, cosmetics and soft drinks to provide funds for direct relief.

The proposed tax measures would place imposts of one cent on every 10 cigarets and a 10 per cent levy on gross receipts from sale of cosmetics and soft drinks, giving the state, $12,000,000 a year.

RELIEF FUND PROBLEM

If the Legislature adheres to its original opposition to new taxes and refuses to approve these measures, there will be only two courses open—to adjourn without providing any relief funds, or to devise some new means, not yet suggested, of obtaining funds.

Another proposal which may be introduced in the House tonight is a flat income tax measure.

Among the measures to be acted upon finally by the Legislature this week is the economy program, now pared down from its original figure of $27,000,000 to $13,967,623, to meet with the Governor's approval. The Steedle bill, keystone of the measures providing these reductions in governmental costs, will be acted upon finally by the Senate tonight. It will go to the House for concurrence.

NEW SHOOTING SUSPECTS HELD

County detectives today arrested William Egenlauf, 19, of 907 Bennett street, and Wilbur Gobbel, of O'Neil boulevard, Versailles Township, in connection with the shooting of Roy Mellinger, 1809 Vermont avenue, Versailles Township.

Previously Howard Frick, of Versailles Township, had been arrested in connection with the shooting, but after William Weldon, McKeesport real estate man, notified police that last Wednesday he had been held up by three men, an investigation resulted in the arrest of Egenlauf and Gobbel and a detainer placed against Wellinger in the McKeesport Hospital.

According to Weldon, three men attempted to hold him up and he shot through the windshield of his car. The same night Mellinger appeared at the hospital and said he had been shot from ambush. He lost the sight of one eye. Because the Mellinger and Frick families had engaged in a law suit, young Frick was arrested.

AUTO CRASHES INJURE 2

Albert Dertvasion, of 847½ Arlington avenue, North Braddock, was reported in a serious condition in Braddock General Hospital today, injured when an auto which he was driving collided with another car in Ninth street at Cherry way, Braddock, yesterday.

James Harrison, 29, of Liberty way, McKeesport, suffered a broken left arm and possible internal injuries during a racing mishap at Bettis Airport yesterday.

A county automobile said to have been used by Ray Dever, chief custodian of the County Bureau of Elections, was wrecked when it hit a pole in Grandview avenue near Oneida street last night, police were informed.

Shoots at Wife, Wounds Bystander

A bullet intended by a husband for his wife, with whom he was arguing, today struck an innocent bystander, police reported. Pearl Duffy, 29, Negro, was in Homeopathic Hospital, a bullet wound in the abdomen, and police were searching for Jess Whitaker, 36, Negro, of 81 Longworth street, where the argument took place. Whitaker's wife, Ida, was under arrest.

Dream Brings Return Of Missing Diamond

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Her dream came true and Mrs. Arthur Baker of McLean found her diamond ring, which she thought had been stolen four years ago. Last winter she said she dreamed it was under the concrete floor of her pantry. The dream was repeated recently.

She went to the expense of having the floor torn up, and found the ring.

Drug Store Heads See Trade Revival

Improvement of business is seen by executives of the Dow Drug Co., following their Golden Jubilee celebration. Orders for $200,000 in merchandise were placed prior to the selling event, giving employment to many persons, they say. The expenditure on merchandise and publicity was, they claim, justified by the success of the sale.

Dravo Burial Rites Set for Arlington

TIGER ROARS, ELEPHANT BORED AT JUNGLE FILM

DUKE SNARLING AT CAMERA . . HE WANTS TO GET MIXED UP IN MOVIE DEATH-BATTLE

The call of the wild resounded through the Highland Park zoo when Duke, from the Malayan jungles, felt the primitive urge as Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive" was shown for his special benefit, with sound effects. During a struggle between a tiger and python, screened in his cage, Duke leaped about and roared his mightiest. It was Duke's wildest exhibition in 16 years of captivity. He was captured and brought here at age of 2. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

REGISTERING CONTEMPT . . . 'YOU CAN'T GET ME EXCITED'

The zoo's largest elephant apparently only gave the jungle picture "the razz." At first he trumpeted his surprise, then he came to the front and threw out his powerful trunk, blowing a powerful blast of air toward the projector. A. J. Schaumann, head keeper, says he believes the experiment with the animals proved effective.

Homestead Boy, 6, Injured by Auto

William Piazza, 6, of 217 Ninth avenue, Homestead, was in Homestead Hospital today suffering slight injuries to the head and body, resulting from being struck by an automobile in Amity street last night, police reported. H. A. Mareue, of 213 Joseph street, Homestead, was released after reporting the accident to the police.

$150,000 Estate Bequeathed Widow

The $150,000 estate of Thomas W. Smith, 700 St. James street, is bequeathed to his widow, Mary P. Smith, according to his will filed today. She is named executor.

STAY IN 'GRAVE' ENDED BY GIRL

Miss Joan Hardt, 24, ended her eight days hibernation last night when she consented to be dug up from her "grave" at Piney Forks swimming pool, near Library. She declared she has established a record for women marathon grave sleepers.

She was "buried" July 23 and had eaten no food during her hibernation. The grave was ventilated by a long tube which permitted her to talk to the many curious persons who visited the grave.

SHOOTS AT CAT, WOUNDS BOY

From his second-story window, 12-year-old Graves Mitchell, of 12 Carrie street, Rankin, pulled the trigger of his rifle.

He wanted to hit that cat ambling along the street. But the bullet clipped the neck of 10-year-old Wilbur Cunningham, of 209 Second street, Rankin.

Wilbur, in Homeopathic Hospital, was reported to have spent a restless night. His condition may become serious.

Rankin's police chief, Michael Jordan, said Graves would be turned over to Juvenile Court.

THE DRINK THAT MAKES A PAUSE REFRESHING

FOUR SUICIDES INVESTIGATED

The deaths of four men, suicides, according to the report to the Coroner, were being investigated today by deputy coroners.

A serious illness is believed to have caused Edwin Vercamman, 67, a Belgian, to shoot himself in the head at his home in Sturgeon yesterday. Neighbors found the body in the small house where Vercannan had lived alone for several years.

Alexander Pearlman, 32, owner of a garage in Munhall, ended his life by shooting himself at his home in East Eighth avenue, Munhall, yesterday, according to a coroner's report. No cause for the alleged suicide could be learned.

George B. Fryer, 62, of 462 Parker street, Verona, died in Pittsburgh Hospital late Saturday night, a short time after he had slashed his throat and leaped from a second-story window in the rear of his home, the report to the Coroner stated. Relatives told police they believed that he was temporarily deranged at the time.

An improvised gun from a shotgun and a hammer ended the life of Clarence E. McElhaney, R. D., Coraopolis, in his bedroom late yesterday. Deputy coroners were unable to learn the cause of the alleged suicide.

FAWN TWP. MAN DIES AT 90

Robert Dawson, 90, oldest resident of Fawn Township, whose first vote was cast as a member of the Whig party, was dead today at his home at Millerstown.

Mr. Dawson

Born August 13, 1842, except for a brief period when in business in Tarentum, he had lived all his life in Fawn Township, where he operated a flour mill with his father, William Dawson.

He was a graduate of Duff College in 1863 and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was married in 1875. He leaves his widow, Mary Barker Dawson, 84; three sons, William B., Pittsburgh; Charles and Albert, of Tarentum; a daughter, Mrs. Bessie Magill, and seven grandchildren.

ASKS HOSPITAL FUND RETAINED

Retention of appropriations for improvements at the state health and mental hospitals today was urged by James F. Malone, former director of the State Department of Supplies.

The taking away of the construction appropriations by the special legislative session would have three "serious effects," he pointed out. He declared:

"Practically every one of the institutions is now overcrowded. The elimination of the building program would prevent the employment of many workmen and I cannot see where it will be of any advantage to do away with work and use the money for direct relief. It would only add to the unemployment and the numbers of families who will need relief."

Three Women Fined For Shoplifting

Pleading guilty to shoplifting, three Aliquippa women were fined $25 or 30 days each by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court today.

The women, arrested Saturday by South Side police, were Mrs. Mary Raycheveit, 28; Mrs. Mary Cook, 35, and Mrs. Violet Vichnich, 28. They were accused of having used four boys, sons of Mrs. Raycheveit and Mrs. Cook, to shield their movements. The boys were turned over to welfare workers.

See-Saw 84 Hours In Contest Here

The latest innovation of endurance contests reached the eighty-fourth hour at 11 a. m. today in the up and down existence of see-sawing of F. Duncan and B. Hopkins at Saw Mill Run boulevard and Nobles lane. The pair plan to continue the grind for 200 hours, which will bring them to next Sunday night. Crowds gather nightly to watch the odd contest.

Two Autosts Hurt Avoiding Collision

Joseph Richardson and his wife, Harriett, of 2622 Norwood avenue, were injured slightly today when Mrs. Richardson drove her automobile against the guard rail of Sixth Street Bridge to avoid collision with a pedestrian and a street car. The two were treated at Allegheny General Hospital.

Police Prisoner Dies in Hospital

A short time after he had been lodged in Central Police Station on a charge of vagrancy, Michael Courtney, 60, was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, where he died yesterday. Police reported hemorrhage of the brain as the cause.

HERE'S A POPULAR DESIGN FOR QUILTS

DOROTHY MALLINGER INSPECTS THE 'ROSE QUILT' . . . SCORES MAKING SIMILAR ONES

Eight-year-old Dorothy, of 1350 Sheridan street, fascinated by the beautiful design of this "rose quilt." It is 2½ yards wide and 3 yards long, requiring 9 yards for the top and 9 for bottom. Peter Pan gingham was used for the rose and nainsook muslin for white. The quilting fad continues to gain in popularity with Pittsburgh district women. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Chief Killed by Car, Body Dragged Miles

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 1.—Earl Myers, 38, chief of police of Graceton, Indiana County, was killed last night when struck by an automobile near Homer City. State police today were holding Nick Harchenko, 40, of Homer City.

Police said that Myers was pushing his stalled machine from the road when he was struck by the Harchenko machine. Myers' coat became entangled on the doorknob on the Harchenko car and he was dragged for more than two miles. Two boys said they saw Harchenko throw the body into a creek.

CO-EDS TAKE UP QUILTING

Carnegie Tech co-eds are going in for crazy-quilt making, following the latest fad trend in Pittsburgh, it became known today.

Mrs. Roswell Johnson, wife of Prof. Johnson, of the University of Pittsburgh, will conduct a special group in the art needle work practised in the days of the Revolutionary War and which bids fair to supplant hooked rug making as a feminine hobby.

Just how many girls will enroll in the class with the opening of the school year this fall could not be learned.

This is another indication of the spreading revival of the art of needlework as our grandmothers enjoyed it. The new Nancy Page club, started in the Sun-Telegraph Saturday, is right in line with this popular revival. The Nancy Page club gives complete instructions and designs for making colorful, exquisite quilts, and from the number of letters the Sun-Telegraph received today the club is a success from the start. This feature appears in the Saturday Sun-Telegraph only.

Husband Slain, Wife And Man Questioned

Hornsby Holman, Negro, of Mill street, Duquesne, was found shot to death in a yard in the rear of his home early today, according to a Coroner's report. Police held James King, 30, Negro, of Mill street, and Holman's wife, Fanny, 20, for questioning.

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

Here are the dates on which residents of Allegheny County may qualify to vote for President and other offices at the November election:

September 7—Last day to be assessed for payment of poll taxes, a tax receipt being necessary to register.

September 8—First registration day in second and third-class cities, including Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

September 20—Second registration day.

October 8—Third and last registration day, also last day to pay poll taxes.

September 6 and 7—Register assessors will sit at polling places in boroughs and townships to list those who may have been omitted in house-to-house canvass.

BIG TAX FUND PAID COUNTY

Allegheny County citizens poured $1,400,000 more into the county treasury Saturday than they did on the corresponding day in 1930., the record year for tax collections, County Treasurer Robert S. Cain revealed today. Saturday was the final discount day.

Cain, disclosing bank deposits of $3,400,000—$2,600,000 on Saturday and $800,000 today—said tax collections, however, would be lower than in the banner year.

Merchant Cancels Outstanding Bills

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 1.—All outstanding accounts have been canceled by I. E. Cracken, for 21 years a merchant at Reryson Station.

He wrote off a total of $2,500 as of January 1, 1929, with the comment that co-operation between individuals and groups would solve conditions.

MAN SLASHED, TWO FINED

A fight which followed a meeting of directors of the Lithuanian Citizens' Association on the South Side, resulted in one man being slashed on the face and two being fined in South Side police court yesterday. Police said the fight started when one director demanded that the usual month-end audit of the association books be made at the meeting Saturday night.

Peter Morgala, 38, of 1723 Jane street, accused of slashing Walter Stanciskas, 48, of 2310 Sarah street, was fined $10. Peter Kotucus, 38, of 48 South Seventeenth street, was fined $30 on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. Police said they found moonshine in the place.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

JUNE PROFIT ON FARMS DROPS

The June price improvement in hogs and cattle failed to make up for the heavy decrease in shipments and, as a result, farm cash income from a 71 per cent sample dropped close to an all-time low in June, according to a joint report of the Corn Industries Research Foundation and the State Street Management and Research Corporation. The two organizations state:

"Our figures show a total of $205,000,000 for the major farm commodities marketed in the month of June as against $221,000,000 in May and $299,000,000 in June of 1931. In spite of the price rise that came during the latter part of the month, hog shipments were greatly reduced and shippers took in some $8,900,000 less than the heavier total of lower priced hogs brought in May.

"Cattle and calves brought in about $2,600,000 more than in the previous month. Sheep and lambs showed $1,300,000 more than the very low total in May. Income from poultry also rose but these gains were more than offset by the leaner income from hogs, grains, cotton, eggs and dairy products."

Estimates for the half year indicate that cash returns from all farm cash produce were about $1,850,000,000, according to the survey. This represents about a 31 per cent decrease from the total of $2,660,000,000 for the corresponding six months of last year. Farm cash income has decreased steadily since 1929 and now stands at close to 43 per cent of the peak year totals. Cotton alone has successfully reversed the long downward trend, showing a 46 per cent improvement over the first six months of last year, but the recent favorable developments in meat prices may be expected to reflect more influence in the July returns and the statistical position of several other major items should offer decided resistance to further downward pressure.

ANNUITY LEAD STAYS HERE

According to figures compiled by the National Underwriter Company, the Equitable Life remains the outstanding annuity-writing company. The 107,999 annuity contracts sold by the Equitable exceeds those of all other companies combined and the annual income of $58,920,248, payable by the Equitable to annuities at maturity for their old age income is greater than the total of the next three leading companies.

According to William M. Duff, president of the Edward A. Woods Company, Pittsburgh, general agent for the Equitable, $4,147,102 life insurance was sold in July and for the first seven months of 1932 this Pittsburgh branch office has sold $22,979,795 life insurance which he regards as very satisfactory.

Three Leading Steel Companies Reduce Size of Losses

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THREE MAJOR steel companies were able to make progress in the face of the declining trend in demand. These organizations reported smaller losses for the second quarter than in the first quarter.

The remainder showed increased losses as was generally expected in view of the uninterrupted decline in mill activity during the three months ended on June 30.

Only one leading steel company was able to show a profit for the period. This was National Steel which had net earnings of $560,999 or 26 cents a share as compared with $592,800 or 27 cents a share in the first quarter.

The balance of the industry ran deeply into red ink. The only redeeming feature was the fact that three of the organizations through drastic economies and other influences were able to reduce losses to some extent.

Jones & Laughlin Improves Results

THE THREE COMPANIES which, contrary to expectations, cut down their losses during the second quarter were Jones & Laughlin Steel, Inland Steel and Wheeling Steel. In each case, however, the improvement was relatively small.

A comparison of net profits of leading steel companies for the first two quarters of the present year follows:

	Second Quarter	First Quarter
U. S. Stl.	$20,452,173	$13,218,549

Inland Results Are Favorable

NEXT TO NATIONAL Steel, which has continued to show profits as a result of exceptional management, favorable location of plants, modern equipment and its large proportion of tin mill capacity, Inland Steel's results may be considered to be outstandingly favorable.

In productive capacity Inland ranks among the leading companies. Its loss was relatively small in the first and second quarters of this year in comparison to its position in the industry. Inland also was one of the last of the producers, outside of National, to show profits from operations during 1931.

Pennsylvania Wheat Price Tops Average

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—The Department of Agriculture finds that on July 15 Pennsylvania farmers were receiving an average of 15 cents more than the national average price of a bushel of wheat.

The average Pennsylvania price was 51 cents, while the national average was 35.7.

Other grain products, with Pennsylvania and national average prices for July 15 included:

Product:	Pa. Price	National Price
Corn	.41 (Bu.)	.299
Oats	.33	.215
Barley	.39	.246
Rye	.44	.22
Buckwheat	.44	.441

EUREKA VACUUM NOW SHOWING PROFIT

DETROIT, Aug. 1.—Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Company reports for six months ended June 30, 1932, net profit of $18,420 after taxes, depreciation and charges, equal to 7 cents a share on 250,963 no-par shares of common stock, comparing with net loss of $313,582 for first half of 1931.

This is the first six months' period to show a profit since 1929 and reflects the substantially improved operating conditions resulting from drastic economies which have been instituted and a completely reorganized sales plan.

INVENTORY LOW

Eureka has practically disposed of its inventory and has liquidated its installment accounts down to only a fraction of the previous normal amount carried. The reserve now exceeds the balance of such accounts.

With its inventory practically gone, orders on hand necessitate reopening of the Eureka factory which has been inactive for almost a year. Orders are going out for materials and operations will be built up generally with the aim of being in full production on or before November 1.

SELLING REVAMPED

Discussing the change in Eureka Vacuum's picture Fred Wardell, president, said:

"About a year ago we completely reorganized our sales plan by going out of the retail business and selling distributors, public service companies and dealers. This permitted us to discontinue a great number of branches, and also to reduce a very large inventory which was required to supply our branches. Therefore, we closed our factory in July, 1931, and during this past year we have practically disposed of all of our inventory without resorting to cut prices or distress merchandise sales."

GOLD OUTFLOW REVERSED

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—The sudden reversal in flow of international capital, which is now veering back to this country, is attributed largely by Wall street bankers to revival of the belief that when business recovery definitely appears the United States will lead the way.

Around the middle of June the heavy outflow of capital began to slacken. In July, when it became clear that European central banks had drawn down virtually all of their gold balances which had been placed in this country, there was a change in trend.

The foreign exchange market, the sensitive barometer of shifting conditions in the international money field, has taken on some of the appearances of a rout for speculators who several weeks ago were selling the dollar short.

LEADERS HOPE SLUMP END IS NEAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The marked betterment of business and banking seen in the past month has been based largely on relaxation of financial tension following the outflow of gold, lessening of international and domestic political anxieties accompanying the reparations settlement and congressional adjournment, improvement in commodity prices, strengthening of security markets, increased stability in business indicators, and generally good crop prospects. To some extent, also, the flush of optimism undoubtedly reflects the rosy fingers of the dawn of reflation expected to result from administration measures.

But contraction of bank credit continues at about the same drastic rate as in earlier months, and consumer purchasing power is being persistently curtailed by wage cuts, for which work-spreading plans cannot fully compensate, while the movement for reduction of governmental expenditures grows apace. Evidences of increasing employment are still inconclusive save as to the improved operating possibilities and superior competitive position at low price levels of smaller concerns with light debt burdens and low fixed charges.

Some currency expansion may result from active use of the new circulation privileges by national banks, and aggressive efforts are under way among local banker-industrialist committees to convert idle credit resources into constructive work. But it is evident that the reflation measures cannot become effective for some months, and in the meantime are being offset by continued deflationary efforts in other directions. The outcome depends upon the relative strength and speed of these opposing forces.

For the week ending July 23, The Business Week's index of business activity showed a preliminary reading 55.3, as compared with a revised reading of 55.7 for the previous week, 75.4 for the corresponding week (ending July 25) a year ago.

COPPER MARKET FIRMING UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 1. — A slightly better tone was noted in the copper market late in the week, partly in sympathy with an upturn at London and better demand from the continent. Moderate offerings from Japan in European markets at concessions which had caused an easier undertone recently were said to have been absorbed. In the domestic market sellers held firm at 5¼ cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley, but business was limited to small lots for immediate shipment.

Tin was firmer, reflecting better inquiry from consumers who had restricted purchases for some time and found it necessary to re-enter the market.

Strength of lead resulted from the policy adopted by producers of limiting sales to restricted production.

Zinc remained dull and unchanged. Sellers were willing to accept some October business at current shipment quotations and moderate sales resulted, but otherwise there was no fresh feature.

Antimony was nominally unchanged in the absence of business.

Receivers to Sue Match Directors

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—James N. Rosenberg, counsel of Irving Trust Company, receivers for International Match Corporation, reported to Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn at a meeting of creditors of International Match that suits would soon be brought against directors of International match. Mr. Rosenberg said that suits would be brought on charges that directors had paid dividends out of capital and neglected their duties as directors of International Match.

Stocks Continue to Give Few Signs of Any Reversal in Trend

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—The market's spectacular advance of last week has carried it to a point where a period of at least hesitation is to be expected. Yet stocks continue to give few signs of any reversal in trend.

There was a lot of profit-taking all last week, but this was brushed aside as more and more converts jumped aboard the bandwagon. It's a decidedly unorthodox market and tape action seems the best guide to follow.

Stocks are now at the important 55 resistance level on the average. If they punch through there will be more hosannas from the chart readers, the biggest bulls today.

The recovery has brought not only cheer but a few jobs to Wall street. One house recalled some discharged employes, while a big wire house has postponed furtner enforced vacations.

Sharp recovery in Bethlehem Steel preferred was a natural development after disappointment over omission of the divi-end had passed. The stock had been selling around the same price of United States Steel common, yet has infinitely more interesting speculative possibilities. Bethlehem will share in an upturn in the industry as well as Big Steel. Chances are at least even that resumption of dividends will occur in Bethlehem preferred as soon, if not sooner, than on Steel common. Forgetting accumulations, Bethlehem preferred is entitled to $7 a share; and from present indications it will be a long time before Steel common pays a $7 dividend.

VAULT COMPANY ENDS TESTS

The eighth of a series of moisture tests will be completed this week at the Harley Burial Vault Company, 1719 Banksville road, according to J. S. Hamilton, president. On July 9, 1931, a cement tomb was submerged in water and held in place with iron bands. A hole in the top with a raised lip to keep the water out, permits daily inspection of the interior.

A thick coating of dust on the interior floor and walls of the tomb illustrates the complete absense of moisture inside, Mr. Hamilton said. He continued:

"We have been making continuous moisture and weight-enduring tests on Harley vaults since 1923 to insure the continued maintenance of the high standards of waterproofness and durability prescribed by the National Association of Concrete Vault Manufacturers. One of our vaults has been sustaining 10 times its own weight in cement for more than a year, without showing any signs of breaking or cracking."

Upturn in Steel Output Predicted

CLEVELAND, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Sentiment that an upturn is due in the iron and steel industry is strong enough to survive an avalanche of financial statements showing losses in the second quarter averaged $13.78 per ton of ingots produced, said Steel today.

The loss was more than half the cost of ingot tons produced and compared with a deficit of $7.72 per ton in the first quarter, the magazine said.

Despite this, it continued, "continuance of the 16-17 per cent steel operating rate of the past two weeks into the week beginning July 31 indicates that actual demand has not accelerated appreciably, but outcroppings that foreshadow better demand are more numerous.

PENN MUTUAL IS PIONEER COMPANY

When the Penn Mutual Insurance Company, which is celebrating its eighty-fifth anniversary, was organized in 1847, life insurance in America was in only its fifth year, according to Holgar Johnson, president and general agent of the Pittsburgh office.

The institution was still in its infancy in Europe, although it dates back to 1762 when the Old Equitable was established in London, he said. By using a mortality table, by requiring premium deposits proportionate to the risk at various ages, and by arranging for the return of dividends of surplus to members, this early company established a sound and permanent basis for the institution of life insurance, which was adopted by the seven first American companies, which began to do business within five years of 1843.

ESTABLISHED EARLY

At that time, Mr. Johnson said, comparatively few corporations existed and business was mostly local. There were but 29 states in the Union; the national population was about one-sixth of what it is today, and the tide of immigration was only beginning to flow. Many of the inventions which were to develop science and industry were yet to be made.

The concurrent growth of life insurance companies with American business has been more than a coincidence, Mr. Johnson believes. To a considerable extent it has been a matter of cause and effect. The savings of many people, held in trust by the life insurance companies became reservoirs of wealth, contributing to the fluidity of capital, through investments in bonds and mortgages, fostering new enterprises, stimulating production, instrumental in building the wealth of the country, Mr. Johnson said.

At the present time, figures show American life insurance policies covering 68 million people, and representing a combined estate of $109,000,000,000 dollars. Mr. Johnson said:

"Our country, with five per cent of the world's population, is now credited with 75 per cent of the world's life insurance."

SYSTEMS DIFFER

In Europe the insurance agent is largely a part-timer. In the United States a full-time agency system, together with the principle of mutuality, is responsible for the rapid growth of the Penn Mutual Company. The first 20 years were spent in establishing the business at home and determining the soundness of existing business principles. The second 20 years were devoted to territorial expansion. In 1868, the agency system was developed and in 1892, Penn Mutual did one-fourth of the total business in the state of Pennsylvania during the entire year, Mr. Johnson said.

Market Recovery Adds Billions To Values

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—The rebound in security prices in the past few weeks has restored some $10,000,000,000 to the quoted value of securities traded in the New York markets, Wall street stastisticians estimate.

While the total quoted value of listed securities is a highly theoretical value, for obviously not all of the securities could be sold at that price as a practical financial operation, this quoted value is vitally important to financial institutions, and in consequence to the general public, as well as to individual investors.

Wholesale and Jobbing Trade Conditions

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Tabloid review of wholesale and retail business conditions and the state of crops as reported to Bradstreet's this week from the following centers, on the basis of comparisons with conditions in the same areas in the corresponding week last year:

	Whole. and Job. Trade	Retail Trade	Mfg. and Industry	Collections	Crops
Pittsburgh	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Good
Chicago	Fair	Fair	Quiet	Fair	Good
Cleveland	Quiet	Quiet	Quiet	Slow	Fair
Detroit	Quiet	Quiet	Fair	Slow	Good

Pittsburgh—Demand for egg and lump coal improves; glass and tile practically at standstill.

Chicago—Wholesale dry goods fairly active; steel orders small; miners' wage dispute reaching adjustment.

Cleveland—Produce trading active; steel production limited; crop prospects excellent; trade sentiment optimistic.

FIVE OLYMPIC MARKS FALL

SPORT COMMENT

By Harry Keck, Sports Editor

Random Thoughts. On This and That. The Olympic Games. Baseball and Boxing. Leonard's Comeback. Some Weight Tricks.

A BREAK FOR THE FISHERMEN

JUST A FLOCK of Monday observations.

With regard to baseball, our Pirates soon will be at the point where they can coast in. It is too much to ask them to keep up the dizzy pace of recent weeks, but they won't have to. A lead of five and one-half games is considerable of a bulge at this stage of the race.

REGARDING THE OLYMPIC Games, Ohio has three representatives in the track and field events in Jack Keller, the hurdler, and George Simpson, the sprinter, both Ohio State University products, and Jimmy Gordon, of Cleveland, 400 meters man.

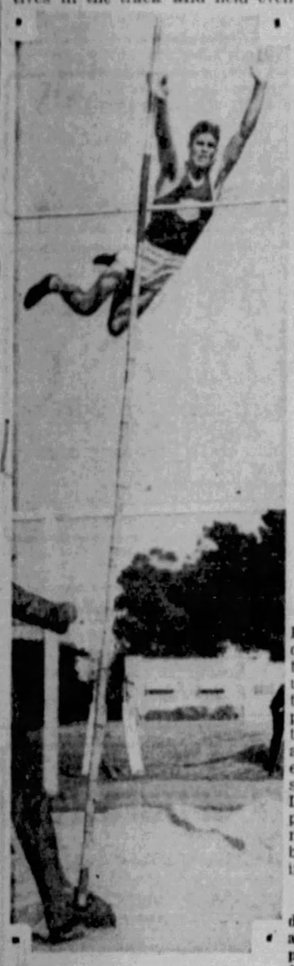
Ralph Metcalfe, Chicago Negro, may be the fourth man to turn in a double victory in the Olympic sprints. He is favored in both the 100 meters and 200 meters. The other double winners in these events were Percy Williams, of Canada, in 1928, and Archie Hahn and Ralph Craig, for the United States, in 1904 and 1912, respectively.

THE POLE VAULT should be a sure pop for the United States if nothing happens to Bill Graber, of California, who set a new world record of 14 feet 4⅜ inches in the final trials.

THE OLYMPIC MARATHON race is an historical feature because it commemorates the feat of Pheidippides, who, in 490 B. C., ran 26 miles 385 yards from Marathon to Athens with the news of the Greek victory in the Battle of Marathon and then dropped dead. That is why the distance for the race is exactly 26 miles 385 yards.

BILL CARR, University of Pennsylvania star, who startled the critics by beating Ben Eastman twice this season, was a sprinter until he took up the longer distance this year. He weighs only 142 pounds and is only 5 feet 7 inches tall. He hails from Pine Bluff, Ark., and prepped at Mercersburg Academy, famous for its track athletes since the days of Ted Meredith. Lawson Robertson, Penn and Olympic coach, stepped him up to running a leg on the mile relay team before sending him out on his own in a 440-yard race.

The most elaborate public address system ever installed for an athletic event is in use at the Olympics to keep the spectators informed on what is going on at all times.



BILL GRABER

An almost sure bet for Uncle Sam in the Olympics. He pole vaults 14 feet 4⅜ inches, a world record. This is an International News Photo Service picture.

PAAVO NURMI'S banishment from the Olympic Games robs the meet of a colorful figure, but it was almost a foregone conclusion that he would not be permitted to compete because of his status in Europe. Nurmi was under a cloud because of "expenses" when he made his tour of the United States, and he ran afoul of the same difficulty on the Continent.

TOUCHING ON BOXING, Seal Harris, the giant Negro heavyweight, of Chicago, now here seeking bouts under the direction of Frank Sutton, has beaten Larry Gains, Canadian Negro, who is a sensation overseas, where he defeated Primo Carnera. Harris was a scholastic athletic star before he entered the ring. He became a boxer because a fighter copped his girl, and he figured the only way to win her back was by emulating the man who stole her heart away. He made his first appearance in a bout on Christmas day, 1926, and, on February 3, 1927, won over Big Boy Peterson. He fought Gains the same year, in Indianapolis.

HARRIS HAS TRIED his hand at wrestling as well as boxing, and thinks the mat sport is far more dangerous than trading punches. He was with George Godfrey on a wrestling tour in Canada when Godfrey suffered an arm infection that almost cost him his life, and he saw Stanley Stasiak, a seasoned grappler, suffer blood poisoning from an infection and succumb. Blindness from trachoma and tuberculosis from inhaling resin dust are two other dangers of wrestling. The Seal prefers to take his chances with punches on the chin, or the lug, as they say in select circles. He is 6 feet 3½ inches tall and weighs 228 pounds, and at one time scaled 265. A nice li'l playmate!

Willus Britt, veteran boxing manager, would like to take George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, to London and Paris to box for his pal, Jeff Dickson, the Tex Rickard of Europe.

SEAL HARRIS, by the way, went to Europe in 1928 and boxed in Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, and other centers and did right well by himself financially. Negroes are scarce in those parts and he was looked upon as a curiosity. He was paid to attend a football game so the customers could gape at him as if he were some sort of a circus freak. Several of the onlookers thought he was a fake, made up with burnt cork like a blackface comedian, and tried to wipe the coloring from his face.

THEY SAY BENNY LEONARD looked exceptionally good in whipping Billy Townsend in New York the other night, and the mob will go in a big way for a bout between the former lightweight champion and Jimmy McLarnin this summer. Benny still gets by on what the boys choose to call his noodle, and, if you want to know why he's still fighting as he presses the two-score mark in years, it's because he's not so flush financially, following a series of investments that didn't turn out right. Who would have thought that Pittsburgh's corpulent hockey promoter of a few years ago ever would be back in the ring again shooting at the big stuff?

JAMES (RED) MASON, now only a visitor here and planning to spend the remainder of his days in Chicago, took to confessing some of his old boxing sins the other day. Told how he had Cuddy DeMarco 'way overweight for a Milk Fund bout with Bobby Garcia one day and sneaked into the Motor Square Garden gymnasium, where they were to weigh, and smashed the late John Bell's scales to the point where the pieces were falling out and then led the boxing commission gents and all of the other fighters and their managers to another place where he knew the scales were several pounds light, and got away with it. And of how he once weighed in a stablemate for Buck Crouse for a bout in Ohio and almost was caught, and how he used to carry around a phony 100-pound weight tricked up with lead which he would substitute whenever the occasion demanded. They always said he was a slick one with the weights.

They tell a story about a Pirate rookie of some years ago who was sent up to bat against the great Christy Mathewson in a pinch and told to get on. And what did he do but stand up there at the plate with his bat on his shoulder and let Matty zip over three strikes in a row? For what was he waiting? A base on balls from the great master of control, who thought it was a bad year if he issued more than a half-dozen passes all season!

PRESIDENT HOOVER, Vice President Curtis, Candidate for the Presidency Franklin D. Roosevelt and Candidate for the Vice Presidency John Garner all are enthusiastic fishermen, so the Izaak Waltons aren't doing much worrying about the outcome of the November election.

PURSUERS FAIL TO GAIN OVER IDLE BUCS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—Their regrets of Saturday dissipated by a day of rest and relaxation, the Pirates were eager to pitch into the pestiferous Phillies today. The third battle of the four-game series is listed for this afternoon at the bandbox park.

Now that the severe strain is all over, every member of the Pittsburgh club is convinced that the grind of five doubleheaders in a week is quite unfair to any ball team, and while the Pirates grieved a bit over losing two games to the Quakers, they are very happy they got through the big ordeal in such a fine manner.

The Buccos this morning were five and one-half games in front of the runnerup Cubs and that figure is just one game better than their advantage of one week ago today. So when the various angles are considered the Corsairs should forget all about the two-edged setback in the dual fight with the Quakers.

MEINE TO HURL

Heinie Meine is slated to heckle the Shottonites this afternoon. Manager Burton Shotton has Ray Benge and Phil Collins ready for action. It was felt in the Pittsburgh camp today that Boss Shotton would send Southpaw Jim Elliott back at the Pirates tomorrow in the final clash, despite the fact Jim will have had only two days of rest. Shotton generally works along this line when the Phillies and Pirates are staging a series.

The Pirates made no attempt to hide their inside feelings regarding the club which has made so gay with them. The Phillies have trimmed them no less than nine times in 13 scraps. They are the only team in the league to own an advantage in the season's play with the league leaders. The Pittsburghers are ready to admit that the Phillies are a snappy ball team, but they do not think they rate with the Buccos in all-around play. The story of the clubs' clashes, however, would tend to make the Quakers stand out as the better team.

PHILLIES DANGEROUS

Well, anyhow, the Pirates will give no quarter nor ask any whenever they take on the Phillies this

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF LAST SATURDAY. THE WIND-BLOWN RAILROAD CAR—Mischievous boys, presumably of Plainview, Tex., were responsible for releasing the brakes of a box car on the siding in that town, and, during a severe wind storm, the car was actually blown onto the main line and uphill to the city of Floydada, a distance of 25 miles on an uphill grade amounting to as high as 6-10 per cent. As the car passed through Lockney, its speed was so great that employees could not board it. It was not until its arrival at Floydada that the car was successfully brought to a stop on the wye. The official record of this run is on file in the Superintendent's office of the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway at Slaton, Tex. In a similar case, on record at Oquawka, Ill., a car was windblown from that city to Gladstone, a distance of about five miles. THE CHAMPION LAYING HEN—According to J. H. Bonson, La Crosse, (Wis.) chicken fancier, a hen on the Gus Rhodes farm, near West Salom, (Wis.) actually laid 14 eggs in one day. He states that at 7 a. m. June 2, 1919, the hen laid one egg, then left the roost and sat on the nest, which was securely covered with wire screen. By noon she laid two more, and, when she quit the nest at 3 p. m., there were 13 eggs in the nest. The above record is contained in a statement sworn before the County Judge of La Crosse, dated June 4, 1919.

DEATH CLAIMS AUTO RACERS

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 1.—Delbert Snyder, Kent, O., driver won the 100-mile automobile race at the speedway yesterday. Alfred Schneider, Trafford, Pa., was second; Bill Chittum, Columbus, third, and Gene Morgan, Columbus, fourth. Snyder's time of 1 hour and 42 minutes and 25 seconds set a new 100-mile record at the track.

Pete Miller, Youngstown pilot, died in a local hospital today as a result of injuries suffered in the race.

RACE DRIVER KILLED

STERLING, ILL., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Charles Engle, of Dayton, O., yesterday won a 75-mile stock car race, covering the distance in 1 hour 20 minutes. Forest Hart, Ansonia, O., was second; Bud Welch, Dixon, Ill., was third, and Fred Beverly, of Hammond, Ind., landed forth.

Lafe Grieshop, of Dayton, O., known to racing as Bob Hart, was killed when he lost control of his car while warming up for the race.

Mid-Atlantic Heads Stage Mound Duel

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 1.—Elmer M. Daily, of Loretto, Pa., president of the Middle Atlantic League, reverted to his pitching days of old yesterday afternoon here when he twirled a three-inning exhibition game against Russell Hockenbury, of Scottdale, Pa., league secretary.

The portly league mogul and Hockenbury found the score in a 3-3 deadlock at the end of the three frames, but refused to play the tie off.

Form of Yankee Hurdlers Surprise of Olympics

By LAWSON ROBERTSON,
Head Coach American Olympic Team.
(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 1.—Much that was cheering to America happened here yesterday afternoon in the races which eventually are to determine the championship of the world.

The gladdening surprise was one splendid success in the 400 meters hurdles. In this we were supposed to be outclassed. Many felt we would be fortunate if so many as one of our trio qualified for the finals.

Two of our three 400-meter hurdle men qualified for the finals and this was more than we expected. In this event we were presumed to be hopelessly outclassed. Yet, F. Morgan Taylor won a heat and a second in the semi-final. G. Hardin, of the U. S. A., ran third in a heat and won the semi-final, and our bad luck came in the fact that Jim Healey, after winning his heat in new Olympic time of 52 9-10, just missed qualifying in the semi-final by a margin as wide as a whisker, being beaten for third by I. Facelli, of Italy.

FACELLI, BURGHLEY STARS

This Facelli and Lord Burghley are the men I feel we must beat in the final of this event.

Each of our 100 meter men—Ralph Metcalfe, Eddie Tolan and George Simpson—won their heats and did it so easily that I am confident that one or the other will triumph in the final heat of this event. However, it will be necessary to fight it out to the last ounce with Arthur Jonath, of Germany, and C. B. Luti, of the Argentine. Jonath served notice of his prowess when he won the 100 off by himself in 10 6-10 to tie the Olympic record.

Pearson, the youthful Canadian, also showed well in this event and when asked to give all that he has may prove dangerous to an extreme.

Another source of gratification for the U. S. A. was in the fact that all three of our men in the 800 meters qualified. Eddie Genung won his race without trouble. C. C. Hornbostel came on with a fine burst of speed to win his race and E. T. Turner had little trouble finishing third.

SEXTON SETS RECORD

Leo Sexton's victory in the shotput final was a glorious feat and climaxed a year of remarkable improvement. He faced the greatest shot putters that the Old World has sent against us, whipped them, and, in so doing, shattered the old Olympic record with a toss of 52 feet 6 3-16 inches.

The staggering surprise of the afternoon was the elimination of George Spitz in the high jump at 6 feet 4½ inches. This is the man who has jumped two or three

TUNNEY RAPS G. O. P. ACTS

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney, making the longest speech of his career as a stump speaker for the Democratic party, charged yesterday that the Republican party is "using every trick of a magician in a desperate effort to pretend that things are better."

"They are trying inflation to change the opinion of the people," he said during a 15-minute speech at an outing of the Stamford Young Men's Democratic Club. "They are sending up stocks and bonds. Many people do not own either stocks or bonds. They want more than a rise in these things. They want jobs."

The former heavyweight boxing champion unobtrusively entered the picnic grounds alone through a side entrance while an official reception committee awaited him at the main door. He was given a noisy reception by the guests and his speech was frequently interrupted by applause.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Olympic track and field records were smashed in five events yesterday as the United States shared laurels of victory with Canada and Poland at the outset of the main international struggle for athletic championship.

Leo Sexton

Leo Sexton, giant American weight star, sent the Stars and Stripes up the victory pole in the first major record-breaking conquest and little Eddie Tolan, Negro ace, led a trio of triumphant American sprinters with record shattering 100 meters in 10.4 seconds, but two Olympic traditions were shattered when the Yankee high jumpers met defeat and Finland's distance runners, minus Paavo Nurmi, yielded their supremacy.

Close to 50,000 spectators witnessed the first big day of Olympic competition, marked by a succession of dramatic performances and climaxed at the end of five hours' competition by a world record javelin throw for women of 143 feet 4 inches, by Mildred (Babe) Didrikson, America's self-styled "one-woman" track team, who beat the former mark by more than 10 feet. The old record was held by E. Braumuller, of Germany.

McNAUGHTON VICTOR

The two other Olympic champions crowded in precedent-shattering performances, were Janusz Kusocinski, great Polish distance runner, who whipped his foremost young Finnish rival, Volmari Iso-Hollo, in the record time of 30 minutes, 11.3 seconds for the 10,000 meter run; and Duncan McNaughton, of Canada, a Southern California undergraduate, who ended the long reign of the United States by capturing the running high jump in an all afternoon struggle, with his college mate, Bob Van Osdel, representing the United States.

Paavo Nurmi, a forlorn figure, sat in the stands, while his two young countrymen, Iso-Hollo and Lauri Virtanan, followed Kusocinski's smooth pace most of the way, only to find it much too swift for them at the finish. Nurmi's Olympic record of 30.18.8 which he had set in capturing the 10,000 meter race in 1928, was wiped out by the Polish ace, but Paavo's world mark of 30.06.2 resisted attack.

American hopes of regaining sprint prestige were raised by Tolan's Olympic record performance in the 100 meters as well as the convincing fashion in which his teammates, Ralph Metcalfe and George Simpson, also swept through two sets of trials without a single setback.

TOLAN SHATTERS MARK

Tolan's time of 10.4 seconds in his second race, in which he led the Argentine sensation, Carlos Luti, and the Canadian defend-

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Today's sermon is taken from the second division, fifth to eighth place, of the American and National Leagues. And the subject of the sermons, "What Doth It Profit a Team With a Host of Sluggers if It's Weak in the Box?"

Nick Altrock

Brethren, let us peer into the Cincinnati lineup and we do see visions and dream dreams of the Reds copping the pennant, thanks to their swatting strength. But the Cincinnati beam is only a mote, and the last shall be first and the first shall be last, which is where we find Cinci in the flesh. All due to weak pitching.

And now, brethren, look upon the American loop and behold that, though the Red Sox are hitting like David against Goliath, the team is like the unbidden wedding guest and feeding at the foot of the table. Proving, my friends, that it's the pitching that counts. We will now take up the collection.

U. S. STARS DISPLAY CLASS IN DAVIS CUP SETBACK

ALLISON DROPS TOUGH MATCH TO BOROTRA

PARIS, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Once again the United States has failed by the barest margin, three matches to two, to wrest the Davis Cup from France, but her defeated young warriors carried bright hopes for the future as they started home today.

They were beaten when Jean Borotra, came back from a tenhis grave of his own choosing to play some of his most inspired tennis, but not until Ellsworth Vines, Jr., Uncle Sam's greatest hope, had met and subdued France's idol, Henri Cochet, and given the defenders a taste or what is in store for them next year.

BOROTRA HERO

The three-day series concluded officially when Borotra, 34-year-old dervish, sent 12,000 admirers into near-hysterics by defeating Wilmer Allison, 1-6, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5, in the first ow yesterday's concluding singles.

Barely had the throng carried Borotra from the court, however, when its ardor was dampened by the sight of Cochet being defeated. It was his first beating in Davis Cup play in six years.

Vines, whipping himself to the heights, came back after dropping the first two sets to defeat the little tennis master, 4-6, 0-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-2. Time and again in the final three sets the partisan crowd, almost against its will, rose and cheered the Californian's magnificent play.

Then Vines, who turned back Cochet, the world's first ranking player, bore but slight resemblance to the Vines who was beaten in his opening singles match on Friday by Borotra. Those who saw him agreed Uncle Sam would have litle difficulty taking the big trophy a year hence.

ALLISON DEFEATED

Although Allison lost both of his singles matches, including the conclusive duel, the Texan came near being the outstanding hero of an American triumph. Having given the invaders their first victory the previous day, when he teamed with Johnny Van Ryn to defeat Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in doubles, he was beaten yesterday only after a heart-breaking duel with the clever Borotra.

Once in the epic final set the American fell sprawling on the slippery court, and again he broke his racquet. Even the French fans felt that the linesmen erred in giving Borotra several crucial points. Borotra protested against one point given him in the ninth game, when he saved two match points.

inches higher than that without ever taking off his jersey, and he has cleared better than 6 feet 8 inches.

Spitz was rated as a likely champion and as an absolute certainty to finish no worse than second or third. But he went out early, and an unexpected winner turned up in D. McNaughton, of Canada.

Another great surprise was the defeat of Finland in the 10,000-meter race, which it was assumed it had at its mercy. Poland sent in J. Kusocinski, and the rugged, stout-legged youth won the honors for his homeland by one of the best paced distance races ever seen.

LIEUT. G. C. CALNAN TAKES OLYMPIC OATH AT THE OPENING IN LOS ANGELES SATURDAY

ing champion, Percy Williams, wiped out a long-standing Olympic mark of 10.6 seconds, shared by five dash men.

After Metcalfe and Simpson had broken the tape in 10.7 seconds each, in their second trial victories, the chiew threat to the American sprint trio emerged in the flashing figure of Arthur Jonath, of Germany. Jonath, highly touted in advance, came up to expectations by equalling the Olympic record in his first race and then stepped off his second trial in 10.5 seconds to beat the South African, Joubert.

The Olympic record in the 400-meter hurdles was tumbled, once by mistake but twice officially, in two spectacular trials. The new record of 52.8 seconds went jointly to Glenn Hardin, of Louisiana, and Robert Tisdall, of Ireland, winners of the semi-final heats, after Joe Healey, New York boy, erroneously was credited with the remarkable time of 52.2 seconds, close to the world record, in his first race.

Three hours later, when he already was eliminated in the semi-finals, finishing fourth to Tisdall, the officials checked back and discovered the American boy's actual winning time earlier was 54.2 seconds, slower than the Olympic mark of 53.4 seconds Lord Burghley and Morgan Taylor, of the United States, jointly set in 1928.

The biggest dispute of the day, however, arose from the first trial heat of the 800-meter run, won by Eddie Genung, United States champion, after a rough and tumble race which drew a protest from France that her star, Paul Keller, was interfered with by the Canadian Negro, Phil Edwards.

About four hours after the race was run, the council of the International Amateur Athletic Federation decided not to allow the protest, accepted Edwards as the second place man and returned France's protest money.

All three Americans qualified for the 800-meter finals, to be run off today, and Charles Hornbostel, sturdy Indiana boy, established himself a co-favorite with the British star, Tom Hampson, by negotiating the fastest of the three trials, in 1 minute 52.4 seconds, less than a second off the Olympic record of 1:51.8, held by Douglas Lowe, of England.

The high jump furnished the biggest jolt to the Americans, who had never previously failed to win this specialty since the Olympics were revived in 1896.

The American favorite, George Spitz, of New York, was eliminated when he failed to do better than 6 feet 3 inches.

Olympic Qualifiers

OLYMPIC STADIUM, LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—Survivors of the qualifying tests of the opening Olympic games track and field events, with the heats in which they compete today and tomorrow, follow:

100-meter semi-finals, which with finals will be run off this afternoon (three men in each heat to qualify for finals):

First heat—Eddie Tolan, U. S. A.; Takayoshi Yoshioka, Japan; Helmuth Koernig, Germany; Daniel Joubert, South Africa; Allen Elliott, New Zealand; Percy Williams, Canada.

Second heat—George Simpson, U. S. A.; Ralph Metcalfe, U. S. A.; Carlos Lutti, Argentina; Arthur Jonath, Germany; Birchall Pearson, Canada; Harold Wright, Canada. (Best time in preliminary heats, :50.4 by Tolan, a new Olympic record.)

800-meter run, finals to be held tomorrow: Eddie Genung, U. S. A.; Philip Edwards, Canada; John Powell, Great Britain; Charles Hornbostel, U. S. A.; Alex Wilson, Canada; Dr. Otto Peltzer, Germany; Thomas Hampson, Great Britain; Sera Martin, France; Edwin Turner, U. S. A. (Best time in preliminary heats, 1:52.4 by Hornbostel).

400-meter hurdles, finals to be held today:

Olympic Records

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Los Angeles, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—Following is a list of track and field record-breakers in the Olympic games to-date:

J. Kusocinski, Poland, 10,000 meters, 30:11.4 (new Olympic record; old mark, held by Paavo Nurmi, Finland, 30:18.8).

Leo Sexton, U. S. A., shot put, 52 feet 6 3-16 inches (new Olympic record; old mark, held by John Kuck, U. S. A., 52 feet, 11-16 inch).

Eddie Tolan, U. S. A., 100-meter dash, 10.4 (new Olympic record; old record, 10.6, held by D. F. Lippincott and R. McAlister, U. S. A., H. M. Abrahams and J. E. London, Great Britain, and Percy Williams, Canada).

Mildred Didrickson, U. S. A., women's javelin throw, 143 feet 4 inches (new world record, old record, held by E. Braumuller, Germany, 132 feet 9½ inch, new Olympic event).

PIRATES, PHILS RESUME DUEL

season. The Buccos are stirred to a degree as to throw everything they have at the Phillies, and if they can keep Chuck Klein, Don Hurst and company from playing tunes on the shortfield wall, perhaps they will be able to get sweet revenge. But it is quite a trick to hold the Klein-Hurst smashes away from the short barrier.

The brilliant showing made by the Pirates in New York has not been dulled to any extent by their hardships of Saturday. They have proved to the baseball world in general that they are a fighting team. They have come from behind to victory in so many games that many fans look upon them as the most aggressive club in the league.

The Pirates neither lost nor gained ground as they rested, the Cubs splitting a bargain bill with the Dodgers.

JOCKEY KILLED

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 1. (AP.)—Charles Phillips, 26, of Belmont, N. Y., widely known jockey, was killed and a fellow jockey, Walter Magner, 25, Chicago, critically injured when their automobile collided with a taxicab here yesterday. Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Sandwich, Ont., passenger in the cab, was killed.

PUBLIC PARKS TENNIS PLAY UNDER WAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The third annual Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championship tourney swings into action this afternoon on the courts of Frick and Schenley Parks. Exactly 50 aspirants will seek the men's singles crown worn the past two years by Frank Broida, Harvard southpaw, who is seeded first in the 1932 field.

Women's play, in which Mrs. Jean Artzberger, South Hills luminary, will defend the title, will not get under way until tomorrow and will be confined entirely to the Frick lot.

The host contending for titular honors and the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Challenge Cups this campaign is unquestionably the strongest array yet called to the municipal net colors here.

Performers drawn in the upper half of the sheet will joust at Frick Park, while those slated for the lower sector will reel off first and second round tilts at Schenley today and tomorrow and then join their confereres at Frick for the remainder of the week.

ENTRIES REJECTED

Several entries were rejected, after consideration by the committee, on ground that the racqueters in question have been members of Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League teams throughout the current summer. Such action was taken with regret, but there appeared no way around the absolute U. S. L. T. A. parks tennis qualifying rule. Accepted netmen are reminded that they will not be permitted, under any circumstance, to begin a match until the entry fee of $1 has been paid. New balls will be furnished for semi-final and final tussles only. The pairings:

MEN'S SINGLES

First round: Upper half (play at Frick Park)—Louis Lazar vs. Edward Miller; Louis Beitzel vs. Bernard Stillwagon; William J. Minor, Jr., vs. Edward Brown; Maurice Parker vs. James Tras; Milton King vs. W. E. Blum; James Roache vs. Irwin Beck; Sidney Lazar vs. Oscar Spitzer; Floyd Katz vs. Roy Heckler; H. Louis Beitzel, Jr., vs. Edward Huff.

Lower half (play at Schenley Park)—Eldred Shelton vs. James J. Conway; Somerset Hess vs. Joseph Scholz; Ernest Sankey vs. George Sobel; Bernard Pearlstein vs. Sol Kurtz; Edward Rennells vs. Thomas Edward O'Connor; Martin Grumet vs. William J. Purcell, Jr.; Irwin Sodelow vs. A. M. Frauenheim, Jr.; George Gallagher vs. William Engemann; Saul Weisberg vs. Lester Nolan.

Second round: Upper half (play at Frick Park)—Frank Broida vs. Robert McClurkin; Robert C. Meyer vs. winner of King-Blum match; Alex Blumberger vs. Jack Rosen; Joseph O'Connor vs. Albert Lazar.

Lower half (play at Schenley Park)—Harry Wald vs. Bill Reynolds; F. Plunkett vs. S. A. McCorkle; Charles Maits, Jr., vs. John McGlunsan; Alfred McCabe vs. winner of Weisberg-Nolan match.

Seeded players: 1, Frank Broida; 2, Harry Wald; 3, Albert Lazar; 4, Alfred McCabe; 5, Charles Maits, Jr.; 6, S. A. McCorkle; 7, Alex Blumberger; 8, Robert C. Meyer.

P. A. A. STARS PERFORM

P. A. A. racquet-wielders jousted before large gallery in yearly exhibition net program on the fine clay court of the Walter Stone estate, Ingomar, yesterday afternoon. Dr. John O'Loughlin, top ranking Steel City star, featured the bill by driving in spectacular fashion to down brother Dave, 6-1, 6-3, while Billy, third of the former Westmont clan, trimmed Paul Sullivan, 7-5, 6-3.

In doubles, Dave and Billy edged out John and Sullivan, 6-0, 2-6, 6-3, in a free-swinging frolic. Miriam Sullivan, 1931 West Penn women's champion, won a well-played set from Thelma Stone and later dropped one to Paul Sullivan after a stiff session.

Play will be resumed today in the Y. M. C. A. tennis championship tournament, with Allegheny meeting East Liberty, Emsworth taking on Downtown Y, and Hill Top facing North Boroughs.

China's Lone Star Out of 100 Meters

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Los Angeles, Aug. 1.—(INS.)—Three weeks of travel by land and sea, 7,000 miles, to be eliminated in 10 seconds.

That had been the experience of C. Liu, China's only Olympic representative, in the 100-meter dash.

He finished fifth in the heat won by George Simpson, United States, with only three to qualify for the semi-finals.

However, his trip may not be in vain, for he is entered in the 200 and 400-meter runs.

Kozeluh Annexes Pro Tennis Title

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Karel Kozeluh, 36-year-old Czechoslovakian tennis star, today had succeeded to the United States professional singles title.

Kozeluh, who held the world title seven years, won the national championship yesterday by defeating Hans Nusslein, of Germany, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, after eliminating the defending champion, William T. Tilden II, Saturday.

STARS BATTLE FOR BEDFORD OPEN TITLE

By TOM BIRKS
Staff Correspondent.

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Aug. 1.—With practically every leading professional and amateur east and west of the Alleghenies on hand, Bedford Springs' par of 71 is going to get quite a workout when the niblick wielders swing into action today over the 36-hole route for the Bedford Springs Open title.

Pete O'Hara, the Westmoreland wizard, won the title last year with 144 strokes, but Pete is under a doctor's care and it is likely another brow will wear the crown by evening.

The only prominent pro from the Pittsburgh district missing from the picture setting is Emil Loeffler, the Oakmont ace.

LUTHER, PARTNER WIN

Keeping up the wonderful form displayed in tourneys this season, Ted Luther, of Valley Heights, aided and abetted by P. H. Schiffhauer, a prominent amateur of the club, burned up the course yesterday in the opening event of the week, a pro-amateur affair, shooting a 64 to lead home a mixed field of stars.

There was a tie for second place, Billy Marks, the new junior champion, teamed up with Fred Baroni, of Oakland Beach, and netted a 65 while Dr. Hintz and Al Johnson, of the Old York Country Club, came home with an identical card.

Johnson, the York professional, set a new course record in his attempt to win. Sam Parks shot a 69 in the qualifying round of the amateur last year and Toots Erath, the blond professional of the Edgewood Country Club, equalled that score yesterday morning in a practice round. But Johnson's 67 was a masterful effort. Only one five marked his card and that was on a par five hole.

ELDRED IN FORM

Vincent Eldred, the state open champion, was shooting good golf. He had a 71. Fred Brand Jr., the former Penn State captain had Dave McKay, genial Field Club pro turned in a 36-33—69.

Luther's brilliant form makes him a leading contender for the O'Hara crown.

The Luther and Schiffhauer card:

Out	4	3	4	3	4	4	3	3	4—32
In	2	4	4	5	3	4	4	2	3—32—64

Johnson's card—

Out	4	3	4	3	4	4	3	4	4—33
In	3	5	3	4	3	4	4	4	3—34—67

The scores:

P. H. Schiffhauer and Ted Luther	32 32—64
Billy Marks and Fred Baroni	31 34—65
Dr. K. Heintz and Al Johnson	33 32—65
M. LeBosquet and Sam Parks	34 32—66

YANK FENCERS SHOW FORM

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—United States hopes for an unusual victory in Olympic fencing rose high yesterday as her foilsmen piled up point after point to win 10 out of 16 contests from Argentina in the team foils events.

Uncle Sam's lithe young men will enter the finals in the team event today with France, Italy and Denmark. As representatives of a country not noted for its sword-mindedness, the North Americans were encouraged to boast a little.

The United States team in the 1928 Amsterdam tornament did not qualify for the finals in individual or collective competition.

Denmark yesterday defeated Mexico, 11 to 5. Italy beat Mexico, 16 to 0. France beat Mexico, 12 to 4.

The Cuban team was scheduled to compete, but it did not arrive.

Olympic Briefs

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Jim Thorpe, once the world's greatest all-around athlete, saw the opening ceremonies of the 1932 Olympic Games on a borrowed pass—but he'll view the rest of them from a seat in the presidential box. Vice President Charles Curtis, proud of Thorpe's contribution to athletics, has ordered his pass delivered to Jim. Both are of Indian descent.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Rudolf Ismayr, a lawyer of Munich, Germany, sent the flag of Deutschland to the top of the flagpole in the Olympic games yesterday in winning the weight-lifting championship for middleweights.

The husky lad hoisted a total of 759 pounds in the two hands military press, snatch and clean and jerk divisions to establish a new Olympic record. The former mark of 738.1 pounds was made four years ago by Roger Francois, of France. The French team continued to lead in points scored with 23 in the weight-lifting contest.

Lifting close to four times his own weight, Haroslav Skobla, 225-pound Czechoslovakian, won the heavyweight championship to become the fifth and last lifter in the battle of the world strong men. The other four winners in the hoisting of dead weight were:

Featherweight — Raymond Suvigny, France.
Middleweight—Rudolf Ismayr, Germany.
Lightweight—Rene Duverger, France.
Light-heavyweight — Louis Hostin, France.

LEGION FINAL TOMORROW

The final game of the American Legion junior baseball eliminations to decide the winner of the Western Pennsylvania championship will be played at Forbes Field tomorrow evening, beginning at 5 o'clock, between Swissvale, Southwestern Pennsylvania champion and winner of the state title last year, and Ford City, Northwestern Pennsylvania champion.

BEARS SIGN MILLER

CHICAGO, Aug. 1. (AP.)—Charles (Ookie) Miller, of Marion, Ind., today was added to the roster of the Chicago Bears, of the National Football League. Miller played center for Purdue in 1929-30-31 and captained last year's eleven.

Chilly Sauce

By Charles J. Doyle

The Pirates are in a fine position in many ways. Despite their two reverses of Saturday their victories up to and including the doubleheader had doubled their defeats of the present tour. Gibson's hustlers copped six out of seven at the Polo Grounds before dropping the pair in the Baker Bowl. Hence they have won six and lost three so far on the trip.

The importance of Lloyd Waner's appearance in the daily lineup of the Corsairs is quite easy to appreciate. When Lloyd is out of action, Gibby has to disrupt a remarkable lineup. Lloyd's skill is missed, and when he rides the bench Gibby puts Adam Comorosky at the top of the order. The switch of Commy necessitates a change in the lower bracket of the battlefront.

The Yankees appear to be on the pennant track now that Babe Ruth is back with those home run noises. Many Pittsburghers would like to see a world series featuring the Pirates and Cleveland, but here we have August with us and the Indians are nine and one-half games from the top. If the Yanks win half of their remaining games they should drift in.

The multitude at the new home of the Cleveland club yesterday stands as a rare tribute to the game. The attendances in many major league quarters is astonishing in view of the depression, but there are other spots where the baseball lovers just won't come out.

Consider the case of the Pirates and Giants. There was a day when three doubleheaders between the two teams at the Polo Grounds would have caused riot at the entrance gates, but you could have turned a hose on many sections of the New York stands without spraying anybody. The present owners of the club do not seem to be in popular favor.

It was a cinch for Brooklyn and Chicago to outdraw the Pirates and Giants even though the league's leading club was involved in the scraps at the home of the Giants.

Paul Waner's severe batting slump, no doubt, was superinduced by his cut throwing hand. Paul was in at least a dozen contests where it was impossible for him to get his left hand around the big stick.

Between Rounds

Lou Brouillard, former welterweight champion, will be making his first start in a New York ring when he boxes Jimmy McLarnin at the Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

Willus Britt, veteran manager of boxers, now making his home here, has entered a partnership with Bunny Buntach whereby he will assist the latter in the handling of his mittmen.

Tuffy Griffith seeks his third straight victory over Johnny Risko, recent conqueror of Mickey Walker, in their 12-round bout in Cleveland tonight.

ANSWER TO QUERY

G. E. K.—Larry French, Pirate pitcher, has won 6 and lost 4 games since joining the club.

HOLT BATTLES JACK KING TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Jack King vs. Billy Holt, Harry Williams vs. Buddy McArthur and Leon Jendrasiak vs. Jimmy Vaughn, 10 rounds each, and Johnny Allen vs. Don Aasto, 6 rounds, Hickey Park, Millvale.

Frole Serbaf vs. Ted Sandulna, 10 rounds, New Orleans.

Goldie Hess vs. Tommy Gregan, 10 rounds, Omaha.

Tiger Jack Fox vs. Pettit Ferrarer, 10 rounds, Niles, Mich.

K. O. Christner vs. Edwin Dunaway, 10 rounds, Zanesville, O.

Cecil Cuomo vs. Bobby Blay, 15 rounds, Sydney, Australia.

Johnny Risko vs. Tuffy Griffith, 12 rounds; Larry Johnson vs. George Pavlik, 8 rounds; Jack Roper vs. Steve Simon, ten-8; Bruno Sala vs. Henry Feurstein, 6 rounds each, and Dynamite Joe Dunn vs. L. T. Battles and Dick Miller vs. Hank Hankerson, 4 rounds, Stadium, Cleveland.

George Annarino vs. Juan Cruz, 10 rounds, Columbus, O.

Art Lasky vs. Tom Jones and Young Stubley vs. Bob Groshek, 10 rounds each, and Jack Robinson vs. Bob Stone and Jackie Davis vs. Phil McQuillan, 8 rounds each, Chicago.

Frankie Bruno vs. Izzy Kaplan, 8 rounds, New York.

Jack King, of Hot Springs, Ark., who vows he'll be the welterweight king one of these days, makes his bow to Pittsburgh fistic patrons tonight, meeting Billy Holt, hard-hitting Negro, of Homewood, in the 10-round main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, which takes over Monday nights as its show date beginning this week.

King comes highly touted, and will have the veteran Red Mason in his corner as chief second tonight, Mason, who will be handling him for Manager Ray Alvis, touts King highly. He wants to bring him back later for a match with Ted Yarosz, star of the local welterweight brigade.

KLAUS DEFENDS MATCH

A light-heavyweight battle between Buddy McArthur and Harry Williams will serve as the semi-final. Leon Jendrasiak and Jimmy Vaughn are in the second bout, and Johnny Allen and Don Asto in the opener, set for 8:45 o'clock. Vaughn hails from Cleveland, Jendrasiak and Allen from Grand Rapids and Asto from Uniontown. The others are local men. All of the bouts with the exception of the opener are slated for 10 rounds.

Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion, is laughing at the cracks of local boxing sharps, who say he made a bad match for his Jimmy Belmont in signing him to oppose Frankie Goosby, Cleveland Negro, in the main bout at Greenlee Field, Thursday night. He says:

"Belmont is a rugged fellow and a good puncher. He'll take care of himself. Goosby did not strike me as being any too strong in the two bouts in which I have seen him perform, and I count upon Jimmy's ruggedness to tear him apart."

WHITES VICTORS

The Whites turned in a 4-to-2 victory over the Greens in an inter-club polo match at the Pittsburgh Polo Club field, Fox Chapel road, yesterday. Lieut. Paul Maguran tallied three goals for the victors. The lineups:

Whites—4		Greens—2
Arson	No. 1	K. McCreery
Maruhan	No. 2	D. McCahill, Jr.
Diebold	No. 3	D. McCahill, Sr.
Goals—Maguran 3, McCahill, Jr., 1. McCreery 1.		Referee—T. Reardon.

STOCKS PUSH INTO HIGHER TERRITORY

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP.)—Traders found that the bull market in stocks still had some energy left at the start of the new month today, despite its extraordinary exertions of July.

Both stocks and bonds were somewhat hesitant for a time during the morning, but as nothing in the way of a technical reaction developed, speculators for the rise resumed their operations. Wall street was somewhat perplexed over the outcome of the German elections, but felt that continuance of the present or a similar government was indicated. Trading in securities was in somewhat smaller volume.

Advances of 1 to 2 points appeared in a wide assortment of prominent issues, and some preferred shares pushed up more sharply. Rails, however, were given a breathing spell, after their sharp gains of late last week. Gains of 1 to 2 points or so appeared in such issues as United States Steel, McKeesport, American Can, Johns Manville, Case, Westinghouse Electric, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B," American Telephone, Pacific Telephone, North American, Consolidated Gas, Radio common, National Biscuit, Loose Wiles, Coca Cola, Penney, Safeway, Woolworth, American Smelting and Santa Fe. Oils were firm, but failed to make important headway, and there was little doing in the motors.

While disagreement was still evident in the contradictory weekly advices of leading investment services, the inclination in brokerage quarters to guess that the depression was scraping bottom was still manifest. One investment corporation checked with a large number of brokerage firms, found that roughly half thought it probable that the bottom had been reached, and the other half thought it possible. News over the week-end brought little of a tangible character to affect the market, and further buying appeared to be based largely on this more cheerful attitude in Wall street.

One of the indices of business activity in which Wall street is keenly interested registered virtually no change in July from June, after some of the sharpest drops of the depression during the spring. Another index, weighted for normal seasonal variation, showed a slight gain in July. Statisticians and economists are wondering whether business can have a substantial recovery from these levels without accomplishment of some of the hangover deflation which they think obviously remains to be done, and bearing on this point, Standard Statistics has compiled data tending to show that industries which contribute 62½ per cent of the national income in the "normal" year 1926, are now deflated, while industries which contributed 37½ per cent, still remain to be deflated.

Indications of further gains in commodity prices appeared, with some of the weekly index figures based on a wide range of items showing gains for the sixth consecutive week. Commodity prices are inclined to have a seasonal rise during the summer, but this is the first summer of the current depression when they have behaved normally, which was regarded as encouraging in some quarters.

BERLIN BOERSE UNCHANGED

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—There was no change in the tendency of the Berlin Boerse. The first session of the week closed with small gains in quotations and volume of business continued to be small.

Results of the elections yesterday have not changed sentiment because of doubt as to the probable course of events.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—With the result of the German elections discounted in advance, prices on the Bourse opened strong and amid heavy trading. The Young loan spurted sharply and French rentes finished steady. The closing was firm.

The London Stock Exchange was closed today, a bank holiday.

RISING PRICES BRING BUYERS INTO MARKET

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The spirited character of the rally in the stock and bond market shows the fallacy of the widespread assumption that when a change came it would proceed very gradually.

As a matter of fact, in our unplanned and uncoordinated economy, it is natural for price movements to take place suddenly and sharply. In our speculative economic society, the sleeper is soon passed by the swift moving panorama.

Mr. Rukeyser

The rally has renewed confidence among the timid that the old measuring rods of earning power and assets still in the long run have some bearing on price. As of old, the laggards are attracted to the market place by the spectacle of rising prices—rather than because distress selling created innumerable bargains.

GOOD PROFITS MADE

Those who bought at June lows, when stocks, available for a pittance, were as cheap as options and warrants had been three years ago, already have substantial profits measured in percentages. The rally bore the benediction of many of New York's foremost bankers, who were of the opinion that prices had dipped far below intrinsic values.

The new stability in agricultural prices, the cessation of gold exports, the liquidation of reparations at Lausanne, and the ending of Congress without harmful legislation inflamed the financial mind with a realization of to what unwarranted depths price levels had fallen. The lowly hog pioneered in the upward surge, with a 50 per cent rise in the last two months.

BOND RALLY EFFECTIVE

Incidentally, the striking rally in bonds has done more to achieve bank relief than any other move. It has to a considerable extent offset the earlier dangerous depreciation in investment account.

By the same token, it has put the banker in a more cheerful frame of mind, and businessmen, who desire and think they are entitled to bank credit, are urged to call upon their bankers now to take advantage of the striking improvement in sentiment. The large urban banks, with unprofitable excess reserves, report that they are itching to find additional good commercial loans and also good investments.

If this rally is to prove more than a flash in the pan, businessmen can help by stopping deflationary measures, such as further wage cuts and other hysterical pruning down of expenses.

A collective effort to resist further deflation would create a sound foundation on which supply and demand could find a new equilibrium for prices somewhat nearer true values, as determined by long term standards. Bankers who needlessly bring pressure on borrowers to reduce sound loans are disturbing figures and hurt the general situation.

BOY KIDNAPED, ROBBED IN AUTO

North Side police today were investigating the alleged kidnaping of a 15-year-old North Side boy who was picked up on the North Side and driven to Babcock boulevard, near Millvale, where he was robbed of $1.50. Albert Renaud, 15, of 206 West Stockton avenue, told North Side police he was pulled into an automobile in Madison avenue and taken to Babcock boulevard yesterday, where he was robbed by two men and thrown from the machine.

Paul H. Lankford, of 334 Melwood avenue, reported to Oakland police today that he had been held up by two armed men in Beechwood boulevard near Forward avenue early today and robbed of $84. He said the men escaped in an automobile.

Holdup men invaded the Grand Hotel, Fourth avenue, near Market street, early yesterday, and stole $32 from Thomas McQuillan, the manager.

Three gunmen leaped from an automobile and held up J. E. Miller, of 2129 Straubs lane, while he was walking in West Ohio street, at Sherman avenue, Saturday night. They stole $40, he told police.

SEARCH SWAMP FOR LOST GIRL

LUDINGTON, Mich., Aug. 1.—(AP.)—State and county police searched a lonely swamp west of Freesoil today for Evalyn Sanford, pretty 17-year-old farm girl, feared to be the victim of kidnapers.

She was last reported seen about 10 p. m. Saturday when a neighbor saw her walking along the road leading through the swamp, bound for her home a half mile from Freesoil.

Another neighbor, George Buege, told police today he heard a woman scream about 10:30 as he was walking along the swamp road, but that he could see nothing in the darkness. Investigators said they found tire tracks along the road and beside them marks indicating that at least three persons, one of them a woman, had engaged in a struggle.

Ten days ago Evalyn's sister, Genevieve, 15, fought off two men who accosted her along the same road, attempting to force her into their car.

BULLETS HALT MAN IN CHASE

Captured after a chase of several miles through South Side streets, Frank Skolnik, 22, of 220 Joliet way, today faced a hearing in Traffic Court. The chase ended when police punctured a tire on Skolnik's automobile with one of several shots they fired.

Police say that Skolnik was parked in Carson street at South Twentieth street, his machine backfiring. He drove off when police sought to question him.

At a hearing in South Side Police Court yesterday he was held for a hearing in Traffic Court.

CRASH KILLS 5; JOINT FUNERAL

A 15-year-old boy, his father and mother and his aunt and uncle, whose deaths followed an automobile-train crash near Williamsport, terminating a vacation trip, Saturday, will be buried Wednesday with joint funeral services in St. Luke's Lutheran Church, East North avenue.

The bodies of the victims, the Rev. and Mrs. William Schwirian, of Montgomery, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Wendell and their son, Edwin J. Wendell, Jr., of 617 Howard street, were brought to Pittsburgh today.

BLONDIE OF THE FOLLIES

From Which M. G. M. Has Made A Motion Picture Starring Marion Davies

By FRANCES MARION

Lottie Confesses That She Has No Friend Like Blondie Was

CHAPTER VII.

It was the first time a Rolls Royce limousine had ever poked its aristocratic nose into this tenement district, and a fire couldn't have attracted more attention. There at the curb stood the Lurline Cavendish limousine, surrounded by a wild mob of howling street urchins. The liveried chauffeur was vainly trying to unload grimy children who had crowded into the driver's seat and tonneau. His curses and shrieks in French were drowned out by shouts and catcalls. As Lurline and Blondie arrived at the car the chauffeur had succeeded in grabbing one urchin off the shining top.

"Children—children—please!" Lurline commenced hauling the squirming, shouting humanity out of the tonneau, pausing only to point to a smashed tomato on the glistening door. When she yanked out the last child, Lurline turned to Blondie. Her eyes were flashing.

"Come on, jump in! We can't talk before all this rabble!"

"Okay," answered Blondie. Then she turned, looked up at her windows and called out: "Oh, Pa! I'll be back . . ." But her message trailed off, swallowed up in the catcalls and boos of the children.

As Blondie jumped in the car, the cries grew shriller. The car leaped ahead, scurrying children right and left, and Lurline turned to look out the rear window. As she did an over-ripe tomato squashed against the glass, and Lurline yanked down the little curtain.

BLONDIE IMPRESSED

"That's the last time I ever swing my hips down into this dump." The old Lottie was talking now. "For crying out loud, and I wanted to do the nice thing—ixnay!" Then, addressing the chauffeur, Lurline became the lady again. "Jamais encore! Vite, Andre, vite; allons a maison."

"Go on; say some more of that lingo," said Blondie, looking at Lurline in deep admiration: "I like it. Is that real French or are you kidding?"

"Kidding, nothing! Associating as I do with all the elite, one has to be cultured, you know."

Blondie didn't know what it was all about, but she was properly awed. There was silence for a moment as Lurline reached for a cigaret.

"What's the dirt?" asked Blondie.

Lurline lighted a gold-tipped cigaret and held out the cigaret case to Blondie.

"Aw, gee, Lot, is that silver?"

"Platinum, child." And Lurline pointed to the initials on the case. "L. C.—Lurline Cavendish," she said.

"L. C.—Lucky Chump!" retorted Blondie.

"Not so lucky—I've worked hard."

"Work . . . So do I work hard, but——"

"Well, it depends upon the milieu."—impressively—"I mean how and where you work."

IMITATES ACTRESS

"Yes, that's true. Like the President works at the White House."

"Precisely. Think I've improved?"

"I'd never have believed it."

"I followed my star, that's all."

"Do you know any to speak of?"

"What?" Lurline looked incredulously at Blondie.

"Stars. Say, like . . . Garbo?" Seeing Lurline's astonishment, Blondie hurried on: "Lottie, I'm nuts about that dame. She's one that's got refinement. Did you see her when she sat back in the car with Clark Gable—and all sort of languid like?"

Blondie picked up the fur and put it around her neck. She pretended to be carried away emotionally, and started an imitation of Garbo: "I don't know what you mean when you say you love me. So many men have said that," mimicked Blondie, in a husky voice.

She continued her description of the scene: "And then—when Gable leans over and grabs her—and she kind of melts up into his arms, Oh, boy! Oh, boy!" Blondie gave a long sigh. "I've seen all her pictures—and here you are following the stars around like you say you are. It's all too wonderful to be true."

Lurline interrupted her: "What about your love life, life, Blondie? Have you taken the big leap yet?"

"How?"

"Well . . ." Lurline attempted to explain with a gesture. "Well . . . stuck on any one?"

"Me? Don't be soft. Who is there?"

"Well, you're pretty and young and . . . a . . . a . . ."

"I guess I want too much," said Blondie, not waiting for her to finish.

"Of what?"

NO ONE TO CONFIDE IN

"I can't get any thrill out of the hicks I bump into, after seeing how a gentleman acts."

Lurline looked at her quickly. "Where have you seen how a gentleman acts?" she asked.

"In the movies . . . I told you . . . I go to them all . . . all the time."

"Poor child." Lurline's voice was full of pity.

"There you go . . . I guess I'm dumb. Say, Lottie, have you ever been made up to by a real, swell, refined guy . . ." When Lurline hesitated . . . "You must have."

"I'm not telling."

"Not even your old pal?"

"We have no old pals, really . . . It's all very—what shall I say," Lurline paused and glanced impulsively at Blondie. "It's nice to see you again, Blondie. I've always liked you."

"Same here. But . . . what do you mean, 'You've got no old pals?' " Blondie glanced out at the passing traffic, her eyes moist. "Say, where are we goin' . . . you better let me out . . ."

"No," said Lurline. "Andre will take you back when he's dropped me at home."

The two girls rode for some distance in silence. Lurline lighted another cigaret, and looked meditatively out of the window. Blondie sat back silently, unconscious of the fact that she had no hat or coat, her little blouse and dark skirt contrasting vividly with Lurline's smartly tailored suit and furs.

As the limousine twisted its way expertly through the traffic Blondie started an inspection of the rich upholstery. She gently rubbed her hand over its sleek softness. Then she reached for the silk hold-cord, and looked over the curtain material. Her eyes caught the silver vanity case, and she was just about to inspect it when Lurline spoke:

"Funny, you should talk about pals. It's funny, but . . . even when a girl may have what she thinks is everything, she really hasn't got any one she can tell her secret dirt to."

"Like we used to?" asked Blondie.

"Yes."

"Well . . . if you'd want to . . . want to waste the time to see me sometime I could meet you somewhere. I'd like to . . . This has made me all so up in the air . . . all this . . . I want to cry. I love all this . . . makes you all warm and funny . . . inside!"

As Blondie finished the car pulled up in front of Lurline's apartment. Almost instantly the liveried attendant opened the door. The two girls looked squarely at each other. Then Lurline spoke—impulsively.

"Come up, Blondie—and get an eye full!"

"Oh, will I, Mug!"

Without another word they both got out and started for the ornate entrance. As they crossed the threshold, little Blondie never stopped to think what this might mean to her future.

Synopsis

Blondie McClune and Lottie Callahan, friends since childhood, work in the same store. After work one evening, Lottie says she has a date and asks Blondie to join her. Blondie disapproves. Two men wait for them outside the building. When one becomes too familiar with her, Blondie slaps his face and goes home alone, to the poor section of the city. Later the two girls argue about the date and it ends in a rough and tumble fight. Blondie's dress is torn and she decides to get a new one. Looking for some money she had saved, she discovers that somebody has taken it. She greets her ailing dad when he arrives home and learns that he has lost his job. Lottie leaves home in quest of a career. After a few months, under the name of Lurline Cavendish, she becomes the newest sensation of the Follies. She visits the McClunes, but is anxious to get away from the place she once called her home.

Now Go On

"Come on, Blondie, jump in," exclaimed Lurline. (Marion Davies, as Blondie, and Billie Dove, as Lurline.)

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Manager Harry Thomas, of the Schenley Theater, where the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club meets every Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, had as his guests last Saturday the following boys from the Juvenile Home:

Joseph Wojek, William Charleson, Hosie Cooper, Clay Connelly, Henry Wawsenski, Marcus Laffer, William Griffith, Moses Reed, Donald Finnell, Raymond Estell, Albert Shiffer, Joseph Laffer, Joseph O'Shay, Gaberial Spencer, Robert Bright, Joseph Urban, Archie Banks and Sherman Coleman.

It was the first time that these youngsters ever attended a Junior Komic Club meeting and they were all thrilled at the way it was conducted.

SCOUTS ATTEND

The meeting was opened by the members of Troop 75, Boy Scouts of America, saluting the flag and reading the pledge. The Boy Scouts taking part in the ceremony were: Marino Fotinos, Nick Morits, Harry Gillan, Troop leader Alexander "Scotty" Farmer, George Takos, Thomas McDonough, Clifford Warren, Frank Ankeney Jerry Cooper.

The salute to the flag and the reading of the pledge was followed by the Schenley Band which played several popular numbers. This organization, all members of the Junior Komic Club, is composed of the following boys:

"RANGERS" PLAY

Following the selections by the orchestra Manager Thomas introduced the "Texas Rangers," three talented youngsters who play the guitar, banjo and violin. Known to many of the Komic Clubs as the "Texas Rangers" they are Jimmy and Ross Scalise and Mike Gigliotti. They were well liked by the audience.

And speaking of the audience, when the meeting was called to order more than 800 members were in their seats and there were easily 300 more outside waiting to get in. It was one of the largest meetings of the day.

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Belmar—Mary Grace Moritz, Shirley Kron, Charles Styslinger, Howard Edward, Dorothy Lauletta, Mary Marina.

Enright — Jennie Lehman, Sam Bernstein, Isla Davidson.

Plaza—Albert Mentzer.

Rowland—George McCafferty, Helen Truxler.

South Hills—Elaine Moschel, Daniel Hilf, David Batchelor, Billy Knolle, Ecmund Yochum, Leslie Hill, William Mazure, Warry Howell, Bob Link, Marion Gillespy, Donald Yochum, Dorothy Hyatt.

Wise Words

The childhood shows the man,
As morning shows the day.
—Milton.

Years steal fire from the mind,
as vigor from the limb;
And life's enchanted cup but sparkles near the brim.
—Byron.

Nothing in nature is unbeautiful—Tennyson.

For he seems to me to be the greatest man who rises to a high position of his own merit, and not one who climbs up by the injury and disaster of another.—Cicero.

YES GUMBO, I'LL ADMIT I WAS SURPRISED WHEN THE LANDLORD OFFERED TO LOWER THE RENT FOR THAT TRICK FALL YOU GOT ON THE STAIRS. AND THANK YOU FOR GRABBING THE OFFER BEFORE HE CHANGED HIS MIND.
HE DIDN'T REALIZE HOW QUICKLY $5 A MONTH RUNS UP INTO REAL MONEY.
FOR INSTANCE, LET'S SUPPOSE YOU STAY HERE ONLY ANOTHER FIVE OR SIX YEARS. $5 A MONTH IS $60 A YEAR.. IN SIX YEARS THAT'S $360. WITH INTEREST IT'S...OH SAY $400.
WELL OF COURSE WE WON'T BE HERE—
WAIT...LET ME FINISH. SO AS I SAY, THAT MAKES $400 IN CASH THIS LANDLORD HANDED YOU FOR ME. THEREFORE YOU SIMPLY DEDUCT $100 FOR YOUR TROUBLE, IF ANY, GIVE ME THE $300 NOW, OR TOMORROW WILL DO, AND—
LISTEN, YOU MEAN I SHOULD HAND YOU $300 IN REAL MONEY NOW? WHY WHAT A DIZZY—
DIZZY? LISTEN GEORGE, RUN YOUR EYE OVER THESE FIGURES AGAIN! FIGURES DON'T LIE! I CAN'T UNDERSTAND YOUR SQUAWK UNLESS YOU WANT MORE FOR YOUR END. ALL RIGHT, SIMPLY HAND ME $200 AND—LISTEN GUMBO, I UNDERSTAND ONLY ABOUT ONE TENTH OF WHAT YOU SAID, BUT MY ANSWER TO ALL OF IT IS NO!

It's a fine idea. The patrons will probably have lots of fun complaining that the books are not thick enough.

A NEW CHAMPION

Exclusive television portrait, rushed here by 15 broad jumpers, shows Motts at the finish of his gruelling grind.

LOS ANGELES—As the dawn came up like thunder this morning, over the land of sunshine and flowers, it heralded the rise of a new champion in the field of sport. By a standing vote, it has been decided that Japalak G. ("Dapper Dan") Motts, a member of the Polish-Corridor team, is the new slot-machine king. Starting at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Polish flash played and played and played until 1 a. m. before he finally remarked "Nertz! You can't win nottin' on dat." This is conceded to be 1 hour 15 minutes and 2 seconds better than the time turned in four years ago by a man named Botts.

IF THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER ROSE

He Would Be Interested, to Put It Mildly, in Treatment Accorded to Some of His Fellow Soldiers That Survived Him

There sleeps in Washington an unknown soldier, in a grave highly honored, frequently decorated with flowers.

"Great men" from abroad call on the President first, then put a wreath on the tomb of the "Unknown Soldier." If they happen to come for money they usually put two wreaths, one when they arrive and another after getting it.

Nobody knows who the soldier is, whence he came, how he died, but great attention and honor are paid him. If he could rise and speak he might ask for anything and it would be given to him.

If that "unknown" of the big war had risen, a few days ago, to see what happened to men that were in the Army with him, he would have been surprised.

Every American who reads newspapers knows what happened to American soldiers, comrades of "the unknown" men unemployed, their families in want, when they went to Washington.

They went with no threats, or hostile intention. They could not do anything sitting in their separate homes, whence the government had taken them, to ship them across the ocean.

It was necessary to go to Washington, to deal directly with the United States government through the Congress, and through the President, commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy.

They had every reason to believe that they would be received kindly, they could not imagine that the government would call out its troops to drive them out like so many criminals.

It is not unusual for citizens to address the government at Washington. Great corporations have their representatives there, always. The lobbyists are there, living in the best hotels, entertaining senators and representatives. Everybody knows why they are there, to GET SPECIAL FAVORS for special interests, special wording in a new tariff law, special exemptions for this, special remuneration for that.

Veterans of the big war, could hardly imagine that a government tolerating an army of well fed lobbyists, at the capitol, would reject with stupid brutality, a group of hungry men asking for justice.

The veterans asked for no special favors. They were out of work, their families in want. Their faces, their tattered clothing showed that 12 years after the war lack of work had reduced them to sad extremities.

They wanted first of all a job that they might work to live. And if they could not get such a job from the government that had promised so much, then they wanted payment of a bonus that had been promised, a little later.

That bonus represented no favor. It was partly in settlement of insurance that the men had paid for out of their small soldier wages.

It was partly a bonus to make up to them for the fact that they had been taken from their homes, exposed to hardships, in many cases gassing and wounds, for miserably small pay, while those left behind, for whom they were sent to fight, enjoyed the opportunities, high wages and prosperity of the war and the years after the war.

That bonus must have been paid to the men in any case under the law, in a short time. Payment was postponed, on the assumption that the soldiers, on their return from the war, would not need the money as much as they would a little later, when they were older.

As it turned out the depression has plunged them into poverty, jobs are lacking, they cannot be found.

The soldiers in Washington asked, respectfully, without threats, patiently accepting miserable food, and miserable living quarters:

"Kindly pay us now the money that you promise a little later, that we may feed our wives and our children and take care of ourselves."

The matter could have been settled easily, and happily, with great benefit to the country, had the government chosen to have it so.

The men's bonus could have been paid. The government has a gold reserve big enough to justify printing and distributing the amount of currency that would have paid them in full.

Those dollars would have been literally "as good as gold" with gold back of them.

And most important to national prosperity, the dollars paid to the men would have been put into circulation IMMEDIATELY, it would have been spent in every store, in every state in the union, in every city, town, village and countryside.

It would have gone from the soldiers to the storekeepers, from the storekeepers to the factory owners, from factory owners to workers, in wages. It would have been a blessing to the whole nation, a check to the depression, like scattering water at the roots of plants to check the evil effects of a drought.

It cannot be said that the government lacked money to pay soldiers.

It found hundreds of millions to reconstruct railroads and banks. It gave eighty million dollars of the people's money to one single bank, to keep that bank from trouble, and incidentally to keep its directors and stockholders from gigantic loss which would have followed.

The government has no difficulty in distributing hundreds of millions and billions of dollars through its "reconstruction finance" for those that SEEMED WORTHY OF ITS KINDNESS AND CARE.

But it had nothing for men that had gone across the ocean, to fight for the government's safety, taken from their homes, deprived of opportunity, that found themselves unhappy suppliants, at the government's door.

This does not imply helping of railroads, great business, and stabilizing banks by government credit is unwise.

BUT EVERY RIGHT MINDED AMERICAN WILL SAY that it is a blistering disgrace that the nation, so ready with its billions for those that have millions already, should say to its soldiers:

"Nothing for you, go home or I shall shoot you out of town."

It is not pleasant, perhaps, not necessary to review in detail treatment accorded former soldiers of the United States applying to their government for help. If an unworthy beggar should present himself at your door, you might say "no," but you would not kick him down the steps, especially if he were weak, and you were strong.

But that is how the great government of the United States has treated its former soldiers. It said "NO," then called out the Army and drove the men out of the city, some carrying in their arms children brought with them, their wives walking beside them, some pushing baby carriages, others carrying on their backs their few possessions, bedding, cooking utensils.

The men were unarmed. Soldiers were sent against them, with guns, bayonets, ammunition, and what is ABSOLUTELY UNBELIEVABLE United States troops marched against these former soldiers of the United States with tanks, and gas, the attacking soldiers, with gas masks on their faces, ready to deal death and suffocation with safety to themselves.

The nations of Europe, their public men and newspapers, deal ironically with this government's extraordinary display of brutality and stupidity. They remind the government at Washington that it has been violently objecting, before the League of Nations, to use of poison gas, and tanks in foreign warfare, and then suddenly turns and uses those weapons, poison gas and tanks, against its own men, those that it sent to fight in Europe.

That brutality can be explained only on the theory that some individual or some official body became frightened. Fear produces cruelty, always and fear blunders stupidity What was there to fear? What could men hungry, without weapons, do to frighten the authorities in Washington, backed up as they are by the Army, Navy and air forces and the poison gas containers.

For the time that most shameful incident in the history of the United States is closed. Unfortunately it will not be forgotten. Bitter remembrance will remain, with the thousands that were in Washington, and hundreds of thousands of former soldiers that sympathize with them.

It was bad enough to ignore the men asking for relief.

It was cruel enough to refuse them help, while handing out hundreds of millions of dollars to those whose knowledge of the war was confined to what they read in the newspapers or saw on the stock ticker. It was pushing cruelty too far, to submit men that had fought for their country to the humiliation of being driven like dogs from their nation's capital, by the Army to which they recently belonged.

Such blundering might do more to develop what we call "Bolshevism" than any depression, more to destroy confidence in government, than famine or plague.

Panics and plagues and famine can be overcome. But injustice is a sore that remains. When those men were shipped across the ocean, their wives, mothers, sisters, saw them go. Their government and public men expressed profound gratitude.

Never was their patriotism to be forgotten, never would the government feel that it could do enough for men that were ready to give all to their country.

They came home, endured want as long as they could, then called upon the government to make good some of its promises. And you know the reply. They were driven out with tanks, and tear gas, driven like a rabble, with no claim, no right to visit the capital of their own nation.

One of them in the process of "clearing out a nuisance," was shot dead. The body of that man should be buried alongside the body of "the Unknown Soldier." And over the corpse of the Soldier Number Two, these lines might be written:

Here, beside the Unknown Soldier, lies one whose name we know. We know whence he came, and how he died. He was killed because he asked the government he helped to help him.
